Brent Smith Wins OU Scholarship

BRENT SMITH

An Ohio University Achievement Scholarship has been awarded to Brent D. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Route 1, Stoutsville. A senior at Logan Elm High School, Smith will be able to renew his scholarship for up to four years. The award covers half his tuition.

Achievement scholarships are based on merit and not on need. Awardees must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their graduating class, have outstanding precollege test scores and have considerable participation in extracurricular activities.

Smith is vice president of the National Honor Society, a Merit Commended Scholar and is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." He also is a member of the bowling club, the scholarship team and the test your knowledge team. He plans to major in mathematics.

ROUNDTOWN

"BRIGADOON" has been selected by the musical committee of the Roundtown Players as the club's 1975-76 musical production. . .

Production dates have not been set, although the play will be presented on consecutive weekends.

THE Pickaway County Historical Society has completed the first of a series of planned window displays in keeping with the Bicentennial. . . It is in the window of the J. C. Penney Store, 141 W. Main St. . . Another interesting window display is in the window of Ullman's Flowers, 160 E. Franklin St. . .

Jim and Geneva Ullman have a display of family heirlooms on display, including some articles that were brought by the family when it came from Germany in the 19th century. . .

And while we're on the subject, don't forget the official Bicentennial kick-off 8 to 9 p.m. Saturday in the Coliseum at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. . .

An impressive program has been planned by Walton Spangler, Ned Harden and the rest of the county Bicentennial Committee.

Marijuana Bill Rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House has passed and sent the Senate a major bill designed to crack down on smut peddlers and conform state laws with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

However, as the smoke cleared Wednesday from two hours of non-partisan debate, some attorney-members of the chamber claimed new enforcement procedures would wreck even current laws.

Although some floor amendments made the bill stronger, both sides conceded, the main controversy was whether new language requiring prior court determinations—before arrests could be made—would hamstring police and prosecutors.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said the provision would prohibit local "crusaders" from harassing legitimate book stores, movie houses, and libraries and "keep them from hauling the local librarian into the clinker."

Rep. Joseph T. Tulley, R-59 Mentor, said the prior determination language "completely emasculates the bill." A floor amendment to delete the provision was tabled by a 47-46 vote. "It will be impossible to prosecute anyone."

Weather

Mostly sunny today and Friday, high, low 70s. Clear and cold tonight, low, mid 40s. High Friday, low 70s. Probability of precipitation, 10 per cent through Friday. Temperatures Wednesday were: high, 70; low, 46.

Phnom Penh Said 'Dead City'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last 550 foreigners trapped in Phnom Penh crossed into Thailand today and several painted a picture of a "dead city" littered with decomposing bodies and abandoned household goods, populated only by stray pets and Khmer Rouge soldiers.

However, earlier evacuees in accounts released today related mixed tales of killings and kindness from the Khmer Rouge victors, and one of the last women to arrive said soldiers escorting them gave them coconut milk and oranges all along the 200-mile road to the border.

In Bangkok, reliable sources reported that the U.S. government has imposed a freeze on any more Cambodian and Vietnamese refugees who want to go to the United States. An Embassy spokesman said he had no knowledge of any such directive from Washington.

In South Vietnam, where the new government resumed communications with the outside world, Associated Press writers George Esper and Peter Arnett reported they were able to move about freely and tried to interview Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra, chairman of the military administration committee for Saigon under the new regime.

Esper said the North Vietnamese guards at Independence Palace were polite and let them through the outer gates with nothing more to show than their name cards, something that would never have happened under ex-President Nguyen Van Thieu.

They did meet a general, but an interpreter said he could not give an interview because he did not speak English.

The first foreigner to cross the small "Freedom Bridge" into the Thai town of Aranyaprathet was a month-old French baby carried by a Thai Red Cross nurse. The infant was being fed intravenously. Its mother was the next across.

The evacuees, surrounded by baggage, looked disheveled as they lined up to cross the bridge in the very hot weather. Many were unshaven and said they had not changed their clothing on the trip.

Officials said the convoy of more than 20 trucks contained 230 French citizens, 200 Pakistanis and about 120 persons of other nationality including four Americans. Previous reports had said five U.S. citizens had remained behind in Phnom Penh after the first evacuation convoy brought out 585 foreigners Saturday.

The Americans were not immediately identified.

Only about 250 foreigners had been expected in the second convoy but French special envoy Marc Bonnefous said more had been picked up during the four-day journey.

Bonnefous said all the evacuees but one were in good health, an elderly French evacuee who made the 200-mile-plus trip in an ambulance and was seriously ill.

One French woman said "the Khmer Rouge provided enough food to all the foreigners in this group. We didn't have any trouble at all on the way. They gave us coconut milk and oranges every time we stopped."

Officials at the border said no one was left at the French Embassy where many of the group had taken refuge.

Red Cross doctors, Thai immigration officials and French diplomats were waiting to receive the group and take most of them to Bangkok.

Associated Press writers Denis D. Gray and Chhay Born Lay said foreigners among the first batch out Saturday told of executions in the streets and forced marches of people from the cities after the Khmer Rouge takeover. But they also spoke of kindness from the victorious rebels that enabled the evacuees to survive.

Douglas August Sapper III, a Vietnam veteran and vice president of a transport company who stayed behind after the U.S. evacuation of Phnom Penh to help people who had worked for him, said: "There were crowds of people on the rooftops and in the streets looking up to see the American helicopters do their air show in the sky. The Cambodians thought the U.S. Marines were coming to save Phnom Penh and acted as if they had just discovered a miracle cure for a terminal disease."

In the interest of the safety of those left behind, the accounts were not released until the final convoy entered Thailand.

A Saigon radio broadcast monitored in Bangkok said the Saigon general post office would relay ordinary telegrams to any part of North Vietnam and telex messages could be sent anywhere in the world.

Newsman and photographers, both Vietnamese and foreign, must get press cards and letters of authorization from the metropolitan military committee, the broadcast said.

The radio said international letters could not be sent yet, but it said mail service within the two Vietnams had been restored.

In Laos, the two opposing sides in the coalition government signed an agreement to stop the clashes between the Vientiane and Pathet Lao forces that had disrupted the cease-fire there since mid-April, government sources said.

The agreement followed a cabinet meeting called to discuss a fresh outbreak on Route 13, the road to the royal capital of Luang Prabang, north of Vientiane. Military sources had reported that Pathet Lao troops backed by four tanks pushed rightist forces southward 17 miles from the key road junction at Phou Koun.

AP newsmen Gray and Lay interviewed returning foreigners from the first convoy out of Cambodia.

The refugees said there were a few hours of relief, almost elation, as the Communist-led Khmer Rouge rebels swept into Phnom Penh on April 17 to the hurrahs and waving banners of the war-weary populace. But this was followed abruptly by alarm in the city, the ordeal of the foreigners trapped inside the French Embassy with little food, foul water and uncertainty about their fate.

Ohio House Takes Up Student Rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An extensively-redrafted bill guaranteeing Ohio's public school pupils their right to due process in suspension and expulsion proceedings has been recommended for passage by the House Education Committee.

The bill grew out of a 1974 U.S. Supreme Court decision that said students could not be suspended without a hearing as required under constitutional due process. The same opinion left pre-expulsion procedures in doubt.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, who sought but failed to get a bill through the legislature last year, is sponsor of the pending measure which guarantees students' rights to hearings for suspensions or expulsions.

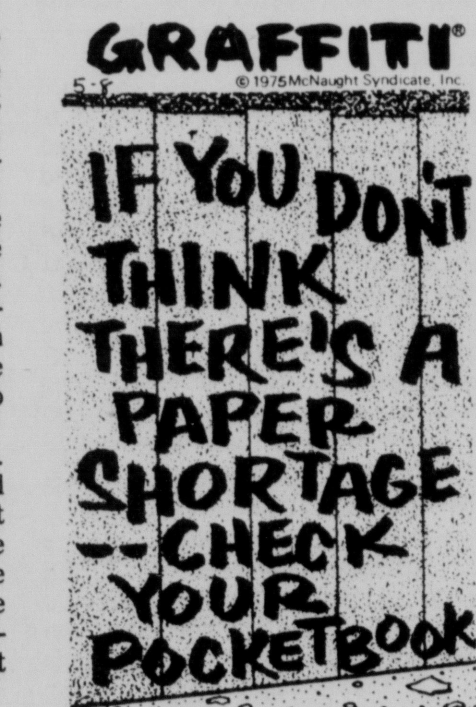

This year's bill is simpler than the last one, avoiding the broader social question of how to deal with students expelled from schools and "thrown out on to the streets." With those proposed remedies gone from his bill, Speck said Wednesday night the opposition to the measure "is more muted."

In other legislative activity Wednesday:

The House debated two hours and then approved 54-38 a bill that assertedly conforms Ohio statutes to recent U.S. Supreme Court anti-obscenity decisions. Opponents argued heatedly the new law would do little more than create insurmountable enforcement problems.

Across the Statehouse, the Senate debated at length, but then passed 32-0 still another measure aimed at overcoming court decisions. It spells out procedures for committing ascertained insane felons to institutions. Sponsors said it was needed under present laws which contain no provisions to commit prisoners unlikely to regain their sanity in time to stand trial.

A Democrat-controlled subcommittee announced agreement on a $10.7 billion state budget bill, sending it to a meeting today of the full House Finance-Appropriations Committee.

Bad Weather Hurts U.S. Farm Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Subnormal temperatures and rainsoaked fields have delayed spring planting of corn and other crops, raising fears that the nation's grain production may be in for another jolt from poor weather this year.

"In summary, farmers are again facing potentially serious problems in planting," a government report said Wednesday. "However, the soil moisture situation appears good to excellent in most areas except in the Western Great Plains."

The immediate concern is the lag in planting the corn crop, particularly in the Midwestern corn belt. Rain means a soil reserve of moisture against temporary dry weather this summer, but first the crop must be planted.

By May 4, the report noted, only 13 per cent of the corn crop nationally had been planted, compared with 31 per cent last year and an average rate of 21 per cent by this time.

The report, issued by the Agriculture Department in cooperation with the Commerce Department, said, "The weather during the next four weeks will be extremely important" to crop production this year.

A year ago, farmers had made a fast start on corn planting but heavy rains continued for weeks, causing field damage and extensive replanting where possible well into June.

Drought last summer reduced yields in much of the corn belt and early freezes last fall killed much corn which had not matured enough for harvest. Production last year, 4.7 billion bushels, was far short of expectations.

Experts in USDA, cautious about making flat predictions say the 1975 corn crop — the key to so much of what Americans eat, including beef, pork, poultry and milk — could range up to a record 6.4 billion bushels, if the weather is normal.

The report Wednesday said, "A few days of warm, sunny weather" would warm soil quickly and allow many farmers to catch up.

Republicans served notice they will fight changes made by the majority party in the measure submitted to the legislature in mid-March by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Speck's bill, dealing with suspensions and expulsions has the endorsement of the Ohio Education Association. The measure spells out procedures for student hearings that include prior written or oral notice to students in expulsion cases and written notice to parents or guardians in cases in which expulsion is intended.

Castro Bids For U.S. Detente

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro has strongly urged Washington to ease its trade embargo with Cuba, denied any Cuban role in the

Ford Stand On Gun Curbs Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of those who favor gun control object to President Ford's decision not to recommend handgun registration and say registration is a compromise approach compared to proposals calling for a flat ban on the manufacture of cheap handguns.

On the other hand, a major opponent of gun controls, the National Rifle Association, said Wednesday it was heartened by Ford's statement on gun control at his Tuesday night news conference.

Ford said he "was not going to recommend the registration of gun owners and I am not going to recommend the registration of guns or handguns. . . If we can find some responsible ways to do it other than that approach, we certainly will consider them."

A congressional expert on gun control said Ford was still looking at the gun control issue "the same way as when he was a representative and registration was an extreme."

"That's not right," he continued. "Extreme is the Hart-Bingham bill. Registration is the compromise."

That bill introduced by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., includes language that would ban the manufacture, sale, transportation and ownership of handguns.

assassination of John F. Kennedy and charged that the CIA was behind a number of attempts on his own life.

But looking into American television cameras, Castro pointedly said in English, "We wish friendship. We belong to two different worlds but we are neighbors. One way or another we owe it to ourselves to live in peace."

The Cuban prime minister held a news conference Wednesday night between private sessions with visiting Sen. George McGovern.

Castro said he felt President Richard M. Nixon had "a personal hostility against Cuba and many counterrevolutionary friends" but he added, "President Ford does not have any personal hostility."

"The fact that the Vietnam war is over helps to improve relations. It was very difficult during the war to improve relations" because Cuba strongly opposed America's policy, Castro said.

Earlier, the bearded leader took the wheel of a jeep and roared around the hilly countryside to show the senator and Mrs. McGovern a rum factory and several farm and housing projects.

Castro told the news conference, "We prefer a total lifting" of the 13-year-old U.S. trade embargo, but he added that resumption of shipments to Cuba of food and medicine "will help a lot."

He said he felt Washington should reciprocate with an "important step" to match his gesture in signing an agreement with the United States that virtually eliminated a wave of hijackings to Cuba. He said, "We believe this gesture has not been sufficiently" matched by the United States.

Castro and his associates have demanded a relaxation of the boycott before the two countries can negotiate other friction points such as release of within 72 hours on either the issue of expulsion or suspension.

Decisions would be appealable to the board of education or its designated agent.

Speck said his bill last year drew opposition because of provisions that called for in-house suspension for students unable to perform in normal classroom situations, and also suggested that school systems devise alternative forms of education.

"If we are going to suspend and expell, we also should provide some alternatives," he said.

U.S. prisoners in Cuban jails and compensation for $1.8 billion in U.S. property expropriated after Castro seized power.

Castro pointed out that Cuba "does not have any blockade against the United States and no military base in Florida."

On the Kennedy assassination, Castro said any Cuban role in the slaying of a U.S. president would be "absurd, irresponsible, crazy — and a very dangerous measure. . . It would have been stupid on the part of Cuba to associate itself in a matter of such tremendous moment as the assassination of a president of the United States."

However, he said "it is not news for us" that the CIA was involved in various attempt to kill him and other leaders of the 1959 Cuban revolution.

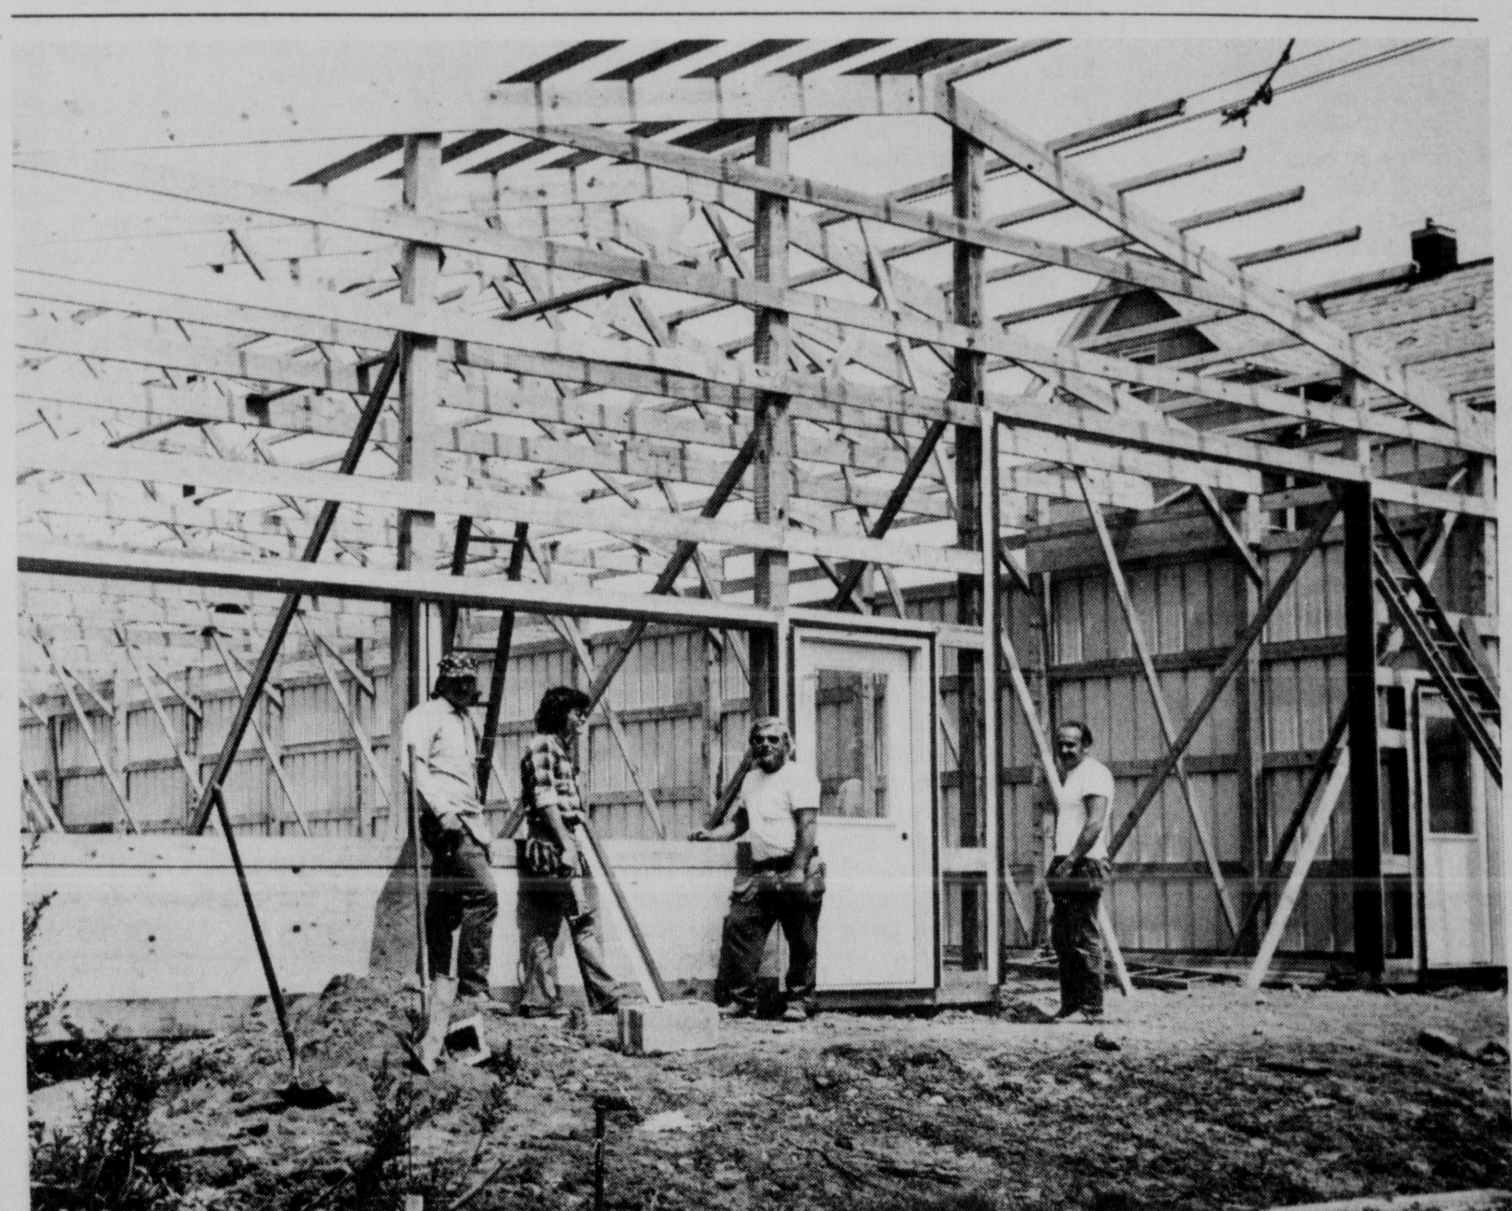

Castro said that "for many years" his security forces had uncovered plots against his regime, and in many cases those sent were trained by the CIA, maintained and armed by the CIA, and in some cases the weapons used were "smuggled out of the Guantanamo Naval Base."

Chrysler Studies Plant Shutdowns

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. may shut down four or more of its six U.S. assembly plants for extended periods this summer, the Wall Street Journal said today.

Each plant could be shut down for a total of six weeks, the newspaper said.

The company denies it has such plans, but the newspaper said sources have told it that the tentative Chrysler shutdown plans hinge on the success or failure of the automaker's new $200 cash rebate sales plan to stimulate sales of its compact cars and vans.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were scattered over a wide range today, with blue chips leading the losers amid some renewed concern over inflation.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials declined 4.93 to 831.51 after being little changed in the opening hour. Advances maintained a moderate lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Traders apparently were disturbed by news as the market opened that the government's wholesale price index in April was up 1.5 per cent, reversing four consecutive months of price drops.

Houston Lighting & Power, the most active Big Board issue, was up 1/4 to 20 3/4, including a 240,900-share block at 20 1/2.

The NYSE's composite stock index dipped 0.10 to 47.03, while the American Exchange's market value index added 0.12 to 86.23.

On the Amex, the most active issue, U.S. Filter, rose 1/2 to 9 3/4.

Europe Recalls End Of World War

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Europe today marked the 30th anniversary of the Allied defeat of Nazi Germany with wreaths, parades, speeches, and the Soviet Union declared an amnesty for war veterans.

The Kremlin said it would release an undisclosed number of Russians from jails and labor camps under a decree timed to coincide with the celebrations of the end of World War II in Europe.

In Czechoslovakia, occupied by Hitler's forces before the war began in 1939, the Communist party central committee met in Prague Castle for a V-E day ceremony. Speakers including party leader Gustav Husak praised the Soviet army for liberating the country.

But no mention was made of the American troops who liberated parts of the country to within 20 miles of Prague.

News reports said there was little jubilation among the Czechs on the anniversary.

East Germany's Communist party daily Neues Deutschland proclaimed on the anniversary: "We may count ourselves among the victors of history." Official celebrations were planned for Friday.

West Germany marked VE Day on Wednesday with a state commemoration led by President Walter Scheel. But the leadership of the opposition Christian Democrats, who feel such ceremonies are no longer necessary, did not attend.

Scheel said in Bonn: "Our former enemies celebrate (V-E day.) The sacrifices they made for their victory over injustice certainly entitle them to do so. We remember their sacrifices and all the dead of the war with profound respect. We do not forget that the liberation came from outside."

More than 35 million people, military and civilian, died in Europe during World War II — 20 million in the Soviet Union, four million Germans and 1.6 million among the Western allies.

The British government officially ignored the anniversary of V-E Day — when Nazi Germany surrendered to the Allies to end World War II in

Train Derails

One car of a 142 N & W Railroad train derailed at the Clinton St. crossing Wednesday due to an apparent equipment breakage.

According to Engineer Lowell Liston, an auto rack draw bar on one of the cars broke while he was pulling the train across the crossing, causing the derailment.

Circleville Police said no one was injured.

Thefts Checked

Circleville Police are investigating two theft reports.

Lawrence Lewis, business manager of the Community United Methodist Church, 120 N. Pickaway St., told police that thieves entered the church last weekend and took a Lloyd's Stereo unit from an unlocked cabinet in one of the classrooms.

The unit is valued at $180.

Sydney Sanders, 571 Garden Parkway, told officers that thieves entered his garage to take a tackle box and assorted lures.

Europe. No special ceremonies were scheduled.

In France, President Giscard d'Estaing, a war veteran, took the salute Wednesday night at a military parade at Mourmelon army camp in the Marne. The 7,000 troops massed for inspection by Giscard included his old outfit, the 2nd Regiment of Dragons in which he was a corporal at the end of the war.

The only reference to the anniversary in British newspapers was an editorial in the Guardian headlined "Look Back in Agony." It declared that war is futile "and this is one thing the survivors (of World War II) and their children need to remember, lest any of them should be misled again by military bands and a madman as the Germans were in the 1930s. But they should also remember the dead, other peoples as well as their own, if only so as to understand the resentments which can still move nations."

Swedish engineers are forced to blast underground stations out of solid granite as they extend Stockholm's subway to the city suburbs. They are surprised to find these "cave" stations cost only one-fifth as much as regular stations built with prestressed concrete.

Commercial Point Gets Federal Grant

Congressman William H. Harsha announced today that the Environmental Protection Agency has awarded a $5,850 grant to the Village of Commercial Point, Ohio.

The grant is for a facilities plan for waste water treatment construction. Total eligible cost of the project is $7,800 with federal funding providing 75 per cent of the cost.

Thieves Take Tires, Wheels

Jeffrey L. Sprague, Columbus, told Sheriff's authorities that thieves took four tires and wheels from his car parked at Ray Christian's Garage, Route 1, Orient.

Sprague had taken the 1969 car to the garage to have some work done when the incident occurred, Tuesday or Wednesday.

DNR Grants Help Equip Fire Units

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources (DNR) today announced a grant program that will allow rural fire departments in Ohio to purchase fire equipment with the aid of federal matching funds.

The Rural Development Act of 1972 authorizes up to 50 per cent federal funding for fire equipment to serve communities under 10,000 people.

Ohio has been allotted $101,000 in federal funds for this year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. DNR's Division of Forestry will allocate the money in increments which cannot exceed $22,500.

"We're happy to assist the federal government in distributing funds to upgrade rural fire protection," said Ernest J. Gebhart, Chief of the Forestry Division.

"Many times rural fire departments are called on to fight forest or grass fires."

The federal funds may be used to purchase smoke detectors for rural residences, alarm and dispatching systems, protective clothing, and equipment essential to increase fire protection capabilities.

Priority will be given to communities which have applied for loans through the Farmers Home Administration to construct fire department buildings or water systems.

Applications for the federal grants may be obtained from the Division of Forestry, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224. The applications must be returned to the Forestry Division by June 2 to qualify for funding during 1975.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One major bill pending in the Ohio Senate seeks to assure the public its right to know, while another protects citizens' rights to keep certain things private.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, talked about his own "right to privacy act" and another that prohibits public agencies from conducting business in closed meetings.

"It is important to recognize that the sunshine law and the privacy law are not in conflict," he said.

Aronoff's measure states that when a citizen gives personal information to a government agency he can expect that it will not be used for other unrelated purposes.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, is chief sponsor of the so-called sunshine law, which does away with the practice of public bodies meeting privately to make decisions that affect people's general welfare.

Aronoff said each proposal addresses itself to "a cherished right which has been distorted in recent times."

"There is little doubt that government secrecy should not be permitted," said Aronoff. "On the other hand, neither the public in general nor an individual snooper has the right to know sensitive and personal information that is collected about you by various governmental agencies as a prerequisite to delivering a service."

Under Aronoff's bill, agencies would not be permitted to disseminate information about such things as a citizen's tax records, earnings, school history, arrests, birth, marriage, health, mortgages and military service.

The measure also gives a citizen the right to see, amend and correct his computer-kept records, and establishes a "code of fair information practices" that would have to be observed by record keepers.

Freeman's bill, in effect, would invalidate any decision made by an agency of state or local government at a closed meeting. It does make some exceptions — most of which emerged from lengthy discussions and negotiations in a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

Among exceptions are parole board hearings, labor negotiations, meetings at which an agency is receiving legal advice from its bona fide counsel, those that involve real estate transactions or security arrangements, and political party caucuses such as those frequently held in the legislature.

The subcommittee insisted on keeping caucuses closed, Freeman said, "but I knew if I didn't go along with it I'd probably sink the bill."

Aronoff had to overcome a substantial obstacle as well, exempting private business and industry from his privacy measure — primarily because of the awesome lobbying strength of Ohio's retailers.

Both lawmakers indicated that if their measures pass as they are now, both will be back later to try to strengthen them.

A Page Of Opinion

Secret Of Life

One of the life processes which long has fascinated science, and about which little real progress toward understanding had been made until recently, was the genetic code. Oh, yes, scientists knew that genes were the means of passing hereditary traits from generation to generation. They also were able to identify different types of genes, and gave them names.

But the more they found out about genes, the more puzzling the exact nature of the genetic code became. For instance, it was discovered that the same kinds of genes lived in each cell, about 3 million to the cell.

What was it then that made the various cells different? Also, it was discovered that a large number of the genes in any cell remain inactive, performing apparently no function.

Other genes were turned on or off by some unidentified control, performing functions as needed. For years, researchers labored over these points. The key to the genetic code lay within this puzzle.

As frequently happens, science devised a possible answer to fit the puzzle. Two French scientists won the Nobel Prize for proposing that thousands of the genes in each cell were there to perform no function except to regulate the other genes.

Later, two Harvard scientists succeeded in isolating two repressor chemicals believed to have been produced by the regulator genes in bacteria.

Soon, an understanding of the gene complex in a particular cell will be possible. After that, the complete genetic code of life will unfold.

Man soon will be faced by the problem some scientists fear most: What to do with the knowledge once man knows how to control, change and experiment with hereditary traits.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, May 8, the 128th day of 1975. There are 237 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced in a broadcast that World War II was over in Europe.

On this date — In 1541, the Spanish explorer, Hernando de Soto, discovered the Mississippi River at a point near the present city of Memphis, Tenn.

In 1846, the first battle of the Mexican war was fought at Palo Alto, Tex.

In 1884, the 33rd American President, Harry Truman, was born on a farm near Lamar, Miss.

In 1939, Spain withdrew from the League of Nations.

In 1942, the Pacific War Battle of the Coral Sea ended in a victory for the Allied nations.

In 1958, anti-American demonstrators were abusive to Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon during a visit to Lima, Peru.

Ten years ago: There was widespread rioting in Kashmir after the leader of Kashmiri Moslems, Sheikh Mohammed Abdullah, was arrested during a stopover in New Delhi, India.

Five years ago: President Nixon held a news conference in which he defended an American incursion into Cambodia and said U.S. forces would be pulled out shortly.

One year ago: Canadian Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau's government was toppled in a budget dispute, paving the way for parliamentary elections in Canada.

Today's birthday: Italian movie director Roberto Rossellini is 69. Writer Theodore Sorenson is 47.

Thought for today: If mankind had wished for what is right, they might have had it long ago — William Hazlitt, English essayist, 1778-1830.

Bicentennial footnote: It was 200 years ago today that news of the battles of Lexington and Concord reached Charleston, S.C.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I once accidentally stabbed my chin with a sharp pencil. The black spot remains. Is there any way it can be removed?

Miss J. K., Ohio

Dear Miss K.: The lead from a pencil injury can deposit pigment which is exactly like a deep tattoo mark.

The aim of any method of removal is to liberate the pigment. Sometimes, surgery is used. Occasionally, dermabrasion (sandpapering) of the site may accomplish this.

Recently, in a physicians' magazine, "Consultant," Dr. Marshall B. Guthrie, of the University of Pennsylvania, made an interesting suggestion for the removal of such pigment. He said, "I follow a technique first described by Dr. F. M. Crittenden, Jr. who suggested that wet table salt be rubbed into the tattoo area until slight bleeding occurs.

"A sterile dressing is then applied. After a week, a crust will form that contains much of the pigment. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment in six weeks, to remove all of the pigment."

It is an interesting idea, but certainly should not be tried by anyone other than a doctor.

Note that this method is suggested

only for a single pencil stab. It should not be used to remove large tattoo marks.

I have a hole in my nasal septum. Can this be repaired?
Mrs. A. W., La.

Dear Mrs. W.:

Septal perforations may be caused by chronic nose picking. They occasionally follow difficult operations on the septum. In rare instances, a perforation may be due to a birth defect. Crusting and dryness of the nose, especially around the hole you describe, makes surgical repair difficult.

Poor blood supply around the edges of the opening is also responsible for difficulty in using grafts in this area.

Each case must be individually evaluated before surgery is contemplated. In general, the results have not been as gratifying as they should be.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . .

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — One of the first Vietcong mortars into Saigon hit the roof of the Majestic Hotel. It burned out the top two floors of this blowy relic of French imperialism, which means it erased the bar and observation lounge. No harm, apparently, was done to the ground floor office of the Vietnamese Tourist Bureau, which until relatively lately had still been in business. ("See Beautiful Vietnam.")

At the height of the American build-up as many as 30,000 tourists were showing up in Saigon each year, many of them come to see their sons, husbands, brothers, fiancées.

It was a part of the surrealism of the whole crazed undeclared war.

Wonder if the Caravelle, the best hotel in Saigon, will continue to feature its souffle jambon, so light and fragile that it almost seemed to need a paperweight to keep it from escaping? Who'll wind up in the fine Pan Am offices at tumultuous Tansonnhut? Do the Japanese and West Germans still have a claim to the lens-making silicon in the sands of Vietnam's superb beaches? Which Vietcong general has inherited the posh mountain-side VIP quarters once used by U.S. Marine generals in the hills above Da Nang? The club could be reached only by helicopter, which must have made it the most exclusive in the world.

Estimates of the original cost of the mountains of American-made arms now in the hands of the Vietcong run as high as $10 billion. Who knows? — the Vietcong may become our competitor in sales of guns, tanks, troop carriers, trucks, helicopters and jets to the rearming nations of the world. Stranger things have happened. One thing is certain: the captured hardware of the war will not be turned into plowshares.

Who is sleeping in my room at Da Nang's press headquarters, a pleasantly flowered complex which had been — before Dienbienphu — a brothel for French troops? What happened to the bar, the cafeteria, (where I last saw the great correspondent Jim Lucas and his broken leg) and all those P-4's, C-130's, fighter-choppers — bombs, bullets and the napalm?

What's now with the installations at Bien Hao, where I had two great frights? One was an F-100 mission which included a burst through the speed of sound. The other was being introduced to the mascot of one of the American fighter pilots. The mascot was draped along about 15 feet of scaffolding in the barracks. It was a boa constrictor.

Not all the booty the Vietcong now owns is something that goes "bang!"

when the trigger is pulled. We built superb highways for the losers, bridged rivers, dug deep-water ports, installed plumbing, hygiene, raised great cranes and derricks to handle sea cargoes, spread miles of thick runways, put up fine hospitals and, in Saigon itself, a string of 17 mortuaries for the 55,000 Americans dead.

Gone with the wind . . .

Could our side have won the war? Barry Goldwater thinks we could have if we had not handcuffed ourselves. For years we let the Russian freighters deliver the goods of war to Haiphong and the Chinese overland it by rail and truck to Hanoi. We wanted no trouble with either of them; indeed, nervous allies on the fringes of the two big Communist powers implored caution and restraint.

Gen. William Westmoreland was sure we were winning. In an interview with him in his office one day at "Pentagon East" on the edge of Saigon, the general produced charts indicating that U.S. and South Vietnam troops were killing the other side at the appalling rate of 17-to-1. He showed us a sample of those odds one early Sunday morning at Tansonnhut. There had been several Vietcong raids the night before against U.S. planes parked there. They had been repulsed by American machinegun fire from sandbag fortifications on the base.

The general's helicopter landed among the Vietcong dead, sprawled and torn in the dawn's early light. The prop-wash caused their tattered black clothing to flutter. One of them, who couldn't have been more than 14 or 15, had been shot out of his sandals. He had courageously charged within a few yards of the searing fire. Another dead man wore a fresh bandage on an arm wound. Obviously, he had been wounded in one charge, had dropped back into the bush for medical aid, and had gone back into the fray to die.

The late Gen. Creighton Abrams also believed we were winning and illustrated it one day in his office with an account of how the B-52's had perfected pin-point bombing to such a degree, even at night, that they could wipe out attacking troops without hitting besieged Americans a few hundred yards away. He must not have told the attacking troops.

Vice President Ky told us, with a placid smile, "We expect a signal from the North, saying they've given up. You'll be the first we'll tell." But when Bill Hearst asked an American field general, "How will you know when you've won?" the general scratched and said, after a long pause, "Never thought of that. Damned if I know."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A year or so ago some of the nation's small businessmen decided they had taken enough. Through the National Small Business Association they vented their outrage.

"We have condoned and inadvertently encouraged the manipulation of the national economy for the benefit of the big, and at the expense of the small," the association said of Americans in general.

The fiery emotions may have cooled since then, but the determination is firm. This year the small businessmen have tasted victory in a small way, and they want more.

The victory was the Emergency Tax Reduction Act. "For small business, that act was the first forward moving tax measure since 1958," the association said. "Our process of government worked well — if 17 years late."

The two major aspects of that victory were:

—For companies which earn less than $25,000, a cut in the tax rate to 20 per cent from 22 per cent.

—For companies earning more than $25,000 but less than $50,000 pretax, a reduction of the tax rate to 22 per cent from 48 per cent.

Other concessions also were won, but the businessmen say they've still got a lot to do before overcoming what they feel is a continued governmental bias toward big business.

In numbers, says the association, small business — the definition varies; in manufacturing it means a company employing fewer than 500 — is holding its own. "Its 10.5 million firms are 98 per cent of the country's total business units, making jobs for 65 per cent of the nongovernment work force."

But it adds, "In market share, assets and profits, small business is losing ground disastrously." And one of the reasons, they maintain, lies in the operation of the tax system.

"We need permanent, longterm changes in the tax code," says Milton Stewart, president, pointing out that the recently enacted tax relief is only temporary. And he doesn't disguise his belief that small business should be a major beneficiary.

Stewart refers to a report by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, which suggests that the present tax system is choking entrepreneurship, risk-taking and individual effort.

Airline Looking For Dope Smugglers

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — East African Airways, the airline jointly operated by Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, has launched a crackdown on employees involved in smuggling of narcotics.

Several airline employees have been charged in recent months with smuggling marijuana from Kenya to Britain.

The airline's director-general, Col. G. W. Toko, of Uganda, has asked associations representing flight crew and cabin staff for their assistance in reporting any of their members suspected of being involved in drug trafficking.

Grange News

POMONA GRANGE
Leona Berger of Scioto Valley Grange was accompanist at the spring meeting of Pomona Grange Held May 2 at the 4-H and Grange Building.

The presiding master was Frank Lands, member of Washington Grange and state grange deputy for Pickaway County. Saltcreek Valley Grange had the most members present.

New members received were: Blanche Kern, Saltcreek; Don Forquer, Nebraska; Myra Rinehart, Washington; Everett and Clara Shriver, Scioto Valley.

The lecturer, Paul Dunkle, announced that Diana Lands would be in charge of the program for the August Pomona to be presented by the lecturers of the seven subordinate granges. He also reported the annual state grange lecturers conference is scheduled for the Canton area in November.

Plans were made for serving meals during the county fair. Mrs. Lands will be coordinating this project with the CWA chairmen of each grange.

Resolutions of respect were prepared and read for Alice Dick who was a member of Star Grange.

Winners of the baking and sewing contest were announced. Judy Sims, home economics teacher at Logan Elm was the judge. For the baking entry, Marie Reed, Star Grange was first, Atwood of Mt. Pleasant Grange was second and Mary Bozman of Scioto Valley was third.

For the sewing entry, Donna Beougher of Saltcreek Valley was first, Lydia DeLong of Washington Grange was second, and Vonna Rasor of Scioto Valley was third.

For the junior entry, Holly Hastings was first in the 5 to 9 year old section and Jan Gulick first in the 10 to 17 year old. Both are from Scioto Valley Grange.

"Where Does One Start" was the theme for the program.

Harold Hewitt, director of the Pickaway County Family YMCA, and Carson Schaeffer, assistant chairman for the building campaign, explained the growth of the local Y since its beginning in 1968.

Saltcreek Valley hosted the social hour.

Nuns Near God In Hocking Hills

LOGAN, Ohio (AP)—They slop around in the barnyard muck in their rubber boots, blue jeans and flannel shirts, doing the chores like farmers since the beginning.

But, these are different farmers. They're nuns — Sister Mary and Sister Nancy of the Order of St. Francis.

Their problem in the Hocking hills isn't a lack of religious response to their mission, the rustic living in their ancient farmhouse or living in the secular world. The problem is trying to balance the scales with the people in southern Ohio.

RESOLUTION NO. 47-75
A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE TO COOPERATE AND TO ENTER INTO NECESSARY AGREEMENTS WITH THE PICKAWAY COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR PARTICIPATION IN THE COMPREHENSIVE EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ACT OF 1973 PRESENTLY BEING ADMINISTERED BY THE SAID COMMISSIONERS.

WHEREAS, the Federal Government through Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA) and subsequent amendments has provided monies for emergency public service jobs, and

"We find that we have received so much more from these people than we will ever be able to return," said Sister Nancy.

Some of the people around the area would argue with that. They find the two sisters extend their religious message in many ways — a basket of fresh eggs, produce from their carefully tended garden, a cheery smile, a sympathetic word.

It's all a part of an attempt by Sister Nancy and Sister Mary to live a life closer to that of the founder of their order, St. Francis. That's why they left the convent.

"While we lived at the convent," said Sister Nancy, "all our basic needs were provided. We had all that was necessary and many things that I considered luxuries."

Pledged to poverty, the two felt they had to live closer to nature and to God to fulfill their vows. Although none of the 400 sisters in the Buffalo, N.Y., convent lived outside, their plan was accepted.

They arrived in Hocking County without a place to live. The pre-arranged housing didn't materialize. But, in three days they found the farm on which they now live.

The well had to be cleaned and repaired before the one pump could supply safe water. The ruin of the barn was salvaged for paneling to keep the elements out of the rundown house, for shelves and partitioning for upstairs. They bought stoves for heating.

The first summer was limited to establishing a garden. This year they added a flock of chickens and two hogs. Any profit from pork and eggs will be used to increase the livestock and to buy feed.

The two sisters are self-supporting. They receive no help from the provincial headquarters of their order and one half of all they earn goes back to help maintain the order.

Mornings Sister Mary works for the Gompf Greenhouse and afternoons she does the chores. Sister Nancy is a teacher at Union Furnace Elementary School, working with students needing special education.

"It's like closing your eyes and pretending you are blind," said Sister Nancy. "You know you can really see. Our living here is quite the same. We know that if we get into problems we can write the Motherhouse and get bailed out."

"But, I do feel that we are better able to serve God living among His people. We do experience the same trials that they must encounter and we, therefore, are better able to be more sympathetic and understanding."

"We feel that God is with us all the way in this mission."

Koch-DeLong Wedding Vows Repeated In Calvary Church

MRS. DANIEL ALAN DeLONG

Miss Marilyn Louise Koch and Mr. Daniel Alan DeLong were united in marriage 7:30 p.m., April 26th in Calvary United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Roy C. Osborn officiated the double ring, candlelight service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Koch, 423 S. Pickaway St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale DeLong, 590 Ridgewood Drive.

Two baskets with arrangements of gladioli, daisies and carnations graced the front of the church and at the Communion table was placed the wedding candle and an arrangement of carnations and daisies. Candelabra flanked the altar and tapers were in the windows of the church.

Mrs. Earl Millrons, organist, and Mr. Bob Bensonhaver, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony including, "Twelfth Of Never," "Cherish," "Close To You," "Love Story," "Speak Softly," "O, Perfect Love," "If" and "Colour My World." "The Wedding Prayer" was sung during the service and after the ceremony "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, selected for her wedding a full length gown of white sheer mist over silk illusion and bridal polyester. The bodice of reem-broidered imported lace was hand sewn with seed pearls and glass crystals. The bridal polyester was repeated in the graceful A-line skirt, sweeping into a chapel length sheer mist train. The sleeves were accented with hand sewn lace motifs and the wrists with sheer ruffles. The lace and pearls were at the neckline and the three tiered silk illusion madonna veil was bordered with hand sewn imported scalloped lace and featured seed pearls at the top. She carried a bouquet of dyed carnations in the rainbow colors of the wedding theme with accents of daisies, red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Debbie Green served as maid of honor. She wore a floor length empire styled gown of spring green dotted swiss with short puffed sleeves and a large ruffle at the hemline. Her gown was coordinated with green polyester reem-broidered lace and tied in a bow at the back. She wore a matching straw hat and a seed pearl necklace, a gift of the bride. Her bouquet of carnations matching her gown was interspersed with daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Doris Koch, sister of the bride; Miss Debbie Koch and Miss Ann Myers. They were attired in pink, blue and yellow dotted swiss matching that of the honor attendant as were their hats. They also wore seed pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride and carried bouquets of carnations matching their gowns with daisies and baby's breath. Mrs. Tim Bowers presided at the guest book.

Miss Jodi Russell was flower girl and Master David Koch, the page.

Mr. Jeff Harr served as best man and Mr. David DeLong, brother of the bridegroom; Mr. Joe Koch, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gary Scherer were ushers.

Mrs. Koch wore an aquamarine floor length gown with matching accessories and a corsage of aqua carnations with yellow, pink and blue daisies.

Mrs. DeLong was attired in a pale yellow floor length gown with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations with pink, blue and yellow daisies.

A reception in the church annex immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth with daisies and fern decorating the candles, flanking the four tiered cake. The cake was decorated with yellow, pink and blue daisies, and topped with a kissing couple seated on a park bench.

Hostesses were Mrs. Gary Dean, Miss Kathy Penn, Miss Cheryl Kauderer, Miss Mary Ann Smith and Miss Annette McClure.

For a wedding trip to Atlanta and Callaway Gardens in Georgia, the bride wore a three-piece green dotted double knit suit with scarf and matching accessories. The couple now resides at Route 3, Circleville.

The bride graduated from Circleville High School and is employed by State Automobile Mutual Insurance Co. in

CHS Plans Spring Art Show

The Circus is coming to Circleville High School. Circus clowns can be seen everywhere along with circus animals, trapeze artists, bare-back riders, and even a trained seal. All these interesting characters, and more, will be on display at the CHS Spring Art Show, this Friday evening. The art students have chosen "The Circus" as the theme for this year's show. They have painted larger-than-life circus figures to adorn the show. Many of the students plan to deck themselves out in clown costumes for the pleasure of the youngsters attending the show.

The CHS Spring Art Show will be held in conjunction with the band concert and smorgasbord at Circleville High School on Friday evening. The art work will be on display between the hours of 5 and 10 p.m.

Judging the art work will be local artist Betty Griffith and Ju-lea McQuain, of Ashville. Both are members of the Art League. Ribbons will be awarded by the judges. Areas to be considered will be batik, ceramics, drawing, jewelry, painting, printing, three-dimensional, mixed-media, and weaving.

Four students will be demonstrating the potters wheel and plaster-casting. The art show is open to the public and everyone is invited to a fun-filled evening with the arts.

14 Mayors Lose In Indiana Votes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Fourteen incumbent mayors were defeated in bids for renomination in Tuesday's municipal primaries.

But Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary survived a strong challenge by fellow black and former ally Dozier Allen Jr. Official returns showed Hatcher the winner by about 8,000 votes. In November, he will face James Hilton, a Democrat-turned-Republican who was Hatcher's first police chief. Hilton is white.

In Indianapolis, businessman Robert

Welch, who never has held political office, staged an upset in winning the Democratic nod for mayor. He beat county chairman William Schreiber and five others.

Former Rep. William Hudnut won the Republican nomination over two other candidates.

Losing incumbents included Democrats in three of Indiana's largest cities Jerry Miller of South Bend, Joseph Klen of Hammond and Paul Cooley of Muncie.

Poverty Level Floor Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you live in the city and belong to a family of four earning less than $5,050 a year, then the government considers you to be officially poor.

The Labor Department issued new definitions of poverty Tuesday and raised the maximum income for the poverty level by $500 from $4,550 to $5,050. The department said the increase reflects boosts in consumer prices.

But if your family of four lives in a rural area, you are considered poor if the family's income is $4,300 or less. The previous cutoff was $3,870.

The poverty level for an individual living in a metropolitan area was raised from $2,330 to $2,590. Individuals living in rural areas are considered poor if their annual income is under $2,200, up $220 from a year ago.

The definitions are used by federal, state and local officials in administering manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act which

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Turns The Other Cheek

DEAR ABBY: I am from Houston, and the women down here do not ask the men to dance. At least I've never seen it done.

I date a man who takes me to a place where people sit around and drink beer. There's music, and every now and then one of the women will ask one of the men to dance.

Last night I was feeling pretty good so for the first time I asked my man friend if he would dance with me. He said he didn't feel like dancing. In less than a minute, a strange woman came over and asked him to dance with her. He said "yes" without batting an eye. (The woman didn't know he had just turned me down, so it wasn't her fault.)

When he started for the floor, I said, "Okay, you just turned me down. Now there's gonna be big trouble!"

I really blew my top and asked to be taken home. He said I acted like a baby. (I'm nearly 50.)

I say, a man's lady friend should be more important to him than a stranger. He said he was just being polite. We may break up over this although I'm sure we love each other. Who was wrong?

HURT IN HOUSTON
DEAR HURT: Your man friend owes you an apology for accepting another woman's invitation to dance after having turned you down. And you owe him one for having made a scene in public. Kiss and make up. Maybe you both learned something.

DEAR ABBY: Having just read your answer to "NEEDS A REAR," I feel I must make a correction.

A foam rubber fanny is not "the living end" - it's the dead end!

BAINBRIDGE, N.Y.
DEAR BAIN: Touche...which is also "the end."

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a man kissing another man on the cheek?

When my daughter and her husband come to visit us, I first greet them by kissing my daughter, then kissing my son-in-law on the cheek. It seems a natural, friendly thing for me to do, and my son-in-law never seems to mind it.

My wife now tells me to cut it out. She says it isn't right for a man to kiss another man.

Will you please tell me what is wrong with it? I do not go around kissing men as a rule, but my father used to kiss me (on the cheek), and I never thought anything of it.

AFFECTIONATE FATHER
DEAR FATHER: I think genuine affection, and any demonstration of it, is not only permissible, it's beautiful.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE MATURE TEENAGER: The May issue of "Teen" magazine now on the newsstands has an excellent article entitled, "Your Body-His Body." I recommend it highly.

RESOLUTION NO. 45-75
A RESOLUTION DECLARING COUNCIL'S INTENT TO COOPERATE WITH THE FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION IN SECURING FLOOD INSURANCE FOR THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE AS AUTHORIZED BY THE NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE ACT OF 1968 AND SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS.

WHEREAS, certain areas of the City of Circleville are subject to periodic flooding from various streams and the Scioto River, causing serious damage to properties within the City; and

WHEREAS, relief is available in the form of Federally subsidized flood insurance as authorized by the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 and subsequent amendments; and

WHEREAS, it is the intent of this Council to require the recognition and evaluation of flood hazards in all official actions relating to land use in the flood plain areas having special flood hazards; and

WHEREAS, Council has the legal authority under Chapter 713 of the Ohio Revised Code to adopt land use and control measures to reduce flood losses; and

WHEREAS, Council by previous action has passed Resolution No. 28-73 on February 8, 1973 agreeing to enact certain flood plain regulations after completion of a Flood Hazard Study by the Federal Government;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION 1: That it assures the Federal Insurance Administration that it will enact as necessary and maintain in force for those areas having flood or mud slide hazards adequate land use and control measures with effective enforcement provisions consistent with the criteria set forth in Section 1910 of the National Flood Insurance Program Regulations.

SECTION 2: That it delegates to the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville the responsibility, authority, and means to:

(a) Delineate or assist the Administrator of the Federal Insurance Administration, at his request, in delineating the limits of the areas having special flood hazards on available local maps of sufficient scale to identify the location of building sites.

(b) Provide such information as the Administrator may request concerning certain land uses and occupancy of the flood plain area.

(c) Cooperate with Federal, State, and local agencies and private firms which undertake to study, survey, map, and identify flood plain or mud slide areas, and cooperate with neighboring communities with respect to management of adjoining flood plain areas in order to prevent aggravation of existing hazards.

(d) Submit on the anniversary date of the community's initial eligibility an annual report to the Administrator of the Federal Insurance Administration on the progress made during the past year within the community in the development and implementation of flood plain management measures.

SECTION 3: That it hereby directs the Director of Public Service to maintain for public inspection and to furnish upon request a record of elevations of the lowest floor or in the case of the floor being below grade the elevation of the floor immediately above of all new or substantially improved structures located in the special flood hazard areas.

SECTION 4: That it agrees to take such other official action as may be deemed reasonably necessary to carry out the objectives of the National Flood Insurance Act.

SECTION 5: That this Resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Old Ladies Willing To Help Boy Scouts To Cross Street

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One good turn deserves another.

First the boy scouts helped old ladies across the streets and now there are some old ladies who say they're ready to return the favor.

"I'd take a Boy Scout across the street, but I'd tell him to do the looking," said 80-year-old Stella Wanstruh, a charter member of the Swinging Sycamore Senior Girl Scout Troop.

The Swinging Sycamore Senior Senior Girl Scout Troop has expanded into Troop 1976, with members ranging from 39 to 81 years old.

The women, who are also members of a local senior center, hope to pierce the stereotype of the senior citizen by taking to the girl scout trail.

"The last thing you would find here is a rocking chair," said Rosemary Rengers, center activities director.

When asked about her family's reaction to her becoming a girl scout, Loretta Breslin said, "When my granddaughter saw my SS (troop pin), she kept saying 'Come on Grandma....'"

Mrs. Breslin's troop has adopted the number 1976 because it will be participating in the Bicentennial activities including making a large quilt for display at the Girl Scouts Bicentennial show next March.

Amy Boyer, field director for the Great Rivers Girl Scout Council, said the scout program involving elderly women is "totally unique. There's no strictly adult troop in the nation except for this one."

There has been considerable interest in the project, Mrs. Boyer said, and she added that several older women have asked about becoming latterday scouts. A few senior senior scouts spent a part of a day last week visiting a camp in Warren County.

"I never wanted to go with my kids, but now I want to camp out," concluded Mrs. Breslin, anticipating the first overnight campout being planned by the troop.

State Health Work Force May Walk Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A union representing state mental health workers has called on members to take a day off later this month to join in a protest here of working conditions in state hospitals.

Herschel M. Sigall, director of Ohio State Government Employees Council 4455, said Wednesday the leadership has declared May 28 as a professional study day.

Sigall said the OSGE is planning a march on the capitol in an effort to "wake people up" to what he said were intolerable conditions for both patients and employees of the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

"We will encourage all mental health employees to come to Columbus on that day in order that we might talk to each other, see the legislature and invited Director (Timothy) Moritz to hear more of the truth of mental health and tell us of this administration's solutions," Sigall said.

"We are as well calling for a full investigation by the legislature of the lack of programming, lack of treatment and general ineptitude that has marked the operation of our mental health facilities," Sigall added.

Sigall charged that mental health employees have been "lied to, used and abused by a succession of political administrations." He said the workers are so committed to their patients that they have "tolerated administrative incompetence and legislative neglect in order to provide basic custodial care for the mentally ill."

Bus Crash Injures 10

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ten persons were hospitalized Wednesday night with injuries suffered when a chartered bus carrying a group of senior citizens from Toledo collided with a tractor-trailer rig.

A spokesman at Mansfield General Hospital said the 10, nine passengers and the bus driver, all were in "stable" condition.

The accident occurred on U.S. 30 in suburban Ontario. Police said the tractor-trailer rig jackknifed when the driver hit the brakes after a car in front of him stopped suddenly and skidded into the left front of the oncoming bus.

The westbound bus careened off the road, tossing passengers about inside, and stopped in a ditch.

Firemen using power saws worked for 90 minutes to free passengers from the wreckage.

Forty passengers were treated at the hospital, mostly for lacerations and bruises. Those not admitted to the hospital were returned to Toledo on another bus.

The hospital spokesman said most of the people hospitalized suffered fractures. All of Toledo, they were identified as H.T. Kams, 51, the driver, and passengers Gladys Beckley, Matilda Spencer, Kathryn Witmyer, Margaret Manders, Josephine Ehlert, Mary Brown, Ruth Kunzweiler, Myrtle Burrows and Martha Rensch. Ages of the passengers were not available.

Police identified the truck driver as Kenneth Schlabach of Massillon. Officers said the accident still was under investigation and charges might be filed later.

An official of Short Way Line in Toledo said the bus had been chartered by the Toledo Parks and Recreation Department to take a group of senior citizens to Kingwood Center, a horticultural park near here.

Federal Funds For Jobless Asked

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati City Councilman Thomas Brush proposed the city seek federal funds to help the unemployed and poor to pay for their skyrocketing utility bills.

Brush suggested a program using stamps similar to a food stamp program now in use at Allentown, Pa. and Denver, Colo.

Brush said application could be made to the Community Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The motion was given to the city manager's office for study.

Consumer Bill Given Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to create an Office of Consumer Affairs to advise the President and to oversee separate "offices of consumer representation" in each federal agency was introduced Wednesday by Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Taft said his measure would provide more effective consumer protection than a bill now pending in the Senate which would give one agency the job of representing all consumer interests. Taft criticized the pending legislation for holding out "a false promise that one advocate can effectively serve all consumers alike." He also noted that the President is "categorically opposed" to the present bill and is likely to veto it if it passes.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a co sponsor of the bill, said he thought Taft's proposal would have the support of some who opposed a consumer agency bill killed last year in the Senate, because it has "less bureaucracy, less cost, less control."

Taft also released a Library of Congress report showing that $588 billion were spent on government consumer interest activities in fiscal 1974-1975.

The Oregon Territory was acquired by treaty from England, terminating joint occupation of 255,580 square miles in 1846.

FINAL RESOLUTION

Adopting plans;
Proposing to co-operate;
Requesting Director to proceed;
Ohio Revised Code
Mr. David Goldschmidt, moved the adoption of the following resolution:
WHEREAS, At a meeting of the legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, held in the office of said legislative authority on the 22nd day of April, 1975, a quorum being present, the improvement of Nicholas Drive under the provisions of Chapter 5521, Ohio Revised Code, and Senate Bill 428, passed by the 108th General Assembly of Ohio and in accordance with the provisions of Ohio Department of Highways Procedure Manual, "State Issue No. 1 Funds", came on for further consideration; said portion of highway as described in the legislation proposing cooperation with the Director of Transportation enacted on the 19th day of January, 1971, being as follows:
The improvement of Nicholas Drive from U. S. Route 22 northward to State Route 188 including all necessary intersection work. Total length of work being approximately 1.185 miles.

WHEREAS, In said legislation proposing cooperation with said legislative authority proposed to cooperate with the Director of Transportation in the improvement of Nicholas Drive by assuming and contributing the entire cost and expense of the improvement less the remaining estimated amount of State Issue No. 1 Funds determined to be available and eligible for participation in said improvement.

The total cost of the project is now estimated in the amount of Six Hundred Thirty Five Thousand Six Hundred - 00/100 Dollars ($635,600.00) less the remaining estimated amount of State Issue No. 1 Funds determined to be available and eligible for participation in the amount of Two Hundred Sixty Seven Thousand One Hundred Forty Five - 00/100 Dollars ($267,145.00), leaving an estimated balance presently due the State from the City of Circleville in the amount of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty Five - 00/100 Dollars ($368,455.00), but said estimated balance will be adjusted when final actual costs and allocations are determined.

The estimated balance of $368,455.00 includes those items shown on the construction plans for the project as 100 per cent City of Circleville ($35,440.00), and not eligible for State Issue No. 1 Financing.

The City further agrees to assume and bear 100 per cent of the cost of preliminary engineering and right-of-way for the project.

WHEREAS, The Director of Transportation has approved said legislation proposing cooperation and has caused to be made plans and specifications and an estimate of cost and expense for improving the above described highway and has transmitted copies of same to this legislative authority.

and desires the Director of Transportation to proceed with the aforesaid highway improvement.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved:

I. That the section of highway above described be improved under the provisions of Chapter 5521, Ohio Revised Code, and that the cost and expense of said improvement be borne by the City of Circleville, Ohio, and the State of Ohio, in the proportion of one-third (1/3) to be borne by the City of Circleville, Ohio, and two-thirds (2/3) to be borne by the State of Ohio, as provided in the legislation proposing cooperation and approved by the Director of Transportation, are hereby approved and adopted by this legislative authority.

II. That this legislative authority is still of the opinion on the proposed work on the described highway should be constructed, and that we should co-operate on the basis set forth in our proposal.

III. That the estimated sum of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty Five - 00/100 Dollars ($368,455.00), is hereby appropriated for improving the highway described above, and the fiscal officer is hereby authorized and directed to issue his order on the treasurer for said sum upon the requisition of the Director of Transportation to pay the cost and expense of said improvement. We hereby agree to assume, in the first instance, the share of the cost and expense over and above the amount to be allocated from State Issue No. 1 Funds.

IV. That the installation of all utility facilities on the right-of-way shall conform with the requirements of the Federal Highway Administration Policy and Procedure Memorandum 30-4, "Utility Relocations and Adjustments" and the Department of Transportation rules on Utility Accommodation.

V. That traffic control signals will not be installed on the project without prior approval by the State and the municipality does hereby agree to place and maintain all traffic control devices conforming to the Ohio Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices on the improvement in compliance with the provisions of Section 4811.11 and related sections of the Ohio Revised Code.

VI. That the rights-of-way provided for said improvement shall be held inviolate for public highway purposes and no signs, posters, billboards, roadside stands or other private installations shall be permitted within the right-of-way limits.

VII. That this legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, enter into a contract with the Director of Transportation providing for the payment by said legislative authority of the estimated sum of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty Five - 00/100 Dollars ($368,455.00), the agreed proportion of the cost and expense to be borne by Circleville, Ohio, for the improvement of the hereinbefore described highway.

VIII. That this legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, hereby requests the Director of Transportation to proceed with the aforesaid highway improvement.

IX. That the Clerk of this legislative authority be, and he is hereby directed to transmit to the Director of Transportation a certified copy of these Resolutions.

X. This Resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure by reason of the need for expediting construction of project(s) to promote highway safety, and provided it receives the affirmative vote by two-thirds of the members elected to the legislative authority it shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its passage and approval by the Mayor; otherwise, it shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Thereupon, Mr. Harold Hoffman, seconded the said motion, and upon the roll being called, the result of the vote was as follows:

No Open Arms For Refugees

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Gov. Otis Bowen says the state is "sympathetic" to all who are hungry or homeless but it won't extend any "open arms invitation" to Vietnamese refugees.

The governor helped dedicate Aux Chandeliers mental health center here Wednesday and said, "In the event the federal government insists on some of them coming here, they should also foot the bill."

He said arrival of several thousand refugees would compound the state's already serious unemployment problems.

Gulf Chief To Testify On Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church says Gulf Oil Corp.'s chief executive will be called to testify publicly next week about who received $4 million in political donations from the company.

"We must insist on full disclosure," said Church, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations. A hearing is set for May 16.

Gulf Chairman Bob R. Dorsey publicly assured the governments of Venezuela and Ecuador on Wednesday that those nations were not involved in the $4 million gifts.

Venezuela had threatened to end Gulf's business operations in the country if Gulf officials did not say by 6 p.m. EDT today whether or not Venezuelan officials were involved. Ecuador also made inquiries.

Bolivia also set a 48-hour deadline Wednesday night and threatened to halt payment of an estimated $50 million still pending in indemnities for Gulf property taken over in 1969 if the company does not clarify whether Bolivians were involved. The ultimatum was announced following a special cabinet meeting called by President Hugo Banzer.

Informed sources said they could only speculate about where the money went because Dorsey has so far refused to identify the recipients and has left few clues about who they might be. Japan, the Philippines, Nigeria, South Korea and Italy are considered possibilities.

The political gifts were disclosed publicly last week when the Wall Street Journal published excerpts from secret testimony Dorsey had given to investigators for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Dorsey said Gulf paid $1 million in 1966 and $3 million in 1973 to politicians in an unnamed country. He said the money was paid under pressure, so Gulf could continue its business operations there.

Court Curbs Libelous Material

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court has ruled that some potentially libelous materials can be banned before their publication, despite First Amendment guarantees.

The court said county courts under certain circumstances can order persons not to repeat statements already judged libelous. But the court specifically said its ruling was narrow and could be applied to censor material before publication only in special circumstances.

The court ruled 7-0 that a landlord can pursue a court case which attempts to stop the University Community Tenants Union, Inc., from publishing what amounts to a blacklist of Ohio State University area landlords.

Armco Scion Kills Himself

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Charles R. Hook, 34-year-old scion of the Armco Steel Co. family, killed himself with a pistol on the lawn of the United Nations headquarters, authorities say.

Hook's body was found by a tourist in a bed of ivy amid the U.N.'s cherry trees Wednesday. Dr. Dominick DiMaio, acting chief medical examiner who performed the autopsy, ruled the death a suicide Wednesday night. A spokesman in his office said one bullet was removed from Hook's brain.

Police identified Hook through a 1970 passport found on his body and said he was a native of Baltimore.

U.N. officials said a rambling, handwritten note found on Hook's body pleaded for "global disarmament," "harmony among the peoples," "defense of the planet against contamination by radioactive material" and prevention of overpopulation.

A spokesman for Armco, one of the nation's top 10 steel companies, said in Cincinnati that Hook was the grandson of the late Charles R. Hook — second president of Armco and the son-in-law of George Verity, founder of Armco in Middletown, Ohio.

The victim's father of the same name served as deputy postmaster general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower and headed a New York advertising agency at the time of his death in 1961.

Young Hook was also a distant cousin of William Verity, who now heads the firm. However, the Armco spokesman said the Verity family now owns less than one-tenth of one per cent of the company stock and that the victim was not an heir.

The court in a 7-0 decision issued a warrant ordering the ouster of Dorothy Kee, who was serving a two-year term beginning on Jan. 1, 1974.

The court held that her position as a school teacher violated a charter provision prohibiting members of the council from holding "any other other public office or public employment."

Flood Plain Management Important Land Use Tool

Each year, with the coming of spring rains and the resulting flood damage, interest is rekindled in the management of flood plains. These low lying areas along streams and rivers make up only five per cent of the nation's land area, but a large proportion of the population and tangible property is located on them.

"Flood plain management is important in total land use planning," says Don Archer, District Conservationist in Pickaway County for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). Construction of homes, schools, and industrial and commercial buildings continues to take place in areas subject to flooding. Because of existing and increasing development of these areas, there is a need to accurately define the potential for present and future flooding of an area, Archer stated.

With a basic knowledge of flooding frequency, 25, 50, or 100 years, township, city, and village officials can initiate land use and development regulations within the flood plain.

The SCS carries out flood hazard studies through a joint agreement with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR). Local units of government submit a request to the ODNR for a detailed flood hazard study of an area. After review and approval by ODNR, the request is sent to the SCS who performs the technical phases of the study.

The major objective of SCS, ODNR, and the county units of government is to acquire detailed information concerning flood hazards. This will enable them to jointly develop an effective flood plain management program. A need also exists to determine the future flood potential based on anticipated changes in land use. These changes over the next 10 to 15 years will affect runoff and flood potential and must be considered to adequately plan land use and development alternatives. When the study is completed, it will show the present and future use of the areas flooded by the 25, 50, and 100 year frequency flood.

County Commissioners, township trustees, cities and villages, and county planning commissions use the information to determine future use of the flood plain areas. Flood plains are adapted to open space uses since areas adjacent to streams have a natural attraction. Parks, playgrounds, picnic areas, and agricultural crops can utilize land which is not suitable for permanent structures such as homes, businesses, and industries.

Flood hazard studies are now being carried out by the SCS on Blacklick Creek in Franklin County, Hargus and Hominy Creek in Pickaway County, East Branch, Middle Branch, and West Branch of Nimishillen Creek in Stark County, Martins Run in Lorain County, and Hocking River in Fairfield County.

The studies can prove invaluable in planning the use of flood plains and in protecting people from possible devastating floods.

Scouts Hold First Meeting

The first pack meeting of Troop 159 was held April 24 at the Walnut Elementary School. The meeting was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Boy Scout Motto and handshake.

The highlight of the evening was the receiving of the Bobcat pins. Receiving pins were, Steve Rainier, Jason Storts, Bobby Herrick, and Kenny Sampson, of Den 1, Cherokees; Donald Hall, Tony Hawk, Skip Myers, Kurt Stewart, and Tim Myers of Den 2, Little Bears; John Wokaly, Tracy Burnett, Eric Schoonover and Billy Crowder of Den 3, Wolverines; Brady Maynard, Tony Brookins, Chris Turner, Steve Starkey and Dean Poston of Den 4, Apaches.

A flyer contest was held with Mrs. Rose Turner's den winning.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next pack meeting is scheduled May 22.

Urge Caution In Basement Waterproofing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If a waterproofing company which has not visited your home promises it can fix your leaky basement without any digging, you'd better proceed cautiously, the Commerce Department's Consumer Protection Agency says.

In its latest Consumer Protection Bulletin, the division says it has received numerous complaints that consumers have paid hundreds of dollars for "pressure method" basement waterproofing that didn't work.

The method is effective about half the time, but the division quotes Consumer Reports magazine as listing type of soil and basement building materials as factors which control the effectiveness of the method. The pressure method also does not resist water leakage caused by the pressure of underground water.

Thus, the division warns consumers to select a reputable company, to get at least three written estimates from waterproofers who have visited the home and, if possible, to deal with long-standing local companies which have good reputations.

Other advice:

—Refuse to pay in advance, insisting to pay either in installments or upon completion.

—Get the guarantee in writing with every detail spelled out clearly.

—Don't sign a certificate stating that the work has been completed until it has been done to your satisfaction.

Liquor Listing Regulation Void

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Because it puts producers and wholesalers right in the middle, the Indiana Alcoholic Beverage Commission cannot require them to list the prices charged for liquor and wine, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge S. Hugh Dillin said Wednesday if producers follow the state regulation they violate federal antitrust laws and if they refuse to list prices they violate the state regulation.

Fruit Farmers Still Pessimistic

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Valley fruit farmers, who were wiped out two years in a row by the weather, remain pessimistic despite bumper peach and apple crops blooming in their orchards.

"We're still not out of the woods yet," said Vaughn C. Hempfling, operator of the Parlor Grove Farm at Hebron, Ky.

He's keeping an eye on the thermometer until Friday and trying to ignore the fabulous beauty of hundreds of trees in full bloom.

"There's never been a freezeout past May 9. So you can never tell. But so far, everything looks to be in good shape," Hempfling said.

"We're very nervous this time of year," said Mrs. Byron Baker who lives near Lebanon, Ohio. "It was just this time the past two years that we lost our peach crops because of late frosts."

What is unusual this year is that every single tree at the Baker's Maplewood Orchards is in bloom, she said. Normally, many of the trees bloom in alternate years.

"This doesn't happen often, but they were froze off two years straight," Mrs. Baker said.

The few peaches the trees produced last year were destroyed by wind and hail.

"Wind and hail can come anytime, but barring a late frost, we should have a very good crop this year," she said, admitting she was hopeful.

Police Investigating Pedestrian Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County police today continued their investigation of the death of Barbara Jean Ellis, 27, of Goshen, who was struck by a car Wednesday on Interstate 275 in northern Hamilton County.

Police said the driver was not charged. Officers said they were at a loss to explain why the cocktail waitress was walking in the roadway in the early morning hours.

Governor Signs Budget Measures

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Although the budget bills were not exactly what he prescribed, Gov. Otis R. Bowen signed them Wednesday, completing action on 1975 legislation.

Bowen waited until the final day for acting on the three bills spelling out a $3 billion state spending plan for 1975-76.

"The budget bills are not as we ideally would like to have them," said Raymond W. Rizzo of the governor's staff. "But the numbers within the budget fall inside the minimum limits of acceptability — the $80 million surplus is there and the property tax relief fund is preserved."

The Public Investigator

The Investigator questioned utility companies in the Circleville and Pickaway County area concerning monetary increases to consumers of their specific product and the reason for the increase. Here are the answers of the South Central Power Company.

(Q) Approximately how many consumers does South Central Power Company serve in Pickaway County and Circleville?

(A) Approximately 9,000 consumers.

(Q) What are your present rates to individual residential consumers and how much have they increased in the past 3 months? — 6 months? — and the past year?

(A) The average consumption for the month of March, 1975, per residential consumer was 1,264 KWH at an average cost of $.0292 per KWH. Three months ago (December 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0263 per KWH; 6 months ago (September 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0239 per KWH; 12 months ago (March 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0225 per KWH.

In May of 1974 an average rate increase of five per cent became effective. The additional increase over and above the five per cent reflects the power cost adjustments, which consist of the costs involved in the generation of electricity by coal.

These costs are passed on to the South Central Power Company by our supplier, Buckeye Power, Inc., and are then passed on to the consumer.

The "Power Cost Adjustment" has grown by leaps and bounds. In June of 1969 the average cost of a ton of coal was $4.51, and as of January, 1975, it averaged $21 per ton.

(Q) Does South Central have any "extra" charges, such as installation costs or deposits?

(A) Yes, on Mobile Homes that do not have their own water-under-pressure and sanitary sewers available, there is a charge made if a primary extension is necessary. The consumer does have the option of having this charge returned to him, in full, if he builds a permanent dwelling on the site within five years from the time the service is established.

If the Mobile Home is located within service drop distance, a temporary service charge is made on a non-refundable basis.

A $20 returnable deposit is required from a non-property owner.

(Q) Why is there a raise in the cost to consumers?

(A) Inflation is the culprit. It costs considerably more to produce a KWH of electricity than it did two or three years ago, as explained in our response to the second question.

In addition, the cost of labor, poles, crossarms, transformers, wire and cable, and all the other appurtenances that make up an electric system have increased in price as much as from 100 per cent to 200 per cent.

(Q) Do we expect to reach any ceiling in the selling price?

(A) It depends on whether or not this inflationary trend abates. Obviously when an economic plateau comes along, then a ceiling would be established. Of course, at that time, ceilings would be established on many other things as well, and there is no guarantee that any economic ceiling is going to hold its level forever.

(Q) What are your different payment plans and which one is the most popular with your consumers?

(A) South Central offers two plans. The regular monthly billing plan wherein the consumer pays his actual bill each month seems to be the most popular.

We also offer a Budget Billing program for all-electric homes, based on a 12-month period. Under this plan an estimate is made for the total KWH consumption of the home for a year, then the billing amount is divided by 12.

For example: if it is estimated that a consumer's yearly power usage would total $840, $840 would be divided by 12 and the consumer would pay a regular $70 per month for eleven months. Any adjustments necessary would be made in the 12th month, either by terms of a credit issued by South Central or an additional payment made by the consumer.

(Q) Is South Central aware of any Federal or State Legislation designed to lower the utility rates of persons on a fixed income? Does your company see any need for such legislation?

Ashville Bank Contributes To College Fund

The Ashville Bank was among the April contributors to the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges. The contributions during April brought the Foundation's total for the first 11 months of the 1974-75 fiscal year to $1,483,182 from 1508 gifts.

Compared with a year ago at this time, contribution dollars are running ahead and Foundation officials are still optimistic that the year will end up as an excellent one.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Many bright new picture books as colorful as spring time have recently arrived in the children's room. Come on in and try a few.

Imaginative children who have seen strange shapes at night will enjoy listening to "You're the Scaredy-Cat," Mercer Mayer's latest book. When an older brother tries to frighten his younger brother with a scary story, guess who has to turn the flashlight on to keep the goblins away?

Many children already know and love Lyle, the friendly crocodile who was discovered in an apartment bathtub years ago. Now, in "Lyle Finds His Mother," he leaves New York City and travels around the world in search of his long lost mother. With light humor and a warm touch the author has created a friendly beast to captivate very young audiences.

Another beast who sports a new image is the octopus. Herman is the central character in a stunning picture book "Herman the Helper." Rather than frightening everyone to death this little fellow comes to the aid of the needy, the very young and the elderly. Herman will provide children with a unique view of the underwater world. The illustrator, Jose Aruego, a new artist, is commanding a great deal of attention among lovers of children's books.

A rat is another animal in our menagerie. "The Pack Rat's Day" is a book of nonsense poems about animals seldom celebrated in verse. Even the mole receives attention as an earnest fellow uncomplainingly living where few animals would be happy.

Mothers may not like tiny mice but children do Victor, a city mouse yearns to understand how wild animals live in "A Mouse is Not a Moose." The result of his curiosity is a fast chase after he bravely confronts a sleeping cat and jauntily tugs its whiskers.

Puppy finds many new experiences, both pleasant and not so pleasant as he explores the wide world in "Who Said Meow?" Running after animal sounds he has never heard before leads him straight to trouble as a bee strongly objects to this nosy puppy.

Learning can be fun when bears play a rip-snorting counting game in "Ten Bears in My Bed." And Dr. Seuss pleases again in "There's a Wocket in My Pocket." Up to his special brand of nonsense he teaches the names of common household items as only he can.

And for boys who enjoy adventure, there is a new story about "Indian 2 Feet and the Grizzly Bear." Like all boys Indian 2 Feet wants to be brave, but he hasn't the least idea of how. This very brief story takes only a few minutes to tell, in case your listeners are inclined to be restless.

Honestly now, these colorful new books could make a reading fan of any child, so give them an opportunity to see these exciting stories.

Police Agencies Go To Hard Hats

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Law enforcement officers are starting to trade in their uniform caps for a new kind of hard hat, according to an official for a firm which has already convinced 37 state police agencies around the country to make the switch.

"The helmet was designed to be simple and attractive," said Bob Clark, sales manager for Premier Seat and Accessory Co. "Not to be conspicuous to the general public, but rather maintain a peaceful public image. We gave the men what they wanted, a general duty helmet rather than something just to be used in case of emergencies."

The new helmet, similar in design to a motorcycle helmet, is definitely sturdier than the old-fashioned stetson. It is covered with a protective shield of polycarbonate and cannot be scratched or damaged, according to its creators.

"Law enforcement tests using a live volunteer showed that a night stick broken over our helmet caused no pain to the man," Clark said.

A safety shield is stored at the rear of the helmet which can be quickly flipped over the face.

The helmet can also be allweather part of the uniform, which is a moneysaving factor. The helmet can be transferred for use by another patrolman by putting in a new interior that is fastened with an adhesive material.

The helmet cost $30 and a new liner costs $4.95.

"The winter stetsons such as worn by the Butler and Hamilton county sheriff's deputies cost $15. Badges cost $16-$20. To outfit a man with summer and winter hats would be about $75," estimated Clark who said about 10,000 helmets had already been shipped to police departments around the country.

"Our new helmets can be worn all season and no badge is necessary, as we affix a police decal outside the helmet. They are safe, against rain and sun fade for $30."

Reds Rip Padres, 10-2

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Johnny Bench says he's starting to feel pretty good. So does Tom McGraw. That could make the rest of the National League feel pretty sick.

"I'm finally starting to feel natural," Bench, recovering from an injured shoulder, said after he highlighted Cincinnati's six-run fifth inning Wednesday with his fifth home run of the season and the fifth grand slam of his career in the Reds' 10-2 rout of San Diego.

"I think this is the best I've felt since 1972," said McGraw, former bullpen ace of the New York Mets who has given Philadelphia some much needed relief, including 2-13 innings of hitless ball Wednesday night to preserve the Phillies' 4-1 victory over St. Louis.

In Wednesday's other NL games it was Chicago 7, Montreal 0; Los Angeles 5, Houston 1; San Francisco 6, Atlanta 2, and Pittsburgh 6, New York 1.

Tony Perez also homered for the Reds, who chalked up their fourth straight victory. "I don't think anybody can offer as many bats as we do—not Los Angeles, not Pittsburgh," said winning pitcher Fred Norman.

Westfall's Mosley,
Moore Named To SVC

Tony Mosley and Craig Moore of Westfall were named to the All Scioto Valley Conference baseball team selected by the league coaches Wednesday.

Mosley was named to an outfield berth and Moore gained a utility spot on the 16-man squad. Both boys are seniors. Junior Mack Dick of the Mustangs gained honorable mention at third base.

Southeastern's heavy hitting outfielder, Tim Clemens, was named Player of the Year. He smashed 10 home runs, 25 RBIs and hit for an average of .433.

Logan Elm Girl Tracksters

E Team Captures
PCC League Opener

Pickaway Country Club opened league play with E team winning the opener with 22 points.

Team members were: H. Davies, B. Brehmer, L. Kittle, B. Ottinger, B. Camp, K. Ness and C. Radcliff.

B. Brehmer fired a 32 for low net and L. Otter and B. Hritz tied for low gross with 36.

The annual spring roundup for members and guests will be held May 17.

Ohio Conference
Track Clash Slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Mount Union and old rival Baldwin-Wallace are expected to dominate the 72nd Ohio Conference track and field meet this weekend at Baldwin-Wallace.

The hosts won the conference indoor meet and the outdoor relays crown this spring.

Fourteen of 16 individual winners return, headed by Mount Union's national championship 440-yard and mile relay units. Al Guire of the Purple Raiders is seeking his third straight 100 crown while teammate Chuck Larsuel goes after his third long jump title and second 440 honors.

Iowa in the American Association is the Triple A farm team in the Chicago White Sox system.

"With Cincinnati, you can expect to get runs in bunches like that. If you just hold 'em long enough, you know that we're going to score."

Two weeks ago, Bench's shoulder was so badly bruised from a collision at home plate "that I couldn't take my uniform off with my left arm...For a while there, I couldn't extend my arm while swinging. I was favoring it. Now it's all starting to come back," said the Reds' All Star catcher.

McGraw, making his fifth appearance for the Phils—and extending his scoreless relief work to 7 2-3 innings—halted a St. Louis threat in the seventh after Wayne Twitchell had walked Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore with two out.

Twitchell and McGraw combined for a five-hitter and were backed by Mike Schmidt's two-run homer, his fifth blast of the year.

Cubs 7, Expos 0

Bill Bonham pitched a three-hitter and got home run support from Rob Sperring and Jose Cardenal in Chicago's victory over the Expos.

"I had the best stuff early in the game, then I went mainly to the fastball," said Bonham.

For three innings, he pitched perfect

CHS Blanked
By Hillsboro

Biff Bumgarner turned in a fine pitching performance for the Tigers but couldn't get a break as Circleville was blanked 2-0 by Hillsboro on the Indians' diamond.

Bumgarner scattered four hits, walked two and fanned five. He didn't give up a hit after the second inning.

"It was a tough loss for Biff as he turned in one of the best pitching performances we have had all year," coach John Lawhorn stated.

John Larimer was on the mound for Hillsboro. He gave up three hits, three walks and struck out five.

Hillsboro scored single runs in the bottom of the first and second innings to cop the contest.

Randy Thomas led the Tigers with a double and single and Dave Bevan had a one-bagger for the Tigers' other hit.

Circleville is scheduled at Unioto Friday and will host Miami Trace 1 p.m. Saturday.

To Rangers

Teays Valley protected a one-run lead for five innings but visiting Hamilton Township plated a pair of markers in the top of the sixth and added a single tally in the seventh to take a 3-1 decision over the Vikings in a Metropolitan League clash Wednesday.

Mark Messick scattered 10 hits and was sailing along in good shape until the fateful sixth. He struck out two and only walked two Rangers in the contest.

Tom Becker gave up a lone run in the first and then became stingy with the base knocks to gain the in for Hamilton Twp. He allowed three hits, five walks and fanned three.

It was a well played contest with both teams playing errorless ball.

Chuck Glitt had a double while Brad Stuthard and Steve Williams each rapped a single to account for the Viking hits.

Teays Valley is now 15-7, 5-3 in the league, and will be at Dublin 4:30 p.m. today.

For Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — At least eight horses stand ready to oppose Foolish Pleasure in the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes, with two owners willing to gamble an extra $10,000 that the Kentucky Derby winner won't take his second leg in the Triple Crown series.

Master Derby, fourth in last Saturday's Derby, and Native Guest, winner of the El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park, would require a $10,000 supplementary entry fee because they were not nominated for the 1 3/16 mile classic.

Native Guest, a winner of four straight, was added to the fluctuating field Wednesday when owner W.A. Levin advised that the colt would arrive Saturday at Pimlico Race Course, site of the May 17 Preakness.

Foolish Pleasure, who has lost only one of 12 career starts, is already on the Pimlico grounds. So are Avatar, Diabolo and Bold Chapeau, the second, third and eighth-place finishers in the Derby.

Master Derby, Singh and El Pitirre are due to arrive Friday. Just The Time, winner of last year's Belmont Futurity who has made only one start this season, is scheduled to check in Monday.

Saturday's running of the Preakness Prep should go a long way toward clarifying the size of the field Foolish Pleasure will face as he continues his quest to become the 10th Triple Crown champion.

Singh, winner of the Peter Pan, Swift and a division of the Gotham before being kept out of the Derby by an injury, is expected to start in the Preakness regardless of how he fares in the Prep.

But El Pitirre, North of the Law, and possibly one or two others would have to show well in the Prep if they are to head for the $150,000-added Preakness.

Brewers Slide Past Tigers, 7-5

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Mickey Lolich threw the pitch where he wanted...low and inside. George Scott hit it where he wanted...low and inside third base.

And when the Milwaukee Brewers were through running around the bases, three of them had scored and Scott was on second with a tie-breaking double that powered the Brewers to a 7-5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's exploded for nine runs in the seventh inning, the last four on Sal Bando's grand slam homer, and bopped the California Angels 9-1, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5, the Baltimore Orioles downed the New York Yankees 4-3, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians 4-2 and the Chicago White Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2 with three runs in the ninth inning.

Milwaukee and Detroit were tied 4-4 when Darrell Porter opened the Brewers' seventh with a triple off the previously unbeaten Lolich. One out later, walks to Don Money and Robin Yount loaded the bases. Bobby Mitchell struck out but Scott laced his double down the thirdbase line on a 2-2 pitch—a low, inside slider.

"To be honest," Scott said, "I think it was the type of pitch I would make an out on nine out of every 10 times. I wanted to hit the ball hard. It was a hell of a pitch, down and inside. I was lucky to get my bat on it. I wasn't looking for anything. With two strikes you can't look for a certain pitch."

How about it, Mickey?

"It would have been a ball, but most of my slider strikeouts are on balls," Lolich said. "Scotty's a big, free swinger. I'd rather pitch to those guys. Usually a big swinger takes a big cut at that slider and they miss."

Milwaukee jumped to a 4-1 lead with a four-run fourth inning, including Sixto Lezcano's three-run homer. The Tigers tied it with three in the bottom of the fourth.

A's 9, Angels 1

Held to two hits over the first six innings by Bill Singer, the A's erupted for nine runs in the seventh, climaxed by the seventh grand slam homer of Bando's career. The big inning made Vida Blue, who hurled a six-hitter, the American League's first six-game winner. California's run was unearned.

Toledo Goaldiggers Win Turner Cup

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Juri Kudrasovs power play goal at 16:17 of the third period earned Toledo the International Hockey League's Turner Cup as the Goaldiggers skated to a 6-5 victory over Saginaw in the seventh and deciding game Wednesday.

The victory capped a remarkable season for the Goaldiggers, an expansion team. But, more than that, it was a testament to Coach Ted Garvin who started the season with "something to prove."

Garvin guided Port Huron to a Turner Cup two years ago and soon thereafter was named to coach the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. But Detroit shortly dumped him in favor of Alex Delvecchio.

Garvin vowed he would "show some people some hockey" when he agreed to coach the new Toledo club this season.

The first period ended in a 1-1 tie. John Gravel opened the scoring for Saginaw at 11:21 of the first period, but Toledo's Don Westbrooke matched that at 17:05.

In the second period Toledo opened the scoring at 2:25 off the stick of Ian MacPhee. Saginaw's Stu Irving followed with a pair at 8:31 and 9:32. Toledo's Jim McCabe scored at 15:29.

Then Saginaw broke loose for a pair goals. Dennis Desrosiers hit one for the Gears at 16:44. Jim Johnston scored at 18:30.

Donnie Craig closed out the second period's scoring for Toledo with a goal at 18:53 and Saginaw skated off with a 5-4 lead to the delight of 5,515 hometown fans at the Saginaw Civic Center.

In the third period Michael Laurendeau tied it for Toledo at 3:15 to set up Kudrasovs' clincher.

Toledo goalie Ted Tucker turned away 44 shots while Gears' goalie Rollin Kimble kicked out 31.

Bullets Set To Wipe Out Boston Hopes

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Bullets, with a tenacious defense and Wes Unseld a titan on the backboards, stand poised to eliminate Boston's defending champions from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We're in a deep hole, but we're not counted out of it yet," Boston's John Havlicek said after Washington won 119-108 Wednesday night and took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals.

Trying to rally his slumping mates, Havlicek recalled past heroics when the Celtics overcame a similar deficit to beat Philadelphia and tied New York before losing a deciding seventh game.

But this time, unless a freak injury to Washington guard Jimmy Jones intercedes, the Celtics appear disorganized against a team hungry for its first NBA title.

Only a spirited comeback prevented a complete rout before a capacity 19,035 fans in Capital Centre after the Bullets had taken a 21-point lead early in the third period.

Don Nelson, like Havlicek a 12-year veteran, conceded that the pressure would be on the Celtics when Game 5 is played in Boston Friday night.

Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals says he prefers a five-man starting pitching staff.

See Close Battle In Golf Tournament

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Miami (Ohio), Ball State and Bowling Green are expected to wage a close battle in the first two rounds of the Mid-American Conference golf tournament Friday and Saturday.

The first 36 holes will be played over Kent State's par-69, 5,327-yard layout. The final 36 are scheduled for Western Michigan May 16-17. Those rounds will be at the par-72, 6,400-yard Lake Doster Country Club.

Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals says he prefers a five-man starting pitching staff.

Bando's slam came off Chuck Dobson, the fourth California pitcher in the inning. The A's used four pinch hitters, three pinch runners and got six hits in the big rally. Gene Tenace singled home the tying run, Jim Holt put the A's ahead with a pinch single, Claudell Washington delivered a two-run single and Angel Mangual drove in a run with an infield hit.

Royals 6, Rangers 5

Kansas City got consecutive run-scoring doubles by John Mayberry and Hal McRae in the fourth inning and took a 4-0 lead behind Steve Busby. Then they scored two unearned runs that proved decisive in the eighth on two Texas errors, a walk and Jim Wohlford's run-scoring single. That offset RBI singles by Jim Sundberg and Tom Grieve in the Texas ninth.

George Brett started the Royals' two-run second inning with a double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Frank White. Martinez walked, Fred Patek singled and Amos Otis scored Martinez with a single.

The Rangers scored three runs in the fifth on a walk, Roy Smalley's double, a single by Sundberg and Willie Davis' double.

Orioles 4, Yankees 3

Al Bumbry lashed his fourth hit, a tie-breaking bases-loaded single off relief ace Sparky Lyle with two out in the ninth inning, lifting Baltimore to victory behind the five-hit pitching of Yankee-killer Mike Cuellar.

The Orioles tied the score 3-3 on Bobby Grich's two-out two-run homer in the eighth after loser Doc Medich issued a leadoff walk to pinch hitter Tom Shopay.

Ken Singleton started the winning rally with a one-out single and took second on Brooks Robinson's sacrifice bunt. Ellie Hendricks walked and Lyle came on to walk pinch hitter Tommy Davis, loading the bases. Bumbry then drilled his game-winning hit to center.

Red Sox 4, Indians 2

Jim Rice's homer triggered Boston's tie-breaking three-run sixth inning against Fritz Peterson. Following Rice's homer, Rico Petrocelli, Dwight Evans and Tony Conigliaro singled to make it 3-1 and Evans scored on Bob Montgomery's grounder.

The Indians got a second-inning run off winner Reggie Cleveland on consecutive singles by George Hendrick, Pico Carty and John Ellis. The Red Sox tied it in the fifth when Doug Griffin singled, Juan Beniquez was hit by a pitch and Rick Burleson singled. Cleveland scored again in the eighth on Oscar Gamble's triple and Boog Powell's single.

White Sox 3, Twins 2

Deron Johnson's two-run pinch single with the bases loaded capped a three-run ninth-inning rally. Bert Blyleven blanked the White Sox on five hits for eight innings but was replaced by Bill Campbell after issuing a leadoff walk to Bill Melton in the ninth.

One out later, singles by Tony Muser and pinch hitter Ken Henderson produced Chicago's first run. Campbell walked Brian Downing to load the bases and Johnson greeted Tom Burge with his gamewinning hit. Bob Darwin doubled home Minnesota's first run in the opening inning and then smashed a sixth-inning homer.

Sneva Brothers Eye Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The way things are going, with a little luck there could be five members of the Sneva clan in the starting lineup at some future Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Last year there was Tom Sneva, known as the racing schoolteacher or the mad schoolbus driver, who was the fastest rookie in the 33-car starting field.

Now there is Jerry Sneva, who was sitting peacefully at home in Spokane, Wash., earlier this week when the phone rang.

"Pack a bag and get out here," brother Tom advised. "I found you a ride."

On Tuesday, Jerry caught a flight to Indianapolis, convinced U.S. Auto Club officials to issue him a conditional competition license and headed for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

By Wednesday afternoon, he was taking his first laps around the 2½-mile oval in an older model Offenhauser-powered car owned by builder Frank Curtis. Jerry sort of suspects the car won't make the May 25 race.

Like Tom, younger brother Jerry—"just an assistant manager at a car dealership"—is a graduate of the supermodified circuits in the Pacific Northwest, where brothers Babe, 23, Jan, 21, and Blaine, 18, have toiled also. Babe, however, has been in a coma since a racing crash last summer.

"Jerry is a year younger than me—physically," said 26-year-old Tom, adding humorously, "but mentally..."

The comment earned a solid punch in the arm from Jerry.

Jerry, who is somewhat heavier but resembles Tom, has found the Speedway a little confusing. He was introduced to someone in the garage area as Tom Sneva and he didn't know what to do.

"Don't tell them who you really are until they find out if they have a ride for you," Tom kidded.

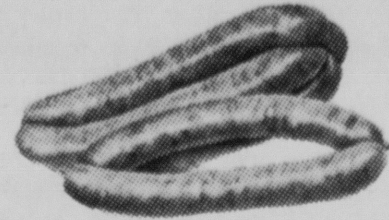

The only other brothers on the USAC championship circuit are Al and Bobby Unser, both former Indy winners.

"Tell Bobby and Al they don't need to worry about us for a while," Jerry said with mock seriousness. "Tom's probably ready to run with them, but I may need a little more time."

New Law School Wins Approval

DAYTON (AP)—The League of Ohio Law Schools has approved membership of the University of Dayton School of Law, assuring graduates the right to take the Ohio Bar Examination.

Richard Braun, dean of the school of law, said this is the second of two approvals required for a new law school.

Entire Block Burned Out In Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A spectacular fire engulfed an entire block of downtown Toledo along the Maumee River bank Wednesday night, destroying three vacant buildings and causing considerable damage to a furniture store.

Flames and smoke rising from the huge fire could be seen as far as 20 miles away.

Some 25 pieces of fire equipment battled the blazes well into the early morning hours. Fire department scouts scurried between nearby buildings extinguishing small fires touched off on roofs by sparks.

There were no injuries. Cause of the fire was not determined immediately. There was no damage estimate.

The fire broke out in the Tiedtke's Building, which was scheduled for demolition as part of an urban renewal project, at the corner of Summit and Adams streets.

Flames quickly spread to a former shoe store and a former jewelry store, which also were to be razed.

The fire then swept across Adams

Street to the Home Furniture Co. building.

The three vacant buildings were demolished. Contents of the furniture store were destroyed, but the building remained standing.

The fire attracted an estimated 5,000 spectators and caused a huge traffic jam.

France founded New Orleans in 1718. It has been under three flags, French, Spanish and American.

Officer Loses Hair Complaint

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A policeman lost his discrimination complaint to the Ohio Civil Rights Commission that hair lengths discriminate against male officers while not applying to women.

Ray Paul, regional commission director, said the state board ruled there was no probable cause in the complaint against Police Chief George V. McNally.

McNally said the hair length regulations were based on the use of tear gas masks and not dress code.

Crosson To Head Public Relations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—David Crosson will become chief of public information and education in the Ohio Natural Resources Department.

His appointment is effective June 5. Crosson, 28, was named Wednesday. He will be responsible for news media relations, publication preparation and distribution, and environmental education.

The job pays $17,500 per year.

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Things should be fairly stable in both your business and personal life now. Incentive and ambition, teamed up, should help to bring ultimate objectives more clearly in focus.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Avoid a tendency toward impulsiveness. In moments of stress, slow down — rather than take steps to a position from which it may be hard to extricate yourself.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Generous Mercury influences stimulate your ingenuity and imagination. Use both well and results will please. Reach for the unusual; study new trends.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You can advance through association with those who stimulate your thinking and imagination — especially if aims and objectives are mutual.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): New and unusual ideas, thoughtfully carried out, could bring gains. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Pleading recognition for your work on a recent project now raises your self-esteem and gives you a warm glow of satisfaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. They will, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle an optimistic outlook toward the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with fine discrimination, unusual business acumen and great versatility along artistic lines. You could write, paint or become an outstanding success as an entertainer — either in the musical or dramatic field. You could also teach or preach, and are capable of attracting large audiences through your personality and magnetism.

You could excel at the law and, through it, reach the heights in either statesmanship or diplomacy. No matter what field you choose, however, you will almost inevitably take up one of the arts as a hobby or an avocation. Birthdate of: Sir James M. Barrie, Eng. novelist, dramatist; Henry J. Kaiser, Amer. industrialist.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Army Engineers In Power Grab?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposition is developing to a proposal that could require some homeowners to get an Army Corps of Engineers permit before filling a backyard swimming pool and certain farmers to seek permission to plow.

The proposal by the Army Engineers would give them ironclad rule over virtually every natural and artificial body of water in the nation.

Under the plan some potential homeowners would need a permit before digging a basement for their home and certain golf course greens-keepers would need federal permission to build a new sandtrap.

Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said the panel would "have the gravest concern" over any action that could have such a "far reaching impact on agriculture."

A spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation said the strongest of the corps' proposals "smacks of the sort of federal power grab of which we've seen far too much already."

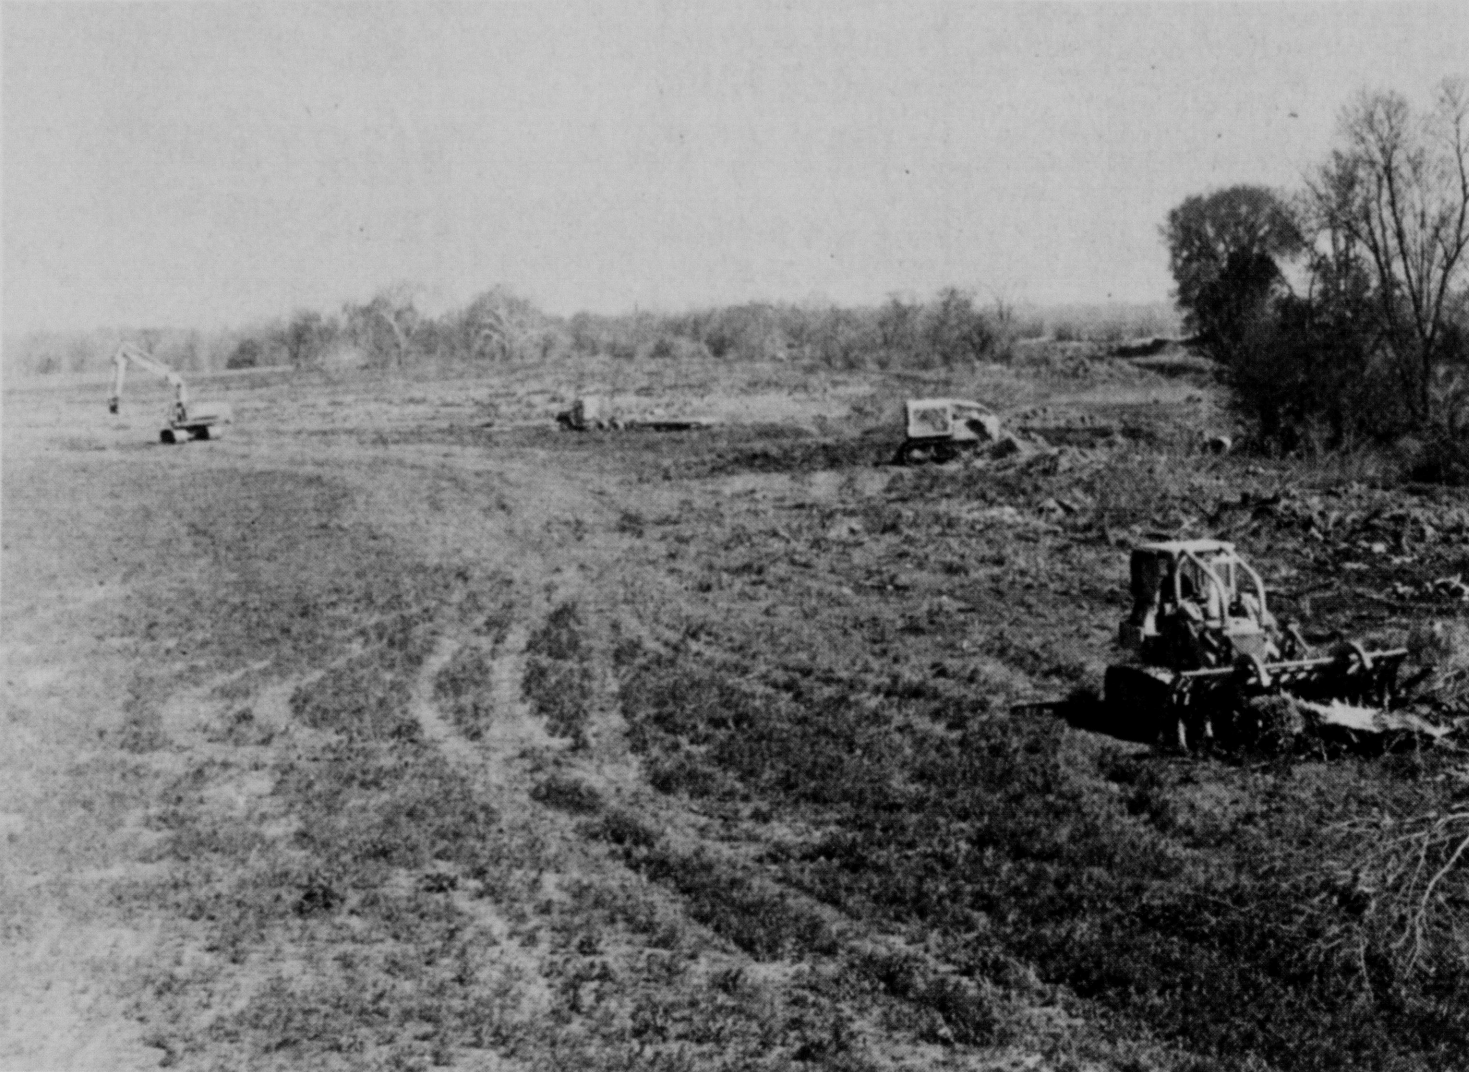

A spokesman for the corps said the key factor in such strange areas as golf courses, backyard swimming pools and basements is whether the area has ever been flooded by a navigable stream.

Time Is Important Factor In Land Clearing Business

TIME SAVER—The helicopter is a real time saving tool for Robert Drummond, Orient, who turns swamps and brush land into profitable agricultural acres for Ohio farmers. Drummond (left) provided Herald

editor Steve Jones (right) with a tour of the Scioto River valley south from Circleville Tuesday. Also receiving aerial tours were Tom Rodenfels, Herald General Manager and Cindy Sims, Herald employee.

CLEARING SITE—Giant land clearing machines clear brush from the land owned by John and Elizabeth Stevenson. The brush is pushed into windrows where it is allowed to rot. On the Stevenson farm which is in the Scioto River flood plain, surface drainage is being improved to allow the flood waters to recede more quickly.

By CINDY SIMS
And STEVE JONES

Time is of essence to Robert Drummond, Route 1, Orient, owner operator of Drummond Land Clearing Co., and a farmer.

His mammoth land clearing machinery is designed to do the job as quickly and as efficiently as possible and Drummond supervises, surveys the jobs prior to and during the operation, contacts farmers and looks after his farm all from the seat of his helicopter.

He spends about seven hours a day in the $66,000 chopper which he acquired through a lease purchase agreement negotiated by the Second National Bank of Circleville and its parent corporation, BancOhio.

Drummond had 150 hours of flight training before he began solo flying. He has now logged about 450 hours in the air and expects to utilize the machine about 1,000 hours a year in supervising his state-wide operation.

He took his flight training at Capital Helicopters Corp. in Columbus under James Long and received his license in February of this year. The helicopter is used entirely for business as he finds little time for pleasure flights.

Although his land clearing techniques have attracted international attention, Drummond limits his work to the state of Ohio where he has found more than enough to keep him busy without an excessive amount of travel.

Using his huge crawler tractors, massive plows and chisels and giant backhoes, Drummond's crews clear the land of brush and trees, grade it to provide the proper service drainage, rake the brush into windrows where it will be allowed to decay, and prepare the ground for planting.

The windrows occupy about five per cent of the cleared land. In five to ten years after the brush and wood in them has decayed, they are leveled.

The success of the land clearing operation is attributed in a large part to his crew by Drummond. They are Jim McAfee, co-operator, John Gifford, Terry Woodengear, Bill Edwards, Joe Cartville and Bill Brown.

On jobs over 30 miles from Pickaway County, a trailer which contains a field shop and living quarters for the men is located on site so the men do not have to use valuable time traveling to and from work.

Another key to the success of the operation is Bob's wife, Patsy. She helps with the business and runs the company office from their home.

Right now a land clearing project along the Scioto River on a farm owned by John and Elizabeth Stevenson is being completed. The project here includes clearing the land, preparing it for crops and cleaning a drainage ditch so surface water after floods can get away from the area more quickly.

The next assignment will take Drummond's crew to Warsaw.

Drummond. The crews work the year around but January through March are largely spent in the shop preparing the equipment for the busy summer months.

Drummond became interested in land clearing back in the 1950s when his father purchased a dozer to clear land they owned. Bob branched out clearing land for neighbors in addition to his regular farming operation.

In 1964 the clearing business became his prime occupation and farming just a sideline, if you can call supervising a 460 farming operation a sideline.

Veterans Memorial Airport News

By LEE JACKSON
Airport Manager

Well, here we are again. Maybe instead of again, I should say still and that surprises even me. It's been a great week for the airport with a lot of people from the area really getting involved in what's happening here.

We received our new furniture last Thursday compliments of the Veteran's Monumental Association. Did I tell you that last week? In any case, I'll probably keep on talking about it.

Other contributors are: a clock from T. K. Brunner and Son Jewelers; a new coffee pot from Keith Thomerson of Sentry Hardware; a beautiful walnut room divider from Mason Furniture; an end table from Asa Elsea; a coffee table and bar stool from Sears; a table lamp and picture from the Tradition House; picnic table compliments of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips; a concrete sidewalk from the administration building to the ramp from Bob and Karen Wilkinson and son; six trees from Cole Nursery personally planted by Bob Lyons and Bob made me promise to say if they're crooked its because I'm cross-eyed.

Jack Goode of Goode's Nursery and Pickaway Gardens was out May 2. He's going to landscape the area around the administration building and picnic area with shrubs and flowers. After I took Jack for a plane ride, he stated he'd still give us the shrubs and flowers.

People like this, who just come out on their own and donate their skill and time and things from their business, are what's going to make this airport something we can all use and be proud of. A pilot from RCA came in Tuesday to pick up some material for the local plant and he stated, so all could hear, that Pickaway County had the finest airport of any county he's visited in the United States. Now, that's a big chunk to say, but money and publicity don't an airport make. Only people that care about other people and give of themselves as the people of Circleville and Pickaway County are doing can bring comments like that.

Boy, if I ever get lockjaw, I'm out of business.

Congratulations to Norm McClelland, our first student to solo. That happened May 1. Good work, skinny.

On May 5, Emmett (Duke) Stapleton got tired of Norm strutting around the flight line getting all the attention and soloed that evening himself. Now we not only have a fat partridge in a pear tree but two student pilots running around the building flapping their arms and proclaiming to all that they have soloed. Great work, fellas.

Norma McClelland, Norm's wife, decided she might as well join in the fun and together we flew off into the sunset, me scared to death that her husband would figure out how to load that pistol, and Norma trying to see what her neighbors were up to. Women will be women.

Set your calendars fro May 14 at 7 p.m. That's when the first meeting of the new Pickaway County Aviation Association will be held at the airport.

What's a PCAA? Well, it's whatever you decide it will be. That's what the meeting is for. You don't have to be a pilot or even a fat partridge. We're going to have picnics and barbecues and all kinds of fun things. So support the airport and grab a piece of the future and come on out.

Brent Smith Wins OU Scholarship

BRENT SMITH

An Ohio University Achievement Scholarship has been awarded to Brent D. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Route 1, Stoutsville. A senior at Logan Elm High School, Smith will be able to renew his scholarship for up to four years. The award covers half his tuition.

Achievement scholarships are based on merit and not on need. Awardees must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their graduating class, have outstanding precollege test scores and have considerable participation in extracurricular activities.

Smith is vice president of the National Honor Society, a Merit Commended Scholar and is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." He also is a member of the bowling club, the scholarship team and the test your knowledge team. He plans to major in mathematics.

ROUNDTOWN

"BRIGADOON" has been selected by the musical committee of the Roundtown Players as the club's 1975-76 musical production. Production dates have not been set, although the play will be presented on consecutive weekends.

THE Pickaway County Historical Society has completed the first of a series of planned window displays in keeping with the Bicentennial. It is in the window of the J. C. Penney Store, 141 W. Main St. Another interesting window display is in the window of Ullman's Flowers, 160 E. Franklin St. Jim and Geneva Ullman have a display of family heirlooms on display, including some articles that were brought by the family when it came from Germany in the 19th century.

And while we're on the subject, don't forget the official Bicentennial kick-off 8 to 9 p.m. Saturday in the Coliseum at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. An impressive program has been planned by Walton Spangler, Ned Harden and the rest of the county Bicentennial Committee.

Marijuana Bill Rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House has passed and sent the Senate a major bill designed to crack down on smut peddlers and conform state laws with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

However, as the smoke cleared Wednesday from two hours of non-partisan debate, some attorneys-members of the chamber claimed new enforcement procedures would wreck even current laws.

Although some floor amendments made the bill stronger, both sides conceded, the main controversy was whether new language requiring prior court determinations—before arrests could be made—would hamstring police and prosecutors.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said the provision would prohibit local "crusaders" from harassing legitimate book stores, movie houses, and libraries and "keep them from hauling the local librarian into the clinker."

Rep. Joseph T. Tulley, R-59 Mentor, said the prior determination language "completely emasculates the bill." A floor amendment to delete the provision was tabled by a 47-46 vote. "It will be impossible to prosecute anyone."

Phnom Penh Said 'Dead City'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last 550 foreigners trapped in Phnom Penh crossed into Thailand today and several painted a picture of a "dead city" littered with decomposing bodies and abandoned household goods, populated only by stray pets and Khmer Rouge soldiers.

However, earlier evacuees in accounts released today related mixed tales of killings and kindness from the Khmer Rouge victors, and one of the last women to arrive said soldiers escorting them gave them coconut milk and oranges all along the 200-mile road to the border.

In Bangkok, reliable sources reported that the U.S. government has imposed a freeze on any more Cambodian and Vietnamese refugees who want to go to the United States. An Embassy spokesman said he had no knowledge of any such directive from Washington.

In South Vietnam, where the new government resumed communications with the outside world, Associated Press writers George Esper and Peter Arnett reported they were able to move about freely and tried to interview Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra, chairman of the military administration committee for Saigon under the new regime.

Esper said the North Vietnamese guards at Independence Palace were polite and let them through the outer gates with nothing more to show than their name cards, something that would never have happened under President Nguyen Van Thieu.

They did meet a general, but an interpreter said he could not give an interview because he did not speak English.

The first foreigner to cross the small "Freedom Bridge" into the Thai town of Aranyaprathet was a month-old French baby carried by a Thai Red Cross nurse. The infant was being fed intravenously. Its mother was the next across.

The evacuees, surrounded by baggage, looked disheveled as they lined up to cross the bridge in the very hot weather. Many were unshaven and said they had not changed their clothing on the trip.

Officials said the convoy of more than 20 trucks contained 230 French citizens, 200 Pakistanis and about 120 persons of other nationality including four Americans. Previous reports had said five U.S. citizens had remained behind in Phnom Penh after the first evacuation convoy brought out 585 foreigners Saturday.

The Americans were not immediately identified. Only about 250 foreigners had been expected in the second convoy but French special envoy Marc Bonnefous said more had been picked up during the four-day journey.

Bonnefous said all the evacuees but one were in good health, an elderly French evacuee who made the 200-mile-plus trip in an ambulance and was seriously ill. One French woman said "the Khmer Rouge provided enough food to all the foreigners in this group. We didn't have any trouble at all on the way. They gave us coconut milk and oranges every time we stopped."

Officials at the border said no one was left at the French Embassy where many of the group had taken refuge. Red Cross doctors, Thai immigration officials and French diplomats were waiting to receive the group and take most of them to Bangkok.

Associated Press writers Denis D. Gray and Chhay Born Lay said foreigners among the first batch out Saturday told of executions in the streets and forced marches of people from the cities after the Khmer Rouge takeover. But they also spoke of kindness from the victorious rebels that enabled the evacuees to survive.

Bad Weather Hurts U.S. Farm Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Subnormal temperatures and rainsoaked fields have delayed spring planting of corn and other crops, raising fears that the nation's grain production may be in for another jolt from poor weather this year.

"In summary, farmers are again facing potentially serious problems in planting," a government report said Wednesday. "However, the soil moisture situation appears good to excellent in most areas except in the Western Great Plains."

The immediate concern is the lag in planting the corn crop, particularly in the Midwestern corn belt. Rain means a soil reserve of moisture against temporary dry weather this summer, but first the crop must be planted.

By May 4, the report noted, only 13 per cent of the corn crop nationally had been planted, compared with 31 per cent last year and an average rate of 21 per cent by this time.

The report, issued by the Agriculture Department in cooperation with the

Douglas August Sapper III, a Vietnam veteran and vice president of a transport company who stayed behind after the U.S. evacuation of Phnom Penh to help people who had worked for him, said: "There were crowds of people on the rooftops and in the streets looking up to see the American helicopters do their air show in the sky. The Cambodians thought the U.S. Marines were coming to save Phnom Penh and acted as if they had just discovered a miracle cure for a terminal disease."

In the interest of the safety of those left behind, the accounts were not released until the final convoy entered Thailand. A Saigon radio broadcast monitored in Bangkok said the Saigon general post office would relay ordinary telegrams to any part of North Vietnam and telex messages could be sent anywhere in the world.

Newsmen and photographers, both Vietnamese and foreign, must get press cards and letters of authorization from the metropolitan military committee, the broadcast said.

The radio said international letters could not be sent yet, but it said mail service within the two Vietnams had been restored.

In Laos, the two opposing sides in the coalition government signed an agreement to stop the clashes between the Vientiane and Pathet Lao forces that had disrupted the cease-fire there since mid-April, government sources said.

The agreement followed a cabinet meeting called to discuss a fresh outbreak on Route 13, the road to the royal capital of Luang Prabang, north of Vientiane. Military sources had reported that Pathet Lao troops backed by four tanks pushed rightist forces southward 17 miles from the key road junction at Phou Koun.

AP newsmen Gray and Lay interviewed returning foreigners from the first convoy out of Cambodia.

The refugees said there were a few hours of relief, almost elation, as the Communist-led Khmer Rouge rebels swept into Phnom Penh on April 17 to the hurrahs and waving banners of the war-weary populace. But this was followed abruptly by alarm in the city, the ordeal of the foreigners trapped inside the French Embassy with little food, foul water and uncertainty about their fate.

Decisions would be appealable to the board of education or its designated agent.

Speck said his bill last year drew opposition because of provisions that called for in-house suspension for students unable to perform in normal classroom situations, and also suggested that school systems devise alternative forms of education.

"If we are going to suspend and expell, we also should provide some alternatives," he said.

Ohio House Takes Up Student Rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An extensively-drafted bill guaranteeing Ohio's public school pupils their right to due process in suspension and expulsion proceedings has been recommended for passage by the House Education Committee.

The bill grew out of a 1974 U.S. Supreme Court decision that said students could not be suspended without a hearing as required under constitutional due process. The same opinion left pre-expulsion procedures in doubt.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, who sought but failed to get a bill through the legislature last year, is sponsor of the pending measure which guarantees students' rights to hearings for suspensions or expulsions.

This year's bill is simpler than the last one, avoiding the broader social question of how to deal with students expelled from schools and "thrown out on the streets." With these proposed remedies gone from his bill, Speck said Wednesday night the opposition to the measure "is more muted."

In other legislative activity Wednesday:

The House debated two hours and then approved a bill that assertedly conforms Ohio statutes to recent U.S. Supreme Court anti-obscenity decisions. Opponents argued heatedly the new law would do little more than create insurmountable enforcement problems.

Across the Statehouse, the Senate debated at length, but then passed 32-4 still another measure aimed at overcoming court decisions. It spells out procedures for committing allegedly insane felons to institutions.

Sponsors said it was needed under present laws which contain no provisions to commit prisoners unlikely to regain their sanity in time to stand trial.

A Democrat-controlled subcommittee announced agreement on a $10.7 billion state budget bill, sending it to a meeting today of the full House Finance-Appropriations Committee.

A congressional expert on gun control said Ford was still looking at the gun control issue "the same way as when he was a representative and registration was an extreme."

"That's not right," he continued. "Extreme is the Hart-Bingham bill. Registration is the compromise."

That bill introduced by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., includes language that would ban the manufacture, sale, transportation and ownership of handguns.

Republicans served notice they will fight changes made by the majority party in the measure submitted to the legislature in mid-March by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Speck's bill, dealing with suspensions and expulsions has the endorsement of the Ohio Education Association. The measure spells out procedures for student hearings that include prior written or oral notice to students in expulsion cases and written notice to parents or guardians in cases in which expulsion is intended.

Such notices would have to be provided the student in time for him to appear at an informal hearing if he faced suspension.

In expulsion situations, parents or guardians would have to be advised of hearings, at which they would have the chance to challenge the action, within three to five days.

Speck said the bill also provides for emergency removal of students from classrooms by either a teacher, principal or superintendent. If a student was so removed twice within 24 hours, then school officials would be required to give notice of a hearing within 72 hours on either the issue of expulsion or suspension.

Decisions would be appealable to the board of education or its designated agent.

Speck said his bill last year drew opposition because of provisions that called for in-house suspension for students unable to perform in normal classroom situations, and also suggested that school systems devise alternative forms of education.

"If we are going to suspend and expell, we also should provide some alternatives," he said.

Castro Bids For U.S. Detente

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro has strongly urged Washington to ease its trade embargo with Cuba, denied any Cuban role in the assassination of John F. Kennedy and charged that the CIA was behind a number of attempts on his own life.

But looking into American television cameras, Castro pointedly said in English, "We wish friendship. We belong to two different worlds but we are neighbors. One way or another we owe it to ourselves to live in peace."

The Cuban prime minister held a news conference Wednesday night between private sessions with visiting Sen. George McGovern.

Castro said he felt President Richard M. Nixon had "a personal hostility against Cuba and many counterrevolutionary friends" but he added, "President Ford does not have any personal hostility."

"The fact that the Vietnam war is over helps to improve relations. It was very difficult during the war to improve relations" because Cuba strongly opposed America's policy, Castro said.

Earlier, the bearded leader took the wheel of a jeep and roared around the hilly countryside to show the senator and Mrs. McGovern a rum factory and several farm and housing projects.

Castro told the news conference, "We prefer a total lifting" of the 13-year-old U.S. trade embargo, but he added that resumption of shipments to Cuba of food and medicine "will help a lot."

He said he felt Washington should reciprocate with an "important step" to match his gesture in signing an agreement with the United States that virtually eliminated a wave of hijackings to Cuba. He said, "We believe this gesture has not been sufficiently" matched by the United States.

Castro and his associates have demanded a relaxation of the boycott before the two countries can negotiate other friction points such as release of

U.S. prisoners in Cuban jails and compensation for $1.8 billion in U.S. property expropriated after Castro seized power.

Castro pointed out that Cuba "does not have any blockade against the United States and no military base in Florida."

On the Kennedy assassination, Castro said any Cuban role in the slaying of a U.S. president would be "absurd, irresponsible, crazy — and a very dangerous measure.... It would have been stupid on the part of Cuba to associate itself in a matter of such tremendous moment as the assassination of a president of the United States."

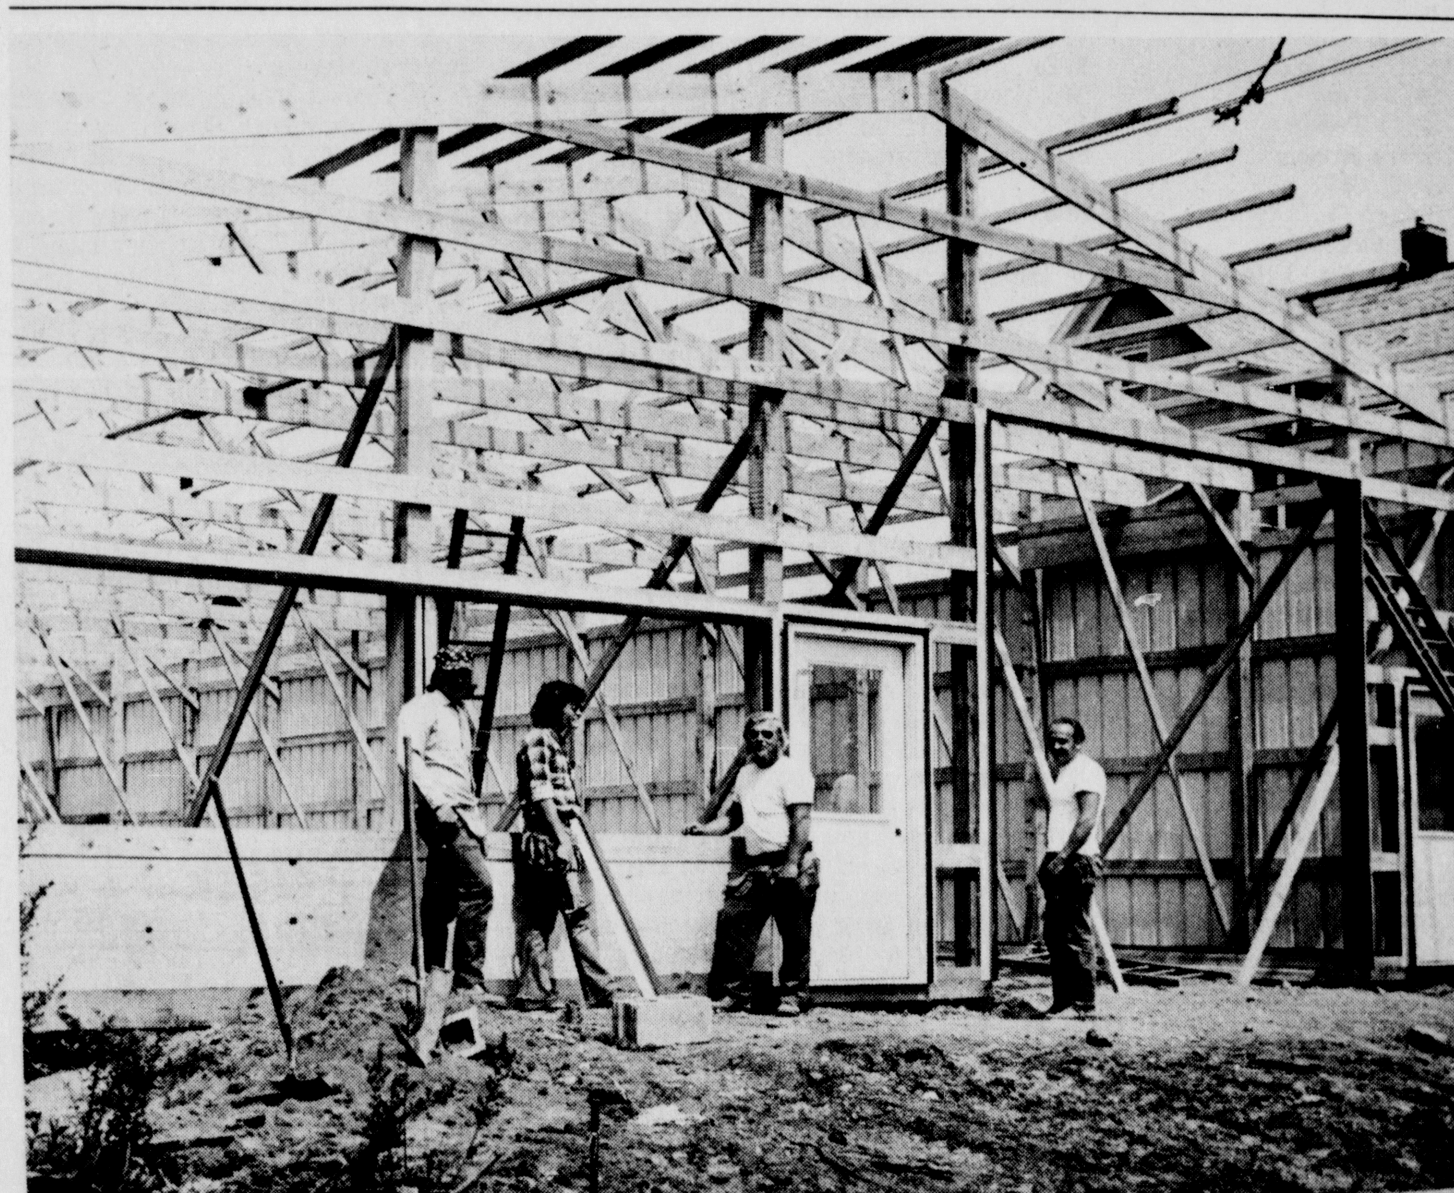

However, he said "it is not news for us" that the CIA was involved in various attempts to kill him and other leaders of the 1959 Cuban revolution.

Castro said that "for many years" his security forces had uncovered plots against his regime, and in many cases those sent were trained by the CIA, maintained and armed by the CIA, and in some cases the weapons used were "smuggled out of the Guantanamo Naval Base."

Chrysler Studies Plant Shutdowns

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. may shut down four or more of its six U.S. assembly plants for extended periods this summer, the Wall Street Journal said today.

Each plant could be shut down for a total of six weeks, the newspaper said. The company denies it has such plans, but the newspaper said sources have told it that the tentative Chrysler shutdown plans hinge on the success or failure of the automaker's new $200 cash rebate sales plan to stimulate sales of its compact cars and vans.

PUMPKIN SHOW HOME—Pumpkin Show Inc. is having a 33 by 96-foot pole-type building constructed on Watt St. by Iron Horse Building Inc. The structure will serve as storage for Pumpkin Show equipment for most of the year, and during Pumpkin Show will house exhibits. Carpenters erecting the building are, from the left, Lester Rice Jr., Rick Stout, Creed Stonerock and Don Shively.

Fourth grade students entertained members of the Parent Teacher Boosters by singing patriotic songs under the direction of Mary Hartung with piano accompaniment by Gail Koonce. Pupils from both fifth grades presented choral readings, giving a picture of our country's history and progress.

BICENTENNIAL OPEN HOUSE—This South Court St. first grader puts the finishing touches on a display that will be included in the schools' Bicentennial Open House. All classrooms will be open with special displays and students work. The open house will be 7 to 9 p.m. tonight and 3 to 5 p.m. Friday. Items used in the displays have been loaned by parents and teachers.

Europe Recalls End Of World War

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Europe today marked the 30th anniversary of the Allied defeat of Nazi Germany with wreaths, parades, speeches, and the Soviet Union declared an amnesty for war veterans.

The Kremlin said it would release an undisclosed number of Russians from jails and labor camps under a decree timed to coincide with the celebrations of the end of World War II in Europe.

In Czechoslovakia, occupied by Hitler's forces before the war began in 1939, the Communist party central committee met in Prague Castle for a V-E day ceremony. Speakers including party leader Gustav Husak praised the Soviet army for liberating the country.

But no mention was made of the American troops who liberated parts of the country to within 20 miles of Prague.

News reports said there was little jubilation among the Czechs on the anniversary.

East Germany's Communist party daily Neues Deutschland proclaimed on the anniversary: "We may count ourselves among the victors of history."

Official celebrations were planned for Friday.

West Germany marked V-E Day on Wednesday with a state commemoration led by President Walter Scheel. But the leadership of the opposition Christian Democrats, who feel such ceremonies are no longer necessary, did not attend.

Scheel said in Bonn: "Our former enemies celebrate (V-E day). The sacrifices they made for their victory over injustice certainly entitle them to do so. We remember their sacrifices and all the dead of the war with profound respect. We do not forget that the liberation came from outside."

More than 35 million people, military and civilian, died in Europe during World War II — 20 million in the Soviet Union, four million Germans and 1.6 million among the Western allies.

The British government officially ignored the anniversary of V-E Day — when Nazi Germany surrendered to the Allies to end World War II in Europe.

Train Derails

One car of a 142 N & W Railroad train derailed at the Clinton St. crossing Wednesday due to an apparent equipment breakage.

According to Engineer Lowell Liston, an auto rack draw bar on one of the cars broke while he was pulling the train across the crossing, causing the derailment.

Circleville Police said no one was injured.

Thefts Checked

Circleville Police are investigating two theft reports.

Lawrence Lewis, business manager of the Community United Methodist Church, 120 N. Pickaway St., told police that thieves entered the church last weekend and took a Lloyd's Stereo unit from an unlocked cabinet in one of the classrooms.

The unit is valued at $180.

DNR Grants Help Equip Fire Units

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources (DNR) today announced a grant program that will allow rural fire departments in Ohio to purchase fire equipment with the aid of federal matching funds.

The Rural Development Act of 1972 authorizes up to 50 per cent federal funding for fire equipment to serve communities under 10,000 people.

Ohio has been allotted $101,000 in federal funds for this year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. DNR's Division of Forestry will allocate the money in increments which cannot exceed $22,500.

"We're happy to assist the federal government in distributing funds to upgrade rural fire protection," said Ernest J. Gebhart, Chief of the Forestry Division.

"Many times rural fire departments are called on to fight forest or grass fires."

The federal funds may be used to purchase smoke detectors for rural residences, alarm and dispatching systems, protective clothing, and equipment essential to increase fire protection capabilities.

Priority will be given to communities which have applied for loans through the Farmers Home Administration to construct fire department buildings or water systems.

Applications for the federal grants may be obtained from the Division of Forestry, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224. The applications must be returned to the Forestry Division by June 2 to qualify for funding during 1975.

Privacy, Open Me

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One major bill pending in the Ohio Senate seeks to assure the public its right to know, while another protects citizens' rights to keep certain things private.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, talked about his own "right to privacy act" and another that prohibits public agencies from conducting business in closed meetings.

"It is important to recognize that the sunshine law and the privacy law are not in conflict," he said.

Aronoff's measure states that when a citizen gives personal information to a government agency he can expect that it will not be used for other unrelated purposes.

Sen. Robert D. Cantor, is chief sponsor of the bill called sunshine law with the practice meeting privately to affect people's lives.

Aronoff said he dresses itself to "which has been done times."

Privacy, Open Meeting Bills Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One major bill pending in the Ohio Senate seeks to assure the public its right to know, while another protects citizens' rights to keep certain things private.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-4 Cincinnati, talked about his own "right to privacy act" and another that prohibits public agencies from conducting business in closed meetings. "It is important to recognize that the sunshine law and the privacy law are not in conflict," he said.

Aronoff's measure states that when a citizen gives personal information to a government agency he can expect that it will not be used for other unrelated purposes.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, is chief sponsor of the so-called sunshine law, which does away with the practice of public bodies meeting privately to make decisions that affect people's general welfare.

Aronoff said each proposal addresses itself to "a cherished right which has been distorted in recent times."

"There is little doubt that government secrecy should not be permitted," said Aronoff. "On the other hand, neither the public in general nor an individual snooper has the right to know sensitive and personal information that is collected about you by various governmental agencies as a prerequisite to delivering a service."

Under Aronoff's bill, agencies would not be permitted to disseminate information about such things as a citizen's tax records, earnings, school history, arrests, birth, marriage, health, mortgages and military service.

The measure also gives a citizen the right to see, amend and correct his computer-kept records, and establishes a "code of fair information practices" that would have to be observed by record keepers.

Freeman's bill, in effect, would invalidate any decision made by an agency of state or local government at a closed meeting. It does make some exceptions — most of which emerged from lengthy discussions and negotiations in a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

Among exceptions are parole board hearings, labor negotiations, meetings at which an agency is receiving legal advice from its bona fide counsel, those that involve real estate transactions or security arrangements, and political party caucuses such as those frequently held in the legislature.

The subcommittee insisted on keeping caucuses closed, Freeman said, "but I knew if I didn't go along with it I'd probably sink the bill." Aronoff had to overcome a substantial obstacle as well, exempting private business and industry from his privacy measure — primarily because of the awesome lobbying strength of Ohio's retailers.

Both lawmakers indicated that if their measures pass as they are now, both will be back later to try to strengthen them.

Former Ashville resident 16-year-old Denise Lynn Duffey captured the Georgia State Miss Georgia Teenager title during competition April 11.

Miss Duffey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Duffey Jr., of Warner Robins, Ga. She also won first place for composing an original essay on "Why I Am Proud to Be an American" and was runner-up in the talent competition.

Besides being president of the Northside sophomore class, she is a member of student council, the Youth Advisory Council of Warner Robins and was a homecoming court finalist. She is the feature (solo) twirler majorette for Northside High School. She is also vice-president of the Trinity United Methodist Youth Fellowship, a member of the National Baton Twirling Association, and was homecoming queen at Northside Junior High in 1974.

Denise plays the piano and wants to teach elementary or secondary school when she finishes college.

Disabled Veterans Would Get Break

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 2,000 disabled Ohio veterans would get free hunting, trapping and fishing licenses under a bill approved 32-0 by the Senate Tuesday.

Sen. Robert T. Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, the chief sponsor, estimated the loss of revenue of the Division of Wildlife at about $17,000 annually.

A Page Of Opinion

Secret Of Life

One of the life processes which long has fascinated science, and about which little real progress toward understanding had been made until recently, was the genetic code. Oh, yes, scientists knew that genes were the means of passing hereditary traits from generation to generation. They also were able to identify different types of genes, and gave them names.

But the more they found out about genes, the more puzzling the exact nature of the genetic code became. For instance, it was discovered that the same kinds of genes lived in each cell, about 3 million to the cell.

What was it then that made the various cells different? Also, it was discovered that a large number of the genes in any cell remain inactive, performing apparently no function.

Other genes were turned on or off by some unidentified control, performing functions as needed. For years, researchers labored over these points. The key to the genetic code lay within this puzzle.

As frequently happens, science devised a possible answer to fit the puzzle. Two French scientists won the Nobel Prize for proposing that thousands of the genes in each cell were there to perform no function except to regulate the other genes.

Later, two Harvard scientists succeeded in isolating two repressor chemicals believed to have been produced by the regulator genes in bacteria.

Soon, an understanding of the gene complex in a particular cell will be possible. After that, the complete genetic code of life will unfold.

Man soon will be faced by the problem some scientists fear most: What to do with the knowledge once man knows how to control, change and experiment with hereditary traits.

Much Adieu

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — One of the first Vietcong mortars into Saigon hit the roof of the Majestic Hotel. It burned out the top two floors of this blowy relic of French imperialism, which means it erased the bar and observation lounge. No harm, apparently, was done to the ground floor office of the Vietnamese Tourist Bureau, which until relatively lately had still been in business. ("See Beautiful Vietnam.")

At the height of the American buildup as many as 30,000 tourists were showing up in Saigon each year, many of them come to see their sons, husbands, brothers, fiancées.

It was a part of the surrealism of the whole crazed undeclared war.

Wonder if the Caravelle, the best hotel in Saigon, will continue to feature its soufflé jambon, so light and fragile that it almost seemed to need a paperweight to keep it from escaping? Who'll wind up in the fine Pan Am offices at tumultuous Tan Son Nhut? Do the Japanese and West Germans still have a claim to the lens-making silicon in the sands of Vietnam's superb beaches? Which Vietcong general has inherited the posh mountain-side VIP quarters once used by U.S. Marine generals in the hills above Da Nang? The club could be reached only by helicopter, which must have made it the most exclusive in the world.

Estimates of the original cost of the mountains of American-made arms now in the hands of the Vietcong run as high as $10 billion. Who knows? — the Vietcong may become our competitor in sales of guns, tanks, troop carriers, trucks, helicopters and jets to the rearming nations of the world. Stranger things have happened. One thing is certain: the captured hardware of the war will not be turned into plowshares.

Who is sleeping in my room at Da Nang's press headquarters, a pleasantly flowered complex which had been — before Dien Bien Phu — a brothel for French troops? What happened to the bar, the cafeteria, where I last saw the great correspondent Jim Lucas and his broken leg, and all those P-4's, C-130's, fighter-choppers — bombs, bullets and the napalm?

What's now with the installations at Bien Hao, where I had two great fights? One was an F-100 mission which included a burst through the speed of sound. The other was being introduced to the mascot of one of the American fighter pilots. The mascot was draped along about 15 feet of scaffolding in the barracks. It was a boa constrictor.

Not all the booty the Vietcong now owns is something that goes "bang!"

when the trigger is pulled. We built superb highways for the losers, bridged rivers, dug deep-water ports, installed plumbing, hygiene, raised great cranes and derricks to handle sea cargoes, spread miles of thick runways, put up fine hospitals and, in Saigon itself, a string of 17 mortuaries for the 55,000 Americans dead.

Gone with the wind...

Could our side have won the war? Barry Goldwater thinks we could have if we had not handcuffed ourselves. For years we let the Russian freighters deliver the goods of war to Haiphong and the Chinese overland it by rail and truck to Hanoi. We wanted no trouble with either of them; indeed, nervous allies on the fringes of the two big Communist powers implored caution and restraint.

Gen. William Westmoreland was sure we were winning. In an interview with him in his office one day at "Pentagon East" on the edge of Saigon, the general produced charts indicating that U.S. and South Vietnam troops were killing the other side at the appalling rate of 17-to-1. He showed us a sample of those odds one early Sunday morning at Tan Son Nhut. There had been several Vietcong raids the night before against U.S. planes parked there. They had been repulsed

NEW YORK (AP) — A year or so ago some of the nation's small businessmen decided they had taken enough. Through the National Small Business Association they vented their outrage.

"We have condoned and inadvertently encouraged the manipulation of the national economy for the benefit of the big, and at the expense of the small," the association said of Americans in general.

The fiery emotions may have cooled since then, but the determination is firm. This year the small businessmen have tasted victory in a small way, and they want more.

The victory was the Emergency Tax Reduction Act. "For small business, that act was the first forward moving tax measure since 1958," the association said. "Our process of government worked well — if 17 years late."

The two major aspects of that victory were:

by American machinegun fire from sandbag fortifications on the base.

The general's helicopter landed among the Vietcong dead, sprawled and torn in the dawn's early light. The prop-wash caused their tattered black clothing to flutter. One of them, who couldn't have been more than 14 or 15, had been shot out of his sandals. He had courageously charged within a few yards of the searing fire. Another dead man wore a fresh bandage on an arm wound. Obviously, he had been wounded in one charge, had dropped back into the bush for medical aid, and had gone back into the fray to die.

The late Gen. Creighton Abrams also believed we were winning and illustrated it one day in his office with an account of how the B-52's had perfected pinpoint bombing to such a degree, even at night, that they could wipe out attacking troops without hitting besieged Americans a few hundred yards away. He must not have told the attacking troops.

Vice President K. told us, with a placid smile, "We expect a signal from the North, saying they've given up. You'll be the first we'll tell." But when Bill Hearst asked an American field general, "How will you know when you've won?" the general scratched and said, after a long pause, "Never thought of that. Damned if I know."

LAFF - A - DAY

"He always claims the dollar isn't worth anything until I ask him for one!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I once accidentally stabbed my chin with a sharp pencil. The black spot remains. Is there any way it can be removed?

Miss J. K., Ohio

Dear Miss K.: The lead from a pencil injury can deposit pigment which is exactly like a deep tattoo mark.

The aim of any method of removal is to liberate the pigment. Sometimes, surgery is used. Occasionally, dermabrasion (sandpapering) of the site may accomplish this.

Recently, in a physicians' magazine, "Consultant," Dr. Marshall B. Guthrie, of the University of Pennsylvania, made an interesting suggestion for the removal of such pigment. He said, "I follow a technique first described by Dr. F. M. Crittenden, Jr. who suggested that wet table salt be rubbed into the tattoo area until slight bleeding occurs."

"A sterile dressing is then applied. After a week, a crust will form that contains much of the pigment. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment in six weeks, to remove all of the pigment."

It is an interesting idea, but certainly should not be tried by anyone other than a doctor.

Note that this method is suggested

only for a single pencil stab. It should not be used to remove large tattoo marks.

I have a hole in my nasal septum. Can this be repaired? Mrs. A. W., La.

Dear Mrs. W.: Septal perforations may be caused by chronic nose picking. They occasionally follow difficult operations on the septum. In rare instances, a perforation may be due to a birth defect. Crusting and dryness of the nose, especially around the hole you describe, makes surgical repair difficult.

Poor blood supply around the edges of the opening is also responsible for difficulty in using grafts in this area.

Each case must be individually evaluated before surgery is contemplated. In general, the results have not been as gratifying as they should be.

Speaking of your health... Spring activity for golfers, tennis players, bicyclists and other sportsmen should be started slowly and gradually increased. Muscles that have been dormant for many months deserve this special attention.

Bill Would Make UC Fully State-Backed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats included in their new version of Ohio's two-year budget bill Tuesday night a provision to make the University of Cincinnati a fully state-supported institution.

The university, now jointly funded by the City of Cincinnati and the state, would receive special appropriations totaling $20.5 million if details of proposed contracts can be worked out with the Board of Regents by July 1, 1976.

Grange News

POMONA GRANGE
Leona Berger of Scioto Valley Grange was accompanist at the spring meeting of Pomona Grange held May 2 at the 4-H and Grange Building.

The presiding master was Frank Lands, member of Washington Grange and state grange deputy for Pickaway County. Saltcreek Valley Grange had the most members present.

New members received were: Blanche Kern, Saltcreek; Don Forquer, Nebraska; Myra Rinehart, Washington; Everett and Clara Shriver, Scioto Valley.

The lecturer, Paul Dunkle, announced that Diana Lands would be in charge of the program for the August Pomona to be presented by the lecturers of the seven subordinate granges. He also reported the annual state grange lecturers conference is scheduled for the Canton area in November.

Plans were made for serving meals during the county fair. Mrs. Lands will be coordinating this project with the CWA chairmen of each grange.

Resolutions of respect were prepared and read for Alice Dick who was a member of Star Grange.

Winners of the baking and sewing contest were announced. Judy Sims, home economics teacher at Logan Elm was the judge. For the baking entry, Marie Reed, Star Grange was first. Atwood of Mt. Pleasant Grange was second and Mary Bozman of Scioto Valley was third.

For the sewing entry, Donna Bougher of Saltcreek Valley was first, Lydia DeLong of Washington Grange was second, and Vonna Rasor of Scioto Grange was third.

For the junior entry, Holly Hastings was first in the 5 to 9 year old section and Jan Gulick first in the 10 to 17 year old. Both are from Scioto Valley Grange.

"Where Does One Start" was the theme for the program.
Harold Hewitt, director of the Pickaway County Family YMCA, and Carson Scheffter, assistant chairman for the building campaign, explained the growth of the local Y since its beginning in 1968.
Saltcreek Valley hosted the social hour.

Nuns Near God In Hocking Hills

LOGAN, Ohio (AP)—They slop around in the barnyard muck in their rubber boots, blue jeans and flannel shirts, doing the chores like farmers since the beginning.

But, these are different farmers. They're nuns—Sister Mary and Sister Nancy of the Order of St. Francis.

Their problem in the Hocking hills isn't a lack of religious response to their mission, the rustic living in their ancient farmhouse or living in the secular world. The problem is trying to balance the scales with the people in southern Ohio.

"We find that we have received so much more from these people than we will ever be able to return," said Sister Nancy.

Some of the people around the area would argue with that. They find the two sisters extend their religious message in many ways—a basket of fresh eggs, produce from their carefully tended garden, a cheery smile, a sympathetic word.

It's all a part of an attempt by Sister Nancy and Sister Mary to live a life closer to that of the founder of their order, St. Francis. That's why they left the convent.

"While we lived at the convent," said Sister Nancy, "all our basic needs were provided. We had all that was necessary and many things that I considered luxuries."

Pledged to poverty, the two felt they had to live closer to nature and to God to fulfill their vows. Although none of the 400 sisters in the Buffalo, N.Y., convent lived outside, their plan was accepted.

They arrived in Hocking County without a place to live. The pre-arranged housing didn't materialize. But, in three days they found the farm on which they now live.

The well had to be cleaned and repaired before the one pump could supply safe water. The ruin of the barn was salvaged for paneling to keep the elements out of the rundown house, for shelves and partitioning for upstairs. They bought stoves for heating. The first summer was limited to establishing a garden. This year they added a flock of chickens and two hogs. Any profit from pork and eggs will be used to increase the livestock and to buy feed.

The two sisters are self-supporting. They receive no help from the provincial headquarters of their order and one half of all they earn goes back to help maintain the order.

Mornings Sister Mary works for the Gompf Greenhouse and afternoons she does the chores. Sister Nancy is a teacher at Union Furnace Elementary School, working with students needing special education.

"It's like closing your eyes and pretending you are blind," said Sister Nancy. "You know you can really see. Our living here is quite the same. We know that if we get into problems we can write the Motherhouse and get bailed out."

"But, I do feel that we are better able to serve God living among His people. We do experience the same trials that they must encounter and we, therefore, are better able to be more sympathetic and understanding. "We feel that God is with us all the way in this mission."

Koch-DeLong Wedding Vows Repeated In Calvary Church

MRS. DANIEL ALAN DeLONG

Miss Marilyn Louise Koch and Mr. Daniel Alan DeLong were united in marriage 7:30 p.m., April 26th in Calvary United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Roy C. Osborn officiated the double ring, candlelight service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Koch, 423 S. Pickaway St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale DeLong, 590 Ridgewood Drive.

Two baskets with arrangements of gladioli, daisies and carnations graced the front of the church and at the communion table was placed the wedding candle and an arrangement of carnations and daisies. Candelabra flanked the altar and tapers were in the windows of the church.

Mrs. Earl Millions, organist, and Mr. Bob Bensonhaver, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony including, "Twelfth Of Never," "Cherish," "Close To You," "Love Story," "Speak Softly," "O, Perfect Love," "If" and "Colour My World." "The Wedding Prayer" was sung during the service and after the ceremony "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, selected for her wedding a full length gown of white sheer mist over silk illusion and bridal polyester. The bodice of reem-broidered imported lace was hand sewn with seed pearls and glass crystals. The bridal polyester was repeated in the graceful A-line skirt, sweeping into a chapel length sheer mist train. The sleeves were accented with hand sewn lace motifs and the wrists with sheer ruffles. The lace and pearls were at the neckline and the three tiered silk illusion madonna veil was bordered with hand sewn imported scalloped lace and featured seed pearls at the top. She carried a bouquet of dyed carnations in the rainbow colors of the wedding theme with accents of daisies, red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Debbie Green served as maid of honor. She wore a floor length empire styled gown of spring green dotted swiss with short puffed sleeves and a large ruffle at the hemline. Her gown was coordinated with green polyester reem-broidered lace and tied in a bow at the back. She wore a matching straw hat and a seed pearl necklace, a gift of the bride. Her bouquet of carnations matching her gown was interspersed with daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Doris Koch, sister of the bride; Miss Debbie Koch and Miss Ann Myers. They were attired in pink, blue and yellow dotted swiss matching that of the honor attendant as were their hats. They also wore seed pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride and carried bouquets of carnations matching their gowns with daisies and baby's breath. Mrs. Tim Bowers presided at the guest book.

Miss Jodi Russell was flower girl and Master David Koch, the page. Mr. Jeff Harr served as best man and Mr. David DeLong, brother of the bridegroom; Mr. Joe Koch, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gary Scherer were ushers.

Mrs. Koch wore an aquamarine floor length gown with matching accessories and a corsage of aqua carnations with yellow, pink and blue daisies.

Mrs. DeLong was attired in a pale yellow floor length gown with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations with pink, blue and yellow daisies.

A reception in the church annex immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth with daisies and fern decorating the candles, flanking the four tiered cake. The cake was decorated with yellow, pink and blue daisies, and topped with a kissing couple seated on a park bench.

Hostesses were Mrs. Gary Dean, Miss Kathy Penn, Miss Cheryl Kauderer, Miss Mary Ann Smith and Miss Annette McClure.

For a wedding trip to Atlanta and Callaway Gardens in Georgia, the bride wore a three-piece green dotted double knit suit with scarf and matching accessories. The couple now resides at Route 3, Circleville.

The bride graduated from Circleville High School and is employed by State Automobile Mutual Insurance Co. in

CHS Plans Spring Art Show

The Circus is coming to Circleville High-School. Circus clowns can be seen everywhere along with circus animals, trapeze artists, bare-back riders, and even a trained seal. All these interesting characters, and more, will be on display at the CHS Spring Art Show, this Friday evening.

The art students have chosen "The Circus" as the theme for this year's show. They have painted larger-than-life circus figures to adorn the show. Many of the students plan to deck themselves out in clown costumes for the pleasure of the youngsters attending the show.

The CHS Spring Art Show will be held in conjunction with the band concert and smorgasbord at Circleville High School on Friday evening. The art work will be on display between the hours of 5 and 10 p.m.

Judging the art work will be local artist Betty Griffith and Ju-lea McQuain, of Ashville. Both are members of the Art League. Ribbons will be awarded by the judges. Areas to be considered will be batik, ceramics, drawing, jewelry, painting, printing, three-dimensional, mixed-media, and weaving.

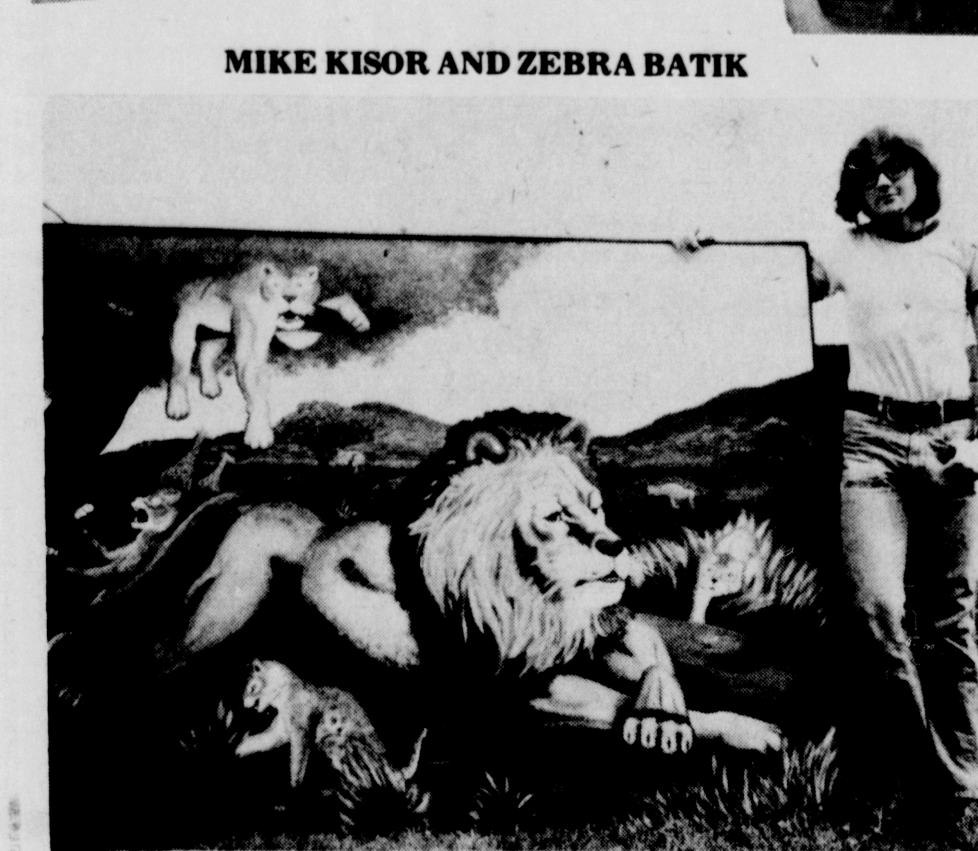

Four students will be demonstrating the potters wheel and plaster-casting. The art show is open to the public and everyone is invited to a fun-filled evening with the arts.

Poverty Level Floor Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you live in the city and belong to a family of four earning less than $5,060 a year, then the government considers you to be officially poor.

The Labor Department issued new definitions of poverty Tuesday and raised the maximum income for the poverty level by $500 from $4,560 to $5,060. The department said the increase reflects boosts in consumer prices.

But if your family of four lives in a rural area, you are considered poor if the family's income is $4,300 or less. The previous cutoff was $3,870.

The poverty level for an individual living in a metropolitan area was raised from $2,330 to $2,590. Individuals living in rural areas are considered poor if their annual income is under $2,200, up $220 from a year ago.

The definitions are used by federal, state and local officials in administering manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act which

Turns The Other Cheek

DEAR ABBY: I am from Houston, and the women down here do not ask the men to dance. At least I've never seen it done.

I date a man who takes me to a place where people sit around and drink beer. There's music, and every now and then one of the women will ask one of the men to dance.

Last night I was feeling pretty good so for the first time I asked my man friend if he would dance with me. He said he didn't feel like dancing. In less than a minute, a strange woman came over and asked him to dance with her. He said "yes" without batting an eye. (The woman didn't know he had just turned me down, so it wasn't her fault.)

When he started for the floor, I said, "Okay, you just turned me down. Now there's gonna be big trouble!"

I really blew my top and asked to be taken home. He said I acted like a baby. (I'm nearly 50.)

I say, a man's lady friend should be more important to him than a stranger. He said he was just being polite. We may break up over this although I'm sure we love each other. Who was wrong?

HURT IN HOUSTON
DEAR HURT: Your man friend owes you an apology for accepting another woman's invitation to dance after having turned you down. And you owe him one for having made a scene in public. Kiss and make up. Maybe you both learned something.

DEAR ABBY: Having just read your answer to "NEEDS A RAR", I feel I must make a correction.

A foam rubber fanny is not "the living end" - it's the dead end!

BAINBRIDGE, N.Y.

DEAR BAIN: Touche...which is also "the end."

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a man kissing another man on the cheek?

When my daughter and her husband come to visit us, I first greet them by kissing my daughter, then kissing my son-in-law on the cheek. It seems a natural, friendly thing for me to do, and my son-in-law never seems to mind it.

My wife now tells me to cut it out. She says it isn't right for a man to kiss another man.

Will you please tell me what is wrong with it? I do not go around kissing men as a rule, but my father used to kiss me (on the cheek), and I never thought anything of it.

AFFECTIONATE FATHER
DEAR FATHER: I think genuine affection, and any demonstration of it, is not only permissible, it's beautiful.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE MATURE TEENAGER: The May issue of "Teen" magazine now on the newsstands has an excellent article entitled, "Your Body-His Body." I recommend it highly.

Old Ladies Willing To Help Boy Scouts To Cross Street

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One good turn deserves another.

First the boy scouts helped old ladies across the streets and now there are some old ladies who say they're ready to return the favor.

"I'd take a Boy Scout across the street, but I'd tell him to do the looking," said 80-year-old Stella Wanstrub, a charter member of the Swinging Sycamore Senior Girl Scout Troop.

The women, who are also members of a local senior center, hope to pierce the stereotype of the senior citizen by taking to the girl scout trail.

"The last thing you would find here is a rocking chair," said Rosemary Rengers, center activities director. "When my granddaughter saw my SS (troop pin), she kept saying 'Come on Grandma...'"

Mrs. Breslin's troop has adopted the number 1976 because it will be participating in the Bicentennial activities including making a large quilt for display at the Girl Scouts Bicentennial show next March.

The Swinging Sycamore Senior Girl Scout Troop has expanded into Troop 1976, with members ranging from 39 to 81 years old.

When asked about her family's reaction to her becoming a girl scout, Loretta Breslin said, "When my granddaughter saw my SS (troop pin), she kept saying 'Come on Grandma...'"

Great Rivers Girl Scout Council, said the scout program involving elderly women is "totally unique. There's no strictly adult troop in the nation except for this one."

There has been considerable interest in the project, Mrs. Boyer said, and she added that several older women have asked about becoming latterday scouts.

A few senior senior scouts spent a part of a day last week visiting a camp in Warren County.

"I never wanted to go with my kids, but now I want to camp out," concluded Mrs. Breslin, anticipating the first overnight campout being planned by the troop.

State Health Work Force May Walk Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A union representing state mental health workers has called on members to take a day off later this month to join in a protest here of working conditions in state hospitals.

Herschel M. Sigall, director of Ohio State Government Employees Council 4455, said Wednesday the leadership has declared May 28 as a professional study day.

Sigall said the OSGE is planning a march on the capitol in an effort to "wake people up" to what he said were intolerable conditions for both patients and employees of the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

"We will encourage all mental health employees to come to Columbus on that day in order that we might talk to each other, see the legislature and invited Director (Timothy) Moritz to hear more of the truth of mental health and tell us of this administration's solutions," Sigall said.

"We are as well calling for a full investigation by the legislature of the lack of programming, lack of treatment and general ineptitude that has marked the operation of our mental health facilities," Sigall added.

Sigall charged that mental health employees have been "lied to, used and abused by a succession of political administrations." He said the workers are so committed to their patients that they have "tolerated administrative incompetence and legislative neglect in order to provide basic custodial care for the mentally ill."

Bus Crash Injures 10

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ten persons were hospitalized Wednesday night with injuries suffered when a chartered bus carrying a group of senior citizens from Toledo collided with a tractor-trailer rig.

A spokesman at Mansfield General Hospital said the 10, nine passengers and the bus driver, all were in "stable" condition.

The accident occurred on U.S. 30 in suburban Ontario. Police said the tractor-trailer rig jackknifed when the driver hit the brakes after a car in front of him stopped suddenly and skidded into the left front of the oncoming bus.

The westbound bus careened off the road, tossing passengers about inside, and stopped in a ditch.

Firemen using power saws worked for 90 minutes to free passengers from the wreckage.

Forty passengers were treated at the hospital, mostly for lacerations and bruises. Those not admitted to the hospital were returned to Toledo on another bus.

The hospital spokesman said most of the people hospitalized suffered fractures. All of Toledo, they were identified as H.T. Karns, 51, the driver, and passengers Gladys Beckley, Matilda Spencer, Kathryn Witmyer, Margaret Manders, Josephine Ehlert, Mary Brown, Ruth Kunzweiler, Myrtle Burrows and Martha Rensch. Ages of the passengers were not available.

Police identified the truck driver as Kenneth Schlabach of Massillon. Officers said the accident still was under investigation and charges might be filed later.

An official of Short Way Line in Toledo said the bus had been chartered by the Toledo Parks and Recreation Department to take a group of senior citizens to Kingwood Center, a horticultural park near here.

Federal Funds For Jobless Asked

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati City Councilman Thomas Brush proposed the city seek federal funds to help the unemployed and poor to pay for their skyrocketing utility bills.

Brush suggested a program using stamps similar to a food stamp program now in use at Allentown, Pa. and Denver, Colo.

Brush said application could be made to the Community Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The motion was given to the city manager's office for study.

Consumer Bill Given Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to create an Office of Consumer Affairs to advise the President and to oversee separate "offices of consumer representation" in each federal agency was introduced Wednesday by Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Taft said his measure would provide more effective consumer protection than a bill now pending in the Senate which would give one agency the job of representing all consumer interests.

Taft criticized the pending legislation for holding out "a false promise that one advocate can effectively serve all consumers alike."

He also noted that the President is "categorically opposed" to the present bill and is likely to veto it if it passes.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a co sponsor of the bill, said he thought "Taft's proposal would have the support of some who opposed a consumer agency bill killed last year in the Senate, because it has 'less bureaucracy, less cost, less control.'"

Taft also released a Library of Congress report showing that $588 billion were spent on government consumer interest activities in fiscal 1974-1976.

The Oregon Territory was acquired by treaty from England, terminating joint occupation of 255,580 square miles in 1846.

FINAL RESOLUTION

NO. 512
Adopting plans
Proposing to co-operate:
Requesting Director to proceed:
(Chapter 352)
Ohio Revised Code

Mr. David Goldschmidt, moved the adoption of the following Resolution:

WHEREAS, At a meeting of the legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, held in the office of said legislative authority on the 22nd day of April, 1975, a quorum being present, the improvement of Nicholas Drive under the provisions of Chapter 352, Ohio Revised Code, and Amended Senate Bill 428, passed by the 108th General Assembly of Ohio and in accordance with the provisions of Ohio Department of Highway Procedure Manual, "State Issue No. 1 Funds," came on for further consideration, said portion of highway as described in the legislation proposing cooperation with the Director of Transportation enacted on the 19th day of January, 1971, being as follows:

The improvement of Nicholas Drive from U.S. Route 22 northward to State Route 188 including all necessary intersection work. Total length of work being approximately 1.8 miles.

WHEREAS, In said legislation proposing cooperation, said legislative authority proposed to cooperate with the Director of Transportation in the improvement of Nicholas Drive by assuming and contributing the entire cost and expense of the improvement less the remaining estimated amount of State Issue No. 1 Funds determined to be available and eligible for participation in said improvement.

The total cost of the project is now estimated in the amount of Six Hundred Thirty Five Thousand Six Hundred - 00/100 Dollars ($635,600.00) less the remaining estimated amount of State Issue No. 1 Funds determined to be available and eligible for participation in the amount of Two Hundred Sixty Seven Thousand and One Hundred Fifty - 00/100 Dollars ($267,150.00), leaving an estimated balance presently due said State from the City of Circleville in the amount of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty - 00/100 Dollars ($368,450.00), but said estimated balance will be adjusted when final actual costs and allocations are determined.

The estimated balance of $368,450.00 includes those items shown on the construction plans for the project to be 100 percent paid for by the City of Circleville ($361,440.00) and not eligible for State Issue No. 1 Financing.

The City further agrees to assume and bear 100 percent of the cost of preliminary engineering and right-of-way for the project.

WHEREAS, The Director of Transportation has approved said legislation proposing cooperation and has caused to be made plans and specifications and an estimate of cost and expense for improving the above described highway and has transmitted copies of same to this legislative authority.

WHEREAS, This legislative authority desires the Director of Transportation to proceed with the aforesaid highway improvement.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved:

I. That the section of highway above described be improved under the provisions of aforesaid law. That said work be done under the charge and supervision of the Director of Transportation and that said plans, specifications and estimates for this highway improvement as approved by the Director of Transportation are hereby approved and adopted by this legislative authority.

II. That this legislative authority is still of the opinion the proposed work on the described highway should be constructed and that we should co-operate on the basis set forth in our proposal.

III. That the estimated sum of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty - 00/100 Dollars ($368,450.00), is hereby appropriated for improving the highway described above and the fiscal officer is hereby authorized and directed to issue his order on the treasurer for said sum upon the requisition of the Director of Transportation to pay the cost and expense of said improvement. We hereby agree to assume and bear the first installment, the share of the cost and expense over and above the amount to be allocated from State Issue No. 1 Funds.

IV. That the installation of all utility facilities on the right-of-way shall conform with the requirements of the Federal Highway Administration Policy and Procedure Memorandum 30-4, "Utility Relocations and Adjustments" and the Department of Transportation rules on Utility Accommodation.

V. That traffic control signals will not be installed on the project without prior approval by the State and the municipality does hereby agree to place and maintain all traffic control devices conforming to the Ohio Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices on the improvement in compliance with the provisions of Section 461.11 and related sections of the Ohio Revised Code.

VI. That the rights-of-way provided for said improvement shall be held inalienable for public highway purposes and no signs, posters, billboards, roadside stands or other private installations shall be permitted within the right-of-way limits.

VII. That this legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, enter into a contract with the Director of Transportation providing for the payment by said legislative authority of the estimated sum of Three Hundred Sixty Eight Thousand Four Hundred Fifty - 00/100 Dollars ($368,450.00) for the improvement of the cost and expense to be borne by Circleville, Ohio, for the improvement of the hereinbefore described highway.

VIII. That this legislative authority of Circleville, Ohio, hereby requests the Director of Transportation to proceed with the aforesaid highway improvement.

IX. That the Clerk of this legislative authority be, and he is hereby directed to transmit to the Director of Transportation a certified copy of these Resolutions.

X. This Resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure by reason of the need for expediting construction of projects to promote highway safety, and provided it receives the affirmative vote by two-thirds of the members elected to the legislative authority it shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its passage and approval by the Mayor; otherwise it shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Thereupon, Mr. Harold Hoffman, seconded the said motion, and upon the roll being called, the result of the vote was as follows:

No Open Arms For Refugees

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Gov. Otis Bowen says the state is "sympathetic" to all who are hungry or homeless but it won't extend any "open arms invitation" to Vietnamese refugees.

The governor helped dedicate Aux Chandeliers mental health center here Wednesday and said, "In the event the federal government insists on some of them coming here, they should also foot the bill."

He said arrival of several thousand refugees would compound the state's already serious unemployment problems.

Gulf Chief To Testify On Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church says Gulf Oil Corp.'s chief executive will be called to testify publicly next week about who received $4 million in political donations from the company.

"We must insist on full disclosure," said Church, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations. A hearing is set for May 16.

Gulf Chairman Bob R. Dorsey publicly assured the governments of Venezuela and Ecuador on Wednesday that those nations were not involved in the $4 million gifts.

Venezuela had threatened to end Gulf's business operations in the country if Gulf officials did not say by 6 p.m. EDT today whether or not Venezuelan officials were involved.

Ecuador also made inquiries.

Bolivia also set a 48-hour deadline Wednesday night and threatened to halt payment of an estimated $50 million still pending in indemnities for Gulf property taken over in 1969 if the company does not clarify whether Bolivians were involved.

The ultimatum was announced following a special cabinet meeting called by President Hugo Banzer.

Informed sources said they could only speculate about where the money went because Dorsey has so far refused to identify the recipients and has left few clues about who they might be. Japan, the Philippines, Nigeria, South Korea and Italy are considered possibilities.

The political gifts were disclosed publicly last week when the Wall Street Journal published excerpts from secret testimony Dorsey had given to investigators for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Dorsey said Gulf paid $1 million in 1966 and $3 million in 1973 to politicians in an unnamed country. He said the money was paid under pressure, so Gulf could continue its business operations there.

Court Curbs Libelous Material

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court has ruled that some potentially libelous materials can be banned before their publication despite First Amendment guarantees.

The court said county courts under certain circumstances can order persons not to repeat statements already judged libelous. But the court specifically said its ruling was narrow and could be applied to censor material before publication only in special circumstances.

The court ruled 7-0 that a landlord can pursue a court case which attempts to stop the University Community Tenants Union, Inc., from publishing what amounts to a blacklist of Ohio State University area landlords.

The court said the tenants' union had published a list and would publish more lists of landlords against whom it allegedly had received complaints.

He asked the lists be banned, as libelous, alleging it contained false and defamatory material.

The Franklin County Common Pleas Court dismissed the suit, but that decision was reversed by the 10th District Court of Appeals.

The Supreme Court upheld the 10th District ruling, but specifically emphasized "the narrow ground upon which that affirmation is based."

The court said O'Brien "does allege that files of a false and defamatory nature are being used to coerce the public into refusing to rent from him. If those allegations can be substantiated, a claim for proper injunctive relief might be granted."

In another decision Wednesday, the court ordered a Highland Heights city councilwoman ousted because she had taken a job as a school teacher in violation of the city charter.

Police identified Hook through a 1970 passport found on his body and said he was a native of Baltimore.

U.N. officials said a rambling, handwritten note found on Hook's body pleaded for "global disarmament," "harmony among the peoples," "defense of the planet against contamination by radioactive material" and prevention of overpopulation.

A spokesman for Armco, one of the nation's top 10 steel companies, said in Cincinnati that Hook was the grandson of the late Charles R. Hook — second president of Armco and the son-in-law of George Verity, founder of Armco in Middletown, Ohio.

The victim's father of the same name served as deputy postmaster general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower and headed a New York advertising agency at the time of his death in 1961.

Young Hook was also a distant cousin of William Verity, who now heads the firm. However, the Armco spokesman said the Verity family now owns less than one-tenth of one percent of the company stock and that the victim was not an heir.

The court did not stop the publication itself, but said Charles William O'Brien, the landlord, can attempt to convince the county court that such a ban is justified.

"Some narrow classes of speech are unprotected by the First Amendment," Justice Frank D. Celebrezze said in the court's opinion.

"Once speech has judicially been found libelous, an injunction for restraint of continued publication of that same speech may be proper," he said.

O'Brien filed his suit on May 4, 1973, alleging that the tenants' union had published a list and would publish more lists of landlords against whom it allegedly had received complaints.

He asked the lists be banned, as libelous, alleging it contained false and defamatory material.

The Franklin County Common Pleas Court dismissed the suit, but that decision was reversed by the 10th District Court of Appeals.

The Supreme Court upheld the 10th District ruling, but specifically emphasized "the narrow ground upon which that affirmation is based."

The court said O'Brien "does allege that files of a false and defamatory nature are being used to coerce the public into refusing to rent from him. If those allegations can be substantiated, a claim for proper injunctive relief might be granted."

In another decision Wednesday, the court ordered a Highland Heights city councilwoman ousted because she had taken a job as a school teacher in violation of the city charter.

Armco Scion Kills Himself

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Charles R. Hook, 34-year-old scion of the Armco Steel Co. family, killed himself with a pistol on the lawn of the United Nations headquarters, authorities say.

Hook's body was found by a tourist in a bed of ivy amid the U.N.'s cherry trees Wednesday. Dr. Dominick DiMaio, acting chief medical examiner who performed the autopsy, ruled the death a suicide Wednesday night.

A spokesman in his office said one bullet was removed from Hook's brain.

Police identified Hook through a 1970 passport found on his body and said he was a native of Baltimore.

U.N. officials said a rambling, handwritten note found on Hook's body pleaded for "global disarmament," "harmony among the peoples," "defense of the planet against contamination by radioactive material" and prevention of overpopulation.

A spokesman for Armco, one of the nation's top 10 steel companies, said in Cincinnati that Hook was the grandson of the late Charles R. Hook — second president of Armco and the son-in-law of George Verity, founder of Armco in Middletown, Ohio.

The victim's father of the same name served as deputy postmaster general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower and headed a New York advertising agency at the time of his death in 1961.

Young Hook was also a distant cousin of William Verity, who now heads the firm. However, the Armco spokesman said the Verity family now owns less than one-tenth of one percent of the company stock and that the victim was not an heir.

Flood Plain Management Important Land Use Tool

Each year, with the coming of spring rains and the resulting flood damage, interest is rekindled in the management of flood plains. These low lying areas along streams and rivers make up only five per cent of the nation's land area, but a large proportion of the population and tangible property is located on them.

"Flood plain management is important in total land use planning," says Don Archer, District Conservationist in Pickaway County for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). Construction of homes, schools, and industrial and commercial buildings continues to take place in areas subject to flooding. Because of existing and increasing development of these areas, there is a need to accurately define the potential for present and future flooding of an area, Archer stated.

With a basic knowledge of flooding frequency, 25, 50, or 100 years, township, city, and village officials can initiate land use and development regulations within the flood hazard studies through a joint agreement with the SCS carries out flood hazard studies through a joint agreement with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR). Local units of government submit a request to the ODNR for a detailed flood hazard study of an area. After review and approval by ODNR, the request is sent to the SCS who performs the technical phases of the study.

The major objective of SCS, ODNR, and the county units of government is to acquire detailed information concerning flood hazards. This will enable them to jointly develop an effective flood plain management program. A need also exists to determine the future flood potential based on anticipated changes in land use. These changes over the next 10 to 15 years will affect runoff and flood potential and must be considered to adequately plan land use and development alternatives. When the study is completed, it will show the present and future use of the areas flooded by the 25, 50, and 100 year frequency flood.

County Commissioners, township trustees, cities and villages, and county planning commissions use the information to determine future use of the flood plain areas. Flood plains are adapted to open space uses since areas adjacent to streams have a natural attraction. Parks, playgrounds, picnic areas, and agricultural crops can utilize land which is not suitable for permanent structures such as homes, businesses, and industries.

Flood hazard studies are now being carried out by the SCS on Blacklick Creek in Franklin County, Hargus and Hornum Creek in Pickaway County, East Branch, Middle Branch, and West Branch of Nimishillen Creek in Stark County, Martins Run in Lorain County, and Hocking River in Fairfield County.

The studies can prove invaluable in planning the use of flood plains and in protecting people from possible devastating floods.

Scouts Hold First Meeting

The first pack meeting of Troop 159 was held April 24 at the Walnut Elementary School. The meeting was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Boy Scout Motto and handshake.

The highlight of the evening was the receiving of the Bobcat pins. Receiving pins were, Steve Rainier, Jason Storts, Bobby Herrick, and Kenny Sampson, of Den 1, Cherokees; Donald Hall, Tony Hawk, Skip Myers, Kurt Stewart, and Tim Myers of Den 2, Little Bears; John Wokaly, Tracy Burnett, Eric Schoonover and Billy Crowder of Den 3, Wolverines; Brady Maynard, Tony Brookins, Chris Turner, Steve Starkey and Dean Poston of Den 4, Apaches.

A flyer contest was held with Mrs. Rose Turner's den winning. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next pack meeting is scheduled May 22.

If oncoming drivers continue to flash their brights at you when you have only your lowbeam headlights on, then your lights need adjustment. They should aim down and slightly to the right.

The Public Investigator

The Investigator questioned utility companies in the Circleville and Pickaway County area concerning monetary increases to consumers of their specific product and the reason for the increase. Here are the answers of the South Central Power Company.

(Q) Approximately how many consumers does South Central Power Company serve in Pickaway County and Circleville?

(A) Approximately 9,000 consumers.

(Q) What are your present rates to individual residential consumers and how much have they increased in the past 3 months? — 6 months? — and the past year?

(A) The average consumption for the month of March, 1975, per residential consumer was 1,264 KWH at an average cost of $.0292 per KWH. Three months ago (December 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0283 per KWH; 6 months ago (September 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0239 per KWH; 12 months ago (March 1974) 1,264 KWH was $.0225 per KWH.

In May of 1974 an average rate increase of five per cent became effective. The additional increase over and above the five per cent reflects the power cost adjustments, which consist of the costs involved in the generation of electricity by coal.

These costs are passed on to the South Central Power Company by our supplier, Buckeye Power, Inc., and are then passed on to the consumer.

The "Power Cost Adjustment" has grown by leaps and bounds. In June of 1969 the average cost of a ton of coal was $4.51, and as of January, 1975, it averaged $21 per ton.

(Q) Does South Central have any "extra" charges, such as installation costs or deposits?

(A) Yes, on Mobile Homes that do not have their own water-under-pressure and sanitary sewers available, there is a charge made if a primary extension is necessary. The consumer does have the option of having this charge returned to him, in full, if he builds a permanent dwelling on the site within five years from the time the service is established.

If the Mobile Home is located within service drop distance, a temporary service charge is made on a non-refundable basis.

A $20 returnable deposit is required from a non-property owner.

(Q) Why is there a raise in the cost to consumers?

(A) Inflation is the culprit. It costs considerably more to produce a KWH of electricity than it did two or three years ago, as explained in our response to the second question.

In addition, the cost of labor, poles, crossarms, transformers, wire and cable, and all the other appurtenances that make up an electric system have increased in price as much as from 100 per cent to 200 per cent.

(Q) Do we expect to reach any ceiling in the selling price?

(A) It depends on whether or not this inflationary trend abates. Obviously when an economic plateau comes along, then a ceiling would be established. Of course, at that time, ceilings would be established on many other things as well, and there is no guarantee that any economic ceiling is going to hold its level forever.

(Q) What are your different payment plans and which one is the most popular with your consumers?

(A) South Central offers two plans. The regular monthly billing plan wherein the consumer pays his actual bill each month seems to be the most popular.

We also offer a Budget Billing program for all-electric homes, based on a 12-month period. Under this plan an estimate is made for the total KWH consumption of the home for a year, then the billing amount is divided by 12.

For example: If it is estimated that a consumer's yearly power usage would total $840, $840 would be divided by 12 and the consumer would pay a regular $70 per month for eleven months. Any adjustments necessary would be made in the 12th month, either by terms of a credit issued by South Central or an additional payment made by the consumer.

(Q) Is South Central aware of any Federal or State Legislation designed to lower the utility rates of persons on a fixed income? Does your company see any need for such legislation?

Urge Caution In Basement Waterproofing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If a waterproofing company which has not visited your home promises it can fix your leaky basement without any digging, you'd better proceed cautiously, the Commerce Department's Consumer Protection Agency says.

In its latest Consumer Protection Bulletin, the division says it has received numerous complaints that consumers have paid hundreds of dollars for "pressure method" basement waterproofing that didn't work.

The method is effective about half the time, but the division quotes Consumer Reports magazine as listing type of soil and basement building materials as factors which control the effectiveness of the method. The pressure method also does not resist water leakage caused by the pressure of underground water.

Thus, the division warns consumers to select a reputable company, to get at least three written estimates from waterproofer who have visited the home and, if possible, to deal with long-standing local companies which have good reputations.

Other advice: —Refuse to pay in advance, insisting to pay either in installments or upon completion.

—Get the guarantee in writing with every detail spelled out clearly.

—Don't sign a certificate stating that the work has been completed until it has been done to your satisfaction.

Liquor Listing Regulation Void

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Because it puts producers and wholesalers right in the middle, the Indiana Alcoholic Beverage Commission cannot require them to list the prices charged for liquor and wine, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge S. Hugh Dillin said Wednesday if producers follow the state regulation they violate federal antitrust laws and if they refuse to list prices they violate the state regulation.

(A) We have heard rumors to that effect, but only rumors. It is surprising, however, how well many people with fixed incomes are able to manage their money. We would imagine that the most realistic kind of legislation to help people on fixed incomes would be the kind that was aimed at raising their income.

(Q) Are efforts by the consumer helping to reduce the load of energy consumed? What additional measures could the consumer implement to help conserve energy?

(A) South Central Power, as a rural electric cooperative, is one that experiences its peak demand during the severe winter months. "Peak Demand" is the total amount of electrical use on our system at one time.

Two winters ago we initiated a "Voluntary Peak Shaving" program, requesting the cooperation of our consumers in helping us shave that peak demand, which usually takes place between 5 and 9 p.m. when the temperature is 10 degrees or less.

Whenever South Central has a demand of 75 per cent or less, of the highest peak established during any 12-month period, it pays a penalty in its wholesale power rate of $3.25 per KW below 75 per cent, even though it is not being used. As you can see, the shaving of that peak demand is doubly important because it has a bearing on the rates South Central pays for wholesale power the year round.

Let's take a look at how it actually works. In 1972, for instance, each month, May through September, the demands on our system were lower than the 75 per cent "ratchet" demand. Therefore we paid a penalty for the demand that was not used in those months. It cost us $102,851.

In 1973, our peak demand was lower and we paid only $47,172.

In 1974 our consumers co-operated to lower the peak demand even further and we paid $31,535 in unused power charges — less than demand. But the three year total for unused power was $181,566.

Incidentally, the response to our "Peak Shaving Program" has been excellent. It was a voluntary agreement on the part of our consumers, and last year more than 1,900 of them replied, stating that they would curtail their electric power usage between 5 and 9 p.m.

Another way in which South Central might equalize some of the inequities of the "ratchet" system would be to vigorously promote increased usage of electric power during the summer months.

But as you know, we are in the midst of an energy crisis, and we have ceased all of our efforts aimed at increasing power usage by our consumers.

(Q) What are some of the ways in which we can conserve electrical energy?

(A) There are many, many ways. Here are a few: Have your home adequately insulated. Clean or replace filters on a forced air system. Check your hot water faucets for dripping. (Ninety drops per minute amount to about 1,000 gallons of hot water wasted per year.) Take a shower instead of a bath; it takes less hot water. When leaving home for four or five days, turn off your water heater. Open and close your refrigerator and freezer doors only when necessary. Accumulate enough dirty laundry until you have a full load for your washer. (Remember, your washer uses energy in the form of both heated water and electricity.) Your automatic washer uses the same energy for a full load as it consumes to launder a single item.

(Q) By what process is your energy manufactured? Where is it produced and by what means is it brought to the consumer?

(A) Our electrical energy is generated by, and purchased from, the Buckeye Power Company. Buckeye operates the Cardinal generating plant at Brilliant, Ohio, on the Ohio River.

The energy is then transmitted through investor-owned transmission facilities to South Central's metering points. From there it is re-distributed at either 138,000 volts or 69,000 volts, to the 38 different substations in the South Central system.

At the substations, the voltage is reduced to 7,200 and transmitted through our distribution system to the individual transformer located near your residence or place of business. That transformer further reduces the voltage from 7,200 down to 120-240, and from there it is wired into your home.

(Q) Is your company currently undertaking projects to locate more energy reserves?

(A) South Central Power is one of several hundred rural electric cooperatives who have committed themselves, along with investor-owned and municipal utilities, to support financially, research projects aimed at finding ways to produce more energy on a more economical basis.

(Q) Who may consumers call with questions concerning billing procedures?

(A) South Central consumers may call any of our four offices. The locations are: Circleville, 159 E. Franklin Street, Phone: (614) 474-4918; Canal Winchester, 10 S. High Street, Phone: (614) 837-4351; Hillsboro, Danville Pike, Phone: (513) 393-3423; Lancaster, Route 188 & Coonpath Road, Phone: (614) 653-4422.

Fruit Farmers Still Pessimistic

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Valley fruit farmers, who were wiped out two years in a row by the weather, remain pessimistic despite bumper peach and apple crops blooming in their orchards.

"We're still not out of the woods yet," said Vaughn C. Hempling, operator of the Parlor Grove Farm at Hebron, Ky.

He's keeping an eye on the thermometer until Friday and trying to ignore the fabulous beauty of hundreds of trees in full bloom.

"There's never been a freezeout past May 9. So you can never tell. But so far, everything looks to be in good shape," Hempling said.

"We're very nervous this time of year," said Mrs. Byron Baker who lives near Lebanon, Ohio. "It was just this time the past two years that we lost our peach crops because of late frosts."

What is unusual this year is that every single tree at the Baker's Maplewood Orchards is in bloom, she said. Normally, many of the trees bloom in alternate years.

"This doesn't happen often, but they were froze out two years straight," Mrs. Baker said.

The few peaches the trees produced last year were destroyed by wind and hail.

"Wind and hail can come anytime, but barring a late frost, we should have a very good crop this year," she said, admitting she was hopeful.

Police Investigating Pedestrian Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County police today continued their investigation of the death of Barbara Jean Ellis, 27, of Goshen, who was struck by a car Wednesday on Interstate 275 in northern Hamilton County.

Police said the driver was not charged. Officers said they were at a loss to explain why the cocktail waitress was walking in the roadway in the early morning hours.

Governor Signs Budget Measures

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Although the budget bills were not exactly what he prescribed, Gov. Otis R. Bowen signed them Wednesday, completing action on 1975 legislation.

Bowen waited until the final day for acting on the three bills spelling out a $3 billion state spending plan for 1975-76.

"The budget bills are not as we ideally would like to have them," said Raymond W. Rizzo of the governor's staff. "But the niggles within the budget fall inside the minimum limits of acceptability — the $80 million surplus is there and the property tax relief fund is preserved."

Many bright new picture books as colorful as spring time have recently arrived in the children's room. Come in and try a few.

Imaginative children who have seen strange shapes at night will enjoy listening to "You're the Scaredy-Cat," Mercer Mayer's latest book. When an older brother tries to frighten his younger brother with a scary story, guess who has to turn the flashlight on to keep the goblins away?

Many children already know and love Lyle, the friendly crocodile who was discovered in an apartment bathtub years ago. Now, in "Lyle Finds His Mother," he leaves New York City and travels around the world in search of his long lost mother. With light humor and a warm touch the author has created a friendly beast to captivate very young audiences.

Another beast who sports a new image is the octopus. Herman is the central character in a stunning picture book "Herman the Helper." Rather than frightening everyone to death this little fellow comes to the aid of the needy, the very young and the elderly. Herman will provide children with a unique view of the underwater world. The illustrator, Jose Aruego, a new artist, is commanding a great deal of attention among lovers of children's books.

A rat is another animal in our menagerie. "The Rat Rat's Day" is a book of nonsense poems about animals seldom celebrated in verse. Even the mole receives attention as an earnest fellow uncomplainingly living where few animals would be happy.

Mothers may not like tiny mice but children do. Victor, a city mouse years to understand how wild animals live in "A Mouse is Not a Moose." The result of his curiosity is a fast chase after he bravely confronts a sleeping cat and jauntily tugs its whiskers.

Puppy finds many new experiences, both pleasant and not so pleasant as he explores the wide world in "Who Said Meow?" Running after animal sounds he has never heard before leads him straight to trouble as a bee strongly objects to this noisy puppy.

Learning can be fun when bears play a rip-snorting counting game in "Ten Bears in My Bed." And Dr. Seuss pleases again in "There's a Wocket in My Pocket." Up to his special brand of nonsense he teaches the names of common household items as only he can.

And for boys who enjoy adventure, there is a new story about "Indian 2 Feet and the Grizzly Bear." Like all boys Indian 2 Feet wants to be brave, but he hasn't the least idea of how. This very brief story takes only a few minutes to tell, in case your listeners are inclined to be restless.

Honestly now, these colorful new books could make a reading fan of any child, so give them an opportunity to see these exciting stories.

Police Agencies Go To Hard Hats

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Law enforcement officers are starting to trade in their uniform caps for a new kind of hard hat, according to an official for a firm which has already convinced 37 state police agencies around the country to make the switch.

"The helmet was designed to be simple and attractive," said Bob Clark, sales manager for Premier Seat and Accessory Co. "Not to be conspicuous to the general public, but rather maintain a peaceful public image. We gave the men what they wanted, a general duty helmet rather than something just to be used in case of emergencies."

The new helmet, similar in design to a motorcycle helmet, is definitely sturdier than the old-fashioned stetson. It is covered with a protective shield of polycarbonate and cannot be scratched or damaged, according to its creators.

"Law enforcement tests using a live volunteer showed that a night stick broken over our helmet caused no pain to the man," Clark said.

A safety shield is stored at the rear of the helmet which can be quickly flipped over the face.

The helmet can also be all-weather part of the uniform, which is a moneysaving factor. The helmet can be transferred for use by another patrolman by putting in a new interior that is fastened with an adhesive material.

The helmet cost $30 and a new liner costs $4.95.

"The winter stetsons such as worn by the Butler and Hamilton county sheriff's deputies cost $15. Badges cost $16-$20. To outfit a man with summer and winter hats would be about $75," estimated Clark who said about 10,000 helmets had already been shipped to police departments around the country.

"Our new helmets can be worn all season and no badge is necessary, as we affix a police decal outside the helmet. They are safe, against rain and sun fade for $30."

Ashville Bank Contributes To College Fund

The Ashville Bank was among the April contributors to the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges. The contributions during April brought the Foundation's total for the first 11 months of the 1974-75 fiscal year to $1,483,182 from 1508 gifts.

Compared with a year ago at this time, contribution dollars are running ahead and Foundation officials are still optimistic that the year will end up as an excellent one.

Johnny Bench says he's starting to feel pretty good. So does Tug McGraw. That could make the rest of the National League feel pretty sick.

"I'm finally starting to feel natural," Bench, recovering from an injured shoulder, said after his highlighted Cincinnati's six-run fifth inning Wednesday with his fifth home run of the season and the fifth grand slam of his career in the Reds' 10-2 rout of San Diego.

"I think this is the best I've felt since 1972," said McGraw, former bullpen ace of the New York Mets who has given Philadelphia some much-needed relief, including 2 1-3 innings of hitless ball Wednesday night over St. Louis. Phillies' 4-1 victory over NL games it was Chicago 7, Montreal 0; Los Angeles 5, Houston 1; San Francisco 6, Atlanta 2, and Pittsburgh 6, New York 1.

Tony Perez also homered for the Reds, who chalked up their fourth straight victory. "I don't think anybody can offer as many hits as we do—not Los Angeles, not Pittsburgh," said winning pitcher Fred Norman.

"With Cincinnati, get runs in bunches just hold 'em long that we're going to win."

Johnny Bench says he's starting to feel pretty good. So does Tug McGraw. That could make the rest of the National League feel pretty sick.

"I'm finally starting to feel natural," Bench, recovering from an injured shoulder, said after he highlighted Cincinnati's six-run fifth inning Wednesday with his fifth home run of the season and the fifth grand slam of his career in the Reds' 10-2 rout of San Diego.

"I think this is the best I've felt since 1972," said McGraw, former bullpen ace of the New York Mets who has given Philadelphia some much needed relief, including 2 1/3 innings of hitless ball Wednesday night to preserve the Phillies' 4-1 victory over St. Louis.

In Wednesday's other NL games it was Chicago 7, Montreal 0; Los Angeles 5, Houston 1; San Francisco 6, Atlanta 2, and Pittsburgh 6, New York 1.

Tony Perez also homered for the Reds, who chalked up their fourth straight victory. "I don't think anybody can offer as many bats as we do—not Los Angeles, not Pittsburgh," said winning pitcher Fred Norman.

For three innings, he pitched perfect

"With Cincinnati, you can expect to get runs in bunches like that. If you just hold 'em long enough, you know that we're going to score."

Two weeks ago, Bench's shoulder was so badly bruised from a collision at home plate "that I couldn't take my uniform off with my left arm...For a while there, I couldn't extend my arm while swinging. I was favoring it. Now it's all starting to come back," said the Reds' All Star catcher.

McGraw, making his fifth appearance for the Phils—and extending his scoreless relief work to 7 2/3 innings—halted a St. Louis threat in the seventh after Wayne Twitchell had walked Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore with two out.

Twitchell and McGraw combined for a five-hitter and were backed by Mike Schmidt's two-run homer, his fifth blast of the year.

Cubs 7, Expos 0
Bill Bonham pitched a three-hitter and got home run support from Rob Sperring and Jose Cardenal in Chicago's victory over the Expos.

"I had the best stuff early in the game, then I went mainly to the fastball," said Bonham.

For three innings, he pitched perfect ball, then gave up a leadoff single in the fourth. "You can't complain when everything works out and you get a shutout," he said.

Dodgers 5, Astros 1
Jim Wynn's tie-breaking single in the sixth inning and three-run homer in the eighth supported Andy Messersmith's six-hit pitching in the Dodgers' triumph over Houston.

Messersmith chalked up his ninth straight victory over two seasons and his fifth in a row this season as Los Angeles won its 11th game in the last 13 games.

Giants 6, Braves 2
Jim Barr pitched a six-hitter and Willie Montanez, in his second game since Philadelphia traded him to San Francisco, hit his first home run for the Giants to beat Atlanta.

San Francisco got two unearned runs in the first, Chris Speier doubled in the fourth and scored on Dave Rader's single, the Giants added a run in the seventh on Derrel Thomas' single, Montanez homered in the eighth and Bobby Murcer drove in the final run with a sacrifice fly in the ninth. Mike Lum homered for the Braves.

Pirates 6, Mets 1
Manny Sanguillen, who drilled a pair of run-scoring doubles in Pittsburgh's 2-1 victory Tuesday night, had four of the Bucs' 16 hits against the Mets this time. And one of them scored Richie Zisk, just after Zisk had slashed a tie-breaking double in the fourth inning. Rennie Stennett's bases-loaded single off reliever Harry Parker added two runs in the sixth. Jerry Reuss, who finished with an eight-hitter for the Pirates, lost his shutout early, giving up Jesus Alou's run-scoring single in the third.

CHS Blanked By Hillsboro

Biff Bumgarner turned in a fine pitching performance for the Tigers but couldn't get a break as Circleville was blanked 2-0 by Hillsboro on the Indians' diamond.

Bumgarner scattered four hits, walked two and fanned five. He didn't give up a hit after the second inning.

"It was a tough loss for Biff as he turned in one of the best pitching performances we have had all year," coach John Lawhorn stated.

John Larimer was on the mound for Hillsboro. He gave up three hits, three walks and struck out five.

Hillsboro scored single runs in the bottom of the first and second innings to cop the contest.

Randy Thomas led the Tigers with a double and single and Dave Bevan had a one-bagger for the Tigers' other hit.

Circleville is scheduled at Uniono Friday and will host Miami Trace 1 p.m. Saturday.

Vikings Lose To Rangers

Teays Valley protected a one-run lead for five innings but visiting Hamilton Township plated a pair of markers in the top of the sixth and added a single tally in the seventh to take a 3-1 decision over the Vikings in a Metropolitan League clash Wednesday.

Mark Messick scattered 10 hits and was sailing along in good shape until the fateful sixth. He struck out two and only walked two Rangers in the contest.

Tom Becker gave up a lone run in the first and then became stingy with the base knocks to gain the in for Hamilton Twp. He allowed three hits, five walks and fanned three.

It was a well played contest with both teams playing errorless ball.

Chuck Glitt had a double while Brad Stuhard and Steve Williams each rapped a single to account for the Viking hits.

Teays Valley is now 15-7, 5-3 in the league, and will be at Dublin 4:30 p.m. today.

Stock Car Racer Faces Son-Rivals

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Jack Bowsher, winner of 21 U.S. Auto Club stock car races, faces friendly, but tough rivals this year.

The Springfield veteran will race against his son, 19-year-old Gary, and possibly his oldest boy, Jim, on the USAC circuit.

"Gary passed me in one race last year," Jack said. "He got me on a corner and went by underneath."

"I was tickled that he did it. But I didn't let him, that's for damn sure," dad continued.

Gary began racing as a 16-year-old at Tri-County Speedway.

Said his father, "Gary has been helping me since he was a kid. For a guy his age, he knows a lot about racing."

The Bowshers faced one another very little on tracks in 1974, however. Jack explained, "All my cars were outdated a year ago. We didn't have any dirt cars."

Dad Bowsher says a pair of Ford Torinos and a Mustang give them a full-stable of cars this season.

Jack is 44 years old. And he saw little competition last year. Still, he thinks that old knowhow is there.

"I don't think you lose it," he said. "It's instinctive to a degree. It's programmed into you."

"If you know how to swim, but hadn't been in the water in five years you still wouldn't hesitate to dive in, would you?"

Nor has his competitive fire diminished.

"I still want to race," he said, "but not to go here, there and everywhere like I did when I was young...running like a madman to win."

the Kentucky Derby winner won't take his second leg in the Triple Crown series.

Master Derby, fourth in last Saturday's Derby, and Native Guest, winner of the El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park, would require a $10,000 supplementary entry fee because they were not nominated for the 1 3/4 mile classic.

Native Guest, a winner of four straight, was added to the fluctuating field Wednesday when owner W.A. Levin advised that the colt would arrive Saturday at Pimlico Race Course, site of the May 17 Preakness.

Foolish Pleasure, who has lost only one of 12 career starts, is already on the Pimlico grounds. So are Avatar, Diabolo and Bold Chapeau, the second, third and eighth-place finishers in the Derby.

Master Derby, Singh and El Pitirre are due to arrive Friday. Just The Time, winner of last year's Belmont Futurity who has made only one start this season, is scheduled to check in Monday.

Saturday's running of the Preakness Prep should go a long way toward clarifying the size of the field Foolish Pleasure will face as he continues his quest to become the 10th Triple Crown champion.

Singh, winner of the Peter Pan, Swift and a division of the Gotham before being kept out of the Derby by an injury, is expected to start in the Preakness regardless of how he fares in the Prep.

But El Pitirre, North of the Law, and possibly one or two others would have to show well in the Prep if they are to head for the $150,000-added Preakness.

Mickey Lolich threw the pitch where he wanted...low and inside. George Scott hit it where he wanted...low and inside third base.

And when the Milwaukee Brewers were through running around the bases, three of them had scored and Scott was on second with a tie-breaking double that powered the Brewers to a 7-5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's exploded for nine runs in the seventh inning, the last four on Sal Bando's grand slam homer, and bopped the California Angels 9-1, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5, the Baltimore Orioles downed the New York Yankees 4-3, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians 4-2 and the Chicago White Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2 with three runs in the ninth inning.

Milwaukee and Detroit were tied 4-4 when Darrell Porter opened the Brewers' seventh with a triple off the previously unbeaten Lolich. One out later, walks to Don Money and Robin Yount loaded the bases. Bobby Mitchell struck out but Scott laced his double down the thirdbase line on a 2-2 pitch—a low, inside slider.

"To be honest," Scott said, "I think it was the type of pitch I would make an out on nine out of every 10 times. I wanted to hit the ball hard. It was a hell of a pitch, down and inside. I was lucky to get my bat on it. I wasn't looking for anything. With two strikes you can't look for a certain pitch."

How about it, Mickey?
"It would have been a ball, but most of my slider strikeouts are on balls," Lolich said. "Scotty's a big, free swinger. I'd rather pitch to those guys. Usually a big swinger takes a big cut at that slider and they miss."

Milwaukee jumped to a 4-1 lead with a four-run fourth inning, including Sixto Lezcano's three-run homer. The Tigers tied it with three in the bottom of the fourth.

A's 9, Angels 1
Held to two hits over the first six innings by Bill Singer, the A's erupted for nine runs in the seventh, climaxed by the seventh grand slam homer of Bando's career. The big inning made Vida Blue, who hurled a six-hitter, the American League's first six-game winner. California's run was unearned.

Bullets Set To Wipe Out Boston Hopes

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Bullets, with a tenacious defense and Wes Unseld a titan on the backboards, stand poised to eliminate Boston's defending champions from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We're in a deep hole, but we're not counted out of it yet," Boston's John Havlicek said after Washington won 119-108 Wednesday night and took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals.

Trying to rally his slumping mates, Havlicek recalled past heroics when the Celtics overcame a similar deficit to beat Philadelphia and tied New York before losing a deciding seventh game.

But this time, unless a freak injury to Washington guard Jimmy Jones intercedes, the Celtics appear disorganized against a team hungry for its first NBA title.

Only a spirited comeback prevented a complete rout before a capacity 19,035 fans in Capital Centre after the Bullets had taken a 21-point lead early in the third period.

Don Nelson, like Havlicek a 12-year veteran, conceded that the pressure would be on the Celtics when Game 5 is played in Boston Friday night.

See Close Battle In Golf Tournament

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Miami (Ohio), Ball State and Bowling Green are expected to wage a close battle in the first two rounds of the Mid-American Conference golf tournament Friday and Saturday.

The first 36 holes will be played over Kent State's par-69, 5,327-yard layout. The final 36 are scheduled for Western Michigan May 16-17. Those rounds will be at the par-72, 6,400-yard Lake Doster Country Club.

Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals says he prefers a five-man starting pitching staff.

International Hockey League's Turner Cup as the Goaldiggers skated to a 6-5 victory over Saginaw in the seventh and deciding game Wednesday.

The victory capped a remarkable season for the Goaldiggers, an expansion team. But, more than that, it was a testament to Coach Ted Garvin who started the season with "something to prove."

Garvin guided Port Huron to a Turner Cup two years ago and soon thereafter was named to coach the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. But Detroit shortly dumped him in favor of Alex Delvecchio.

The first period ended in a 1-1 tie. John Gravel opened the scoring for Saginaw at 11:21 of the first period, but Toledo's Don Westbrook matched that at 17:06.

In the second period Toledo opened the scoring at 2:25 off the stick of Ian MacPhee. Saginaw's Stu Irving followed with a pair at 8:31 and 9:32. Toledo's Jim McCabe scored at 15:29.

Then Saginaw broke loose for a pair goals. Dennis Desrosiers hit one for the Gears at 16:44. Jim Johnston scored at 18:30.

Donnie Craig closed out the second period's scoring for Toledo with a goal at 18:53 and Saginaw skated off with a 5-4 lead to the delight of 5,515 hometown fans at the Saginaw Civic Center.

In the third period Michael Laurendeau tied it for Toledo at 3:15 to set up Kudrasovs' clincher. Toledo goalie Ted Tucker turned away 44 shots while Gears' goalie Rollin Kimble kicked out 31.

Bando's slam came off Chuck Dobson, the fourth California pitcher in the inning. The A's used four pinch hitters, three pinch runners and got six hits in the big rally. Gene Tenace singled home the tying run, Jim Holt put the A's ahead with a pinch single, Claudell Washington delivered a two-run single and Angel Mangual drove in a run with an infield hit.

Royals 6, Rangers 5
Kansas City got consecutive run-scoring doubles by John Mayberry and Hal McRae in the fourth inning and took a 4-0 lead behind Steve Busby. Then they scored two unearned runs that proved decisive in the eighth on two Texas errors, a walk and Jim Wolford's runcoring single. That offset RBI singles by Jim Sundberg and Tom Grieve in the Texas ninth.

George Brett started the Royals' two-run second inning with a double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Frank White. Martinez walked, Fred Patek singled and Amos Otis scored Martinez with a single.

The Rangers scored three runs in the fifth on a walk, Roy Smalley's double, a single by Sundberg and Willie Davis' double.

Orioles 4, Yankees 3
Al Bumbry lashed his fourth hit, a tie-breaking bases-loaded single off relief ace Sparky Lyle with two out in the ninth inning, lifting Baltimore to victory behind the five-hit pitching of Yankee-killer Mike Cuellar.

The Orioles tied the score 3-3 on Bobby Grich's two-out two-run homer in the eighth after loser Doc Medich issued a leadoff walk to pinch hitter Tom Shopay.

Ken Singleton started the winning rally with a one-out single and took second on Brooks Robinson's sacrifice bunt. Ellie Hendricks walked and Lyle came on to walk pinch hitter Tommy Davis, loading the bases. Bumbry then drilled his game-winning hit to center.

Red Sox 4, Indians 2
Jim Rice's homer triggered Boston's tie-breaking three-run sixth inning against Fritz Peterson. Following Rice's homer, Rico Petrocelli, Dwight Evans and Tony Conigliaro singled to make it 3-1 and Evans scored on Bob Montgomery's grounder.

The Indians got a second-inning run off winner Reggie Cleveland on consecutive singles by George Hendrick, Pico Carty and John Ellis. The Red Sox tied it in the fifth when Doug Griffin singled, Juan Beniquez was hit by a pitch and Rick Burleson singled.

Cleveland scored again in the eighth on Oscar Gamble's triple and Boog Powell's single.

White Sox 3, Twins 2
Deron Johnson's two-run pinch single with the bases loaded capped a three-run ninth-inning rally. Bert Blyleven blanked the White Sox on five hits for eight innings but was replaced by Bill Campbell after issuing a leadoff walk to Bill Melton in the ninth.

One out later, singles by Tony Muser and pinch hitter Ken Henderson produced Chicago's first run. Campbell walked Brian Downing to load the bases and Johnson greeted Tom Burgmeier with his game-winning hit. Bob Darwin doubled home Minnesota's first run in the opening inning and then smashed a sixth-inning homer.

Sneva Brothers Eye Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The way things are going, with a little luck there could be five members of the Sneva clan in the starting lineup at some future Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Last year there was Tom Sneva, known as the racing schoolteacher or the mad schoolbus driver, who was the fastest rookie in the 35-car starting field.

Now there is Jerry Sneva, who was sitting peacefully at home in Spokane, Wash., earlier this week when the phone rang.

"Pack a bag and get out here," brother Tom advised. "I found you a ride."

On Tuesday, Jerry caught a flight to Indianapolis, convinced U.S. Auto Club officials to issue him a conditional competition license and headed for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

By Wednesday afternoon, he was taking his first laps around the 2½-mile oval in an older model Offenhauser-powered car owned by builder Frank Curtis. Jerry sort of suspects the car won't make the May 25 race.

Like Tom, younger brother Jerry—"just an assistant manager at a car dealership"—is a graduate of the supermodified circuits in the Pacific Northwest, where brothers Babe, 23, Jan, 21, and Blaine, 18, have toiled also. Babe, however, has been in a coma since a racing crash last summer.

"Jerry is a year younger than me—physically," said 26-year-old Tom, adding humorously, "but mentally..."

The comment earned a solid punch in the arm from Jerry.

Jerry, who is somewhat heavier but resembles Tom, has found the Speedway a little confusing. He was introduced to someone in the garage area as Tom Sneva and he didn't know what to do.

"Don't tell them who you really are until they find out if they have a ride for you," Tom kidded.

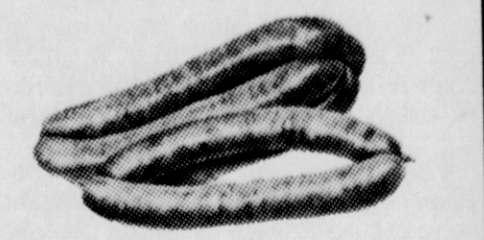

The only other brothers on the USAC championship circuit are Al and Bobby Unser, both former Indy winners.

"Tell Bobby and Al they don't need to worry about us for a while," Jerry said with mock seriousness. "Tom's probably ready to run with them, but I may need a little more time."

New Law School Wins Approval

DAYTON (AP)—The League of Ohio Law Schools has approved membership of the University of Dayton School of Law, assuring graduates the right to take the Ohio Bar Examination.

Richard Braun, dean of the school of law, said this is the second of two approvals required for a new law school.

The first, accomplished in February, was provisional accreditation from the American Bar Association.

Peltier Cautions Advertisers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Commerce Director Gordon Peltier cautioned advertisers Wednesday to watch those ads with a thought to a new state rule on advertisements.

The Commerce Department rule specifies that significant exclusions and limitations in ads must be stated clearly and conspicuously and in close proximity to words stating a special offer.

The rule states: "Disclosure shall be easily legible to anyone reading the advertising or promotional literature and shall be sufficiently specific so as to leave no reasonable probability that the terms of the offer might be misunderstood."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Things should be fairly stable in both your business and personal life now.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Avoid a tendency toward impulsiveness. In moments of stress, slow down rather than take steps to a position from which it may be hard to extricate yourself.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Generous Mercury influences stimulate your ingenuity and imagination. Use both well and results will please. Reach for the unusual; study new trends.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You can advance through association with those who stimulate your thinking and imagination — especially if aims and objectives are mutual.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): New and unusual ideas, thoughtfully carried out, could bring gains. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Pleasing recognition for your work on a recent project now raises your self-esteem and gives you a warm glow of satisfaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. Try, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle an optimistic outlook toward the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with fine discrimination, unusual business acumen and great versatility along artistic channels. You could write, paint or become an outstanding success as an entertainer either in the musical or dramatic field. You could also teach or preach, and are capable of attracting large audiences through your personality and magnetism.

You could excel at the law and through it, reach the heights in either a statesmanship or diplomacy. No matter what field you choose, however, you will almost inevitably take up one of the arts as a hobby or avocation. Birthdate of: Sir James M. Barrie, Eng. novelist, dramatist; Henry J. Army Engineers In Power Grab?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Opposition is developing to a proposal that could require some homeowners to get an Army Corps of Engineers permit before filling a backyard swimming pool and certain farmers to seek permission to plow.

The proposal by the Army Engineers would give them ironclad rule over virtually every natural and artificial body of water in the nation.

Under the plan some potential homeowners would need a permit before digging a basement for their home and certain golf course greenskeepers would need federal permission to build a new sandtrap.

Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said the panel would "have the gravest concern" over any action that could have such a "far reaching impact on agriculture."

A spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation said the strongest of the corps' proposals "smacks of the sort of federal power grab of which we've seen far too much already."

A spokesman for the corps said the key factor in such strange areas as golf courses, backyard swimming pools and basements is whether the area has ever been flooded by a navigable stream.

If so, it lies on the flood plain and comes under corps jurisdiction. Permission would be necessary to move more than one cubic yard of dirt in these areas, the spokesman said.

The proposal was one of four issued Tuesday by the Army engineers in response to a U.S. District Court decision expanding the corps' jurisdiction over dredge and fill operations from "navigable waters" to "waters of the United States."

The corps then published four alternative definitions.

The four alternatives are:

—Give the corps authority over every coastal and inland artificial and natural body of water in the nation, including wetlands. The corps said this "would extend federal authority to regulate dredge and fill operations in thousands of square miles of land protected by levees." It also would require a rancher obtain a federal permit to enlarge a stock pond or deepen an irrigation ditch, the corps said.

—Limit corps authority on coastal waters to the mean high water mark or salt water vegetation line, whichever is greater, and inland waters to navigable streams and their primary

Budget Proposal Kills Pay Raises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - State employees would be precluded from receiving any pay increase before Oct. 1 under the new state budget bill majority Democrats announced in the legislature Tuesday night.

The chief sponsor, Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, said the date was agreed upon and it was explained that it would take that long to gear up computers for new step increases provided in the bill.

tributaries up to their headwaters. The corps said that under this proposal, permits would not be required for most dredge and fill operations involving less than 100 cubic yards of material.

—Enlarge corps jurisdiction to waters defined in proposal No. 1 but follow current permit procedures only for navigable waters. For stock ponds, drainage ditches and other similar bodies of water, permits would be

agency objected.

—Limit corps jurisdiction to the waters defined in alternative No. 2 and issue permits as in No. 3.

The corps prefers No. 4, but it said the Environmental Protection Agency, which could veto any permits, favors alternative No. 1. The corps asked for public comment on the proposals before June 6.

Time Is Important Factor In Land Clearing Business

TIME SAVER—The helicopter is a real time saving tool for Robert Drummond, Orient, who turns swamps and brush land into profitable agricultural acres for Ohio farmers. Drummond (left) provided Herald

editor Steve Jones (right) with a tour of the Scioto River valley south from Circleville Tuesday. Also receiving aerial tours were Tom Rodenfels, Herald General Manager and Cindy Sims, Herald employee.

CLEARING SITE—Giant land clearing machines clear brush from the land owned by John and Elizabeth Stevenson. The brush is pushed into windrows where it is allowed to rot. On the Stevenson farm which is in the Scioto River flood plain, surface drainage is being improved to allow the flood waters to recede more quickly.

By CINDY SIMS
And STEVE JONES

Time is of essence to Robert Drummond, Route 1, Orient, owner operator of Drummond Land Clearing Co., and a farmer.

His mammoth land clearing machinery is designed to do the job as quickly and as efficiently as possible and Drummond supervises, surveys the jobs prior to and during the operation, contacts farmers and looks after his farm all from the seat of his helicopter.

He spends about seven hours a day in the $66,000 chopper which he acquired through a lease purchase agreement negotiated by the Second National Bank of Circleville and its parent corporation, BancOhio.

Drummond had 150 hours of flight training before he began solo flying. He has now logged about 450 hours in the air and expects to utilize the machine about 1,000 hours a year in supervising his state-wide operation.

He took his flight training at Capital Helicopters Corp. in Columbus under James Long and received his license in February of this year. The helicopter is used entirely for business as he finds little time for pleasure flights.

Although his land clearing techniques have attracted international attention, Drummond limits his work to the state of Ohio where he has found more than enough to keep him busy without an excessive amount of travel.

Using his huge crawler tractors, massive plows and chisels and giant backhoes, Drummond's crews clear the land of brush and trees, grade it to provide the proper service drainage, rake the brush into windrows where it will be allowed to decay, and prepare the ground for planting.

The windrows occupy about five per cent of the cleared land. In five to ten years after the brush and wood in them has decayed, they are leveled.

The success of the land clearing operation is attributed in a large part to his crew by Drummond. They are Jim McAfee, co-operator, John Gifford, Terry Woodengear, Bill Edwards, Joe Cartville and Bill Brown.

On jobs over 30 miles from Pickaway County, a trailer which contains a field shop and living quarters for the men is located on site so the men do not have to use valuable time traveling to and from work.

Another key to the success of the operation is Bob's wife, Patsy. She helps with the business and runs the company office from their home.

Right now a land clearing project along the Scioto River on a farm owned by John and Elizabeth Stevenson is being completed. The project here includes clearing the land, preparing it for crops and cleaning a drainage ditch so surface water after floods can get away from the area more quickly.

The next assignment will take Drummond's crew to Warsaw.

Much clearing and ditching in Pickaway County has been done by Drummond. The crews work the year around but January through March are largely spent in the shop preparing the equipment for the busy summer months.

Drummond became interested in land clearing back in the 1950s when his father purchased a dozer to clear land they owned. Bob branched out clearing land for neighbors in addition to his regular farming operation.

In 1964 the clearing business became his prime occupation and farming just a sideline, if you can call supervising a 460 farming operation a sideline.

Veterans Memorial Airport News

Airport Manager

Well, here we are again. Maybe instead of again, I should say still and that surprises even me. It's been a great week for the airport with a lot of people from the area really getting involved in what's happening here.

We received our new furniture last Thursday compliments of the Veterans' Monumental Association. Did I tell you that last week? In any case, I'll probably keep on talking about it.

Other contributors are: a clock from T. K. Brunner and Son Jewelers; a new coffee pot from Keith Thomerson of Sentry Hardware; a beautiful walnut room divider from Mason Furniture; an end table from Asa Elsea; a coffee table and bar stool from Sears; a table lamp and picture from the Tradition House; picnic table compliments of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips; a concrete sidewalk from the administration building to the ramp from Bob and Karen Wilkinson and son; six trees from Cole Nursery personally planted by Bob Lyons and Bob made me promise to say if they're crooked its because I'm cross-eyed.

Jack Goode of Goode's Nursery and Pickaway Gardens was out May 2. He's going to landscape the area around the administration building and picnic area with shrubs and flowers. After I took Jack for a plane ride, he stated he'd still give us the shrubs and flowers.

People like this, who just come out on their own and donate their skill and time and things from their business, are what's going to make this airport something we can all use and be proud of. A pilot from RCA came in Tuesday to pick up some material for the local plant and he stated, so all could hear, that Pickaway County had the finest airport of any county he's visited in the United States. Now, that's a big chunk to say, but money and publicity don't care about other people and give of themselves as the people of Circleville and Pickaway County are doing can bring comments like that.

Laotian students protesting against rising prices and foreign economic domination hurled rocks at the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane today and tried to haul down the American flag.

A U.S. Marine guard snatched the flag from two students before it hit the ground and pro-Communist Pathet Lao and government police drove students back from the compound. No injuries were reported.

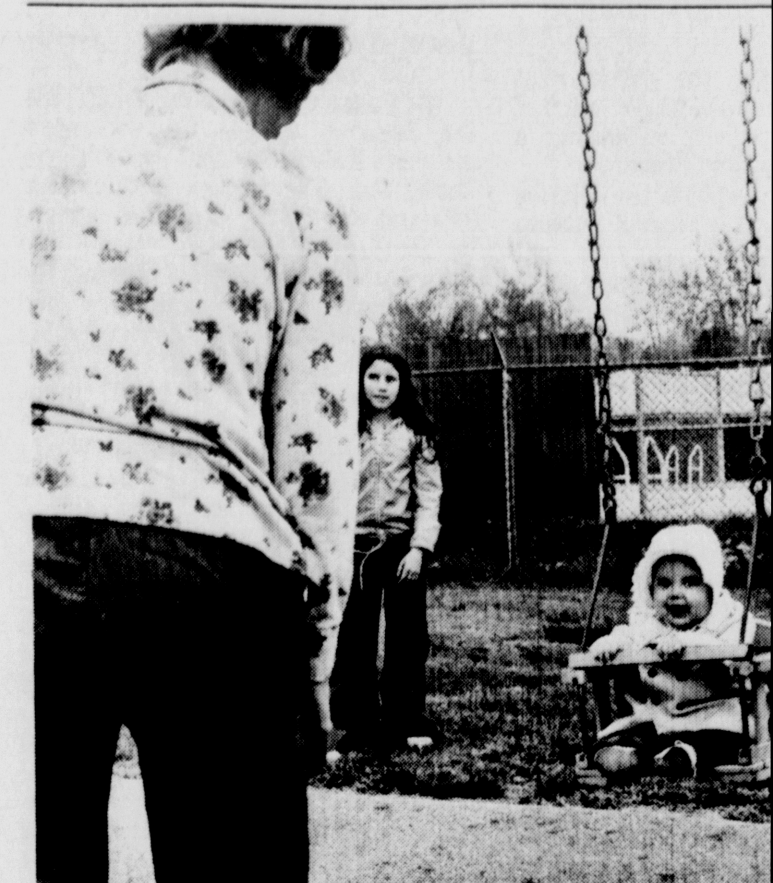

Meanwhile, Saigon radio reports said long distance buses and trains are beginning services in South Vietnam where for years flying was the only safe way to travel. Cambodia reported that it had begun a campaign to clean up "the stink and pungent smells left behind by the traitors," and to open its chief seaport, Kompong Som.

Fuel Adjustme Clause Necess Committee To

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legislative committee was told Thursday that the controversial fuel adjustment clause is necessary for the survival of the state's electrical utilities.

Bruce Mansfield, retired chairman of the Ohio Edison Co., said without the adjustment clause, the utilities would not be able to recoup their own losses from higher fuel costs.

And a vice president of Standard and Poor's Corp., which serves much as a credit bureau for corporations, said lack of the fuel adjustment clause would be a blow to the utilities' credit rating because of the "potentially rapid deterioration which could occur."

The clause provides for a pass-through increase to customers for higher fuel costs.

"Most states, in view of the cost and shortage of talent in the regulatory arena, have used the automatic cost of fuel adjustment clause as a necessary evil," said H. Russell Fraser, vice president in charge of corporate finance for Standard and Poor's.

"Management and regulators both agree this method leaves a lot to be desired, but to date it remains the most efficient system devised by man."

"I would have to say a fuel cost adjustment clause with as little lag time as possible is a necessity unless some other more desirable quick and efficient method could be created," he said.

Mansfield told the committee that the clauses "are legal, proper and

Indochinese Military In Training Pose Pro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 530 Cambodian and South Vietnamese military men continue to receive training at U.S. bases and service schools even though their armies, navies and air forces are no more.

"For the moment, it's the least disruptive action we can take," a Pentagon spokesman said, noting that the Indochinese are integrated into training with military students from the United States and other nations.

A few of the 300 Cambodian and 230 South Vietnamese officers and enlisted men have indicated a wish to return to their homelands, officials said. But the U.S. government has not yet decided how this problem will be handled.

"We're not going to keep anybody here against his will," one official said. "Current plans call for them to remain where they are presently located until their future status can be determined."

A small number have dependents with them, the Pentagon said. Their cases are currently under study by the Defense Department and an interagency task force considering
